Student Government Elections!

Winskowicz and Pelletier Victorious

Bob Winskowicz and Kevin Pelletier won the Student Government positions of President and Vice-president respectively by a considerable margin over their competitors on April 14th.

"The competition was tough, but we had no idea such a margin would exist. We're just glad that all the time, money and energy paid off," Pelletier commented.

"I feel by tackling smaller projects instead of trying to accomplish everything, we can be most productive," said Winskowicz.

Their project goals are as follows:

1. Set priorities with the projected decline in student government monies, we feel students have to set their priorities. hey must determine which will be more utilized and most feasible. (a) Raquetball program (b) Legal Clinic (c) Tennis Courts.

2. Develop means by which Student Government can increase revenues. Ideas have already been formulated, but nothing on paper as of yet, except changing banks in order to put Student Government monies into a Now Account in order to earn substantial interest, and putting 1981-82 excess money into a certificate.

3. Set up committee to review Arrowhead Lounge business--Form a committee to find out if Arrowhead Lounge would be a good business endeavor for Student Government. If so, it could provide Student Government with revenue.

4. Deal with current problems: (a) Soot problem (b) Apathy (c) Vandalism.

5. Increased awareness of Senate business: (a) Kevin and Bob will hold Resident floor meetings every 2-3 months (b) they will attend commuter meetings (c) Distribute minutes of every Senate meeting to everyone (d) Extensive advertisement of Senate meetings.

"The Senate has become an active and respected body. We feel we have the experience necessary to maintain and enhance the activeness and respect the present Student Government has established. We feel the foundation has been laid, now we need the Student support to build the house," said Winskowicz.

The Spectator would like to congratulate Bob and Kevin, and wish them luck in the upcoming year and in their endeavors.

Nursing Program

A proposed nursing program at Husson College will be closer to reality today (April 6) when Governor Joseph E. Brennan signs into law a bill giving the Bangor college authority to grant a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree.

The bill, LD 1851, was overwhelmingly passed by the Maine House and Senate last Monday and gives all but final approval to the joint program of Husson and Eastern Maine Medical Center. The program is scheduled to begin in September, 1983.

Husson president Delmont N. Merrill praised the legislators for their support of the bill, saying that, "it is reassuring to find in Augusta such strong support for quality academic programs."

Merrill noted that this bill marks the seventh time that Husson has been before the legislature and each time has been successful in securing legislation.

The nursing program represents a departure from traditional Husson business curricula, say College officials, and "is a major step in the continuing development of Husson College and one that will enable the College to help alleviate a shortage of nurses in eastern Maine that is nearing critical proportions."

With legislative approval of the program, Husson and EMMC officials can now turn to working out the final details of the program, says Merrill. Plans call for Husson to provide humanities and science courses to the nursing students with EMMC offering clinical courses and experiences. The program differs from traditional nurse-training programs in that clinical experiences are integrated throughout the four-year program.

"The nursing students will have the option of living on the Husson campus," says Merrill, "and will have all college services and opportunities for personal development available to them."

According to Merrill, the program is the result of close cooperation between Husson and EMMC, a future employer of the nursing graduates, and that the proposed program "is consistent with the College's commitment to work with Maine employers to help meet their personnel needs."

Editorial

At this time I would like to thank everybody involved with the Spectator during the past academic year. It has been a long hard year as far as the newspaper is concerned, with problems cropping up in many forms such as: no writers, no pictures or poor photography work, transportation, deadlines not being met; the list could go on and on. As Editor of the Spectator, I have had to take on many tasks that the normal Editor would not. I have had to write much more than the Editor of any newspaper should; I have had to type until wee hours of the morning on several occasions; I have had to do the layout of the newspaper by myself because of the technicalities involved, etc.

Through all of this I have learned more than any class or book could ever teach me. I have had to deal with problems as they unexpectedly appear and keep a responsible and level head throughout the course of it all. The experience gained is something I shall always use and be thankful for. I have made friends and enemies, as anyone in my position would, but I have learned to take criticism where it was due. Along that train of thought, let me thank the following people for their helpful suggestions and constructive criticism throughout the year:

Scott Spooner - for being more than a friend; Bob Winskowicz - for keeping me on my toes; Adele Conklin and Jeff Burgdoerfer - for standing behind me when the pressure was heavy; Ann Ward (my roommate) - for being so patient and understanding during "paper week" as I spent late nights typing articles in our room; Al Weymouth and Ed Lebrun - my Co-advisors; Saiful Huda (my Assistant) - for putting up with my last minute demands on his time; Brian Wood (my Business Manager) - for doing a superior job with the advertisements; Debbie Carey and Tammy Kelley - for lending a helping hand with the heavy typing load; Liz Russell and Mike Sirabella (my photographers) - for spending late hours in the darkroom and coming through at the last minute. And last, but certainly not least, President Delmont Merrill - for making himself available to hear my complaints and help me out at any time.

In closing, let me express my concern for next year's Spectator. It is my hope that more students will show an interest and get involved with the paper. It is my opinion that there could never be too many writers! I have put forth all my effort to do the best job that I possibly could, and that's all that was expected of me.

Have a great summer and I'll see you in the Fall!

I'm Confused...

by Paul Haroldsen

Do you want to hear the one word that gets me confused? Religion. Every time I sit back and think about it, I get confused.

Religion. How do you define it? Webster defines it as "the service and worship of God or the supernatural." Who is God? How did he get here? Why doesn't he show himself to us? Why did he put us on Earth?

Do you see what I mean? I'm confused. Try reading the Bible sometime. That has got to be the most confusing book that was ever printed. On one page God mentions to Moses, "Thow shalt not kill." On the very next page God tells Moses in full detail how he is to kill the seven nations that live on the land which was promised to Abraham. There must be a million and one contradictions in the Bible.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not an atheist. As a matter of fact, I'm a Catholic. A confused Catholic!!!

I came up with my own definition of religion...A means of achieving certain needs. I think people use religion to help them answer certain questions. When they don't know the answer to certain questions. Examples can be, "Where did we come from?" "How were the earth and universe formed?" And then there are questions like, "Why does California keep having earthquakes?" and the answer would be "Because the people are all living in sin and deserve to be punished."

I think other people use religion as a means of hope when they die. "Oh, this world stinks; but when I die and go to heaven, heaven will be much more beautiful than Earth."

Religion can also be used as a means of talking to someone (God) when you are down. How many times have you heard someone say after a loved one has died, "God, please bring him back."

I also think religion can be used to guide a person's life. "Oh, I better not think about that or I'll go to Hell!"

I believe in God and in Christ. I strongly believe that they both exist, but I don't know why. I've tried to figure out what needs I have that I believe in God; probably a little of everything I mentioned.

All I know, is that when I sit back and think about religion, I get confused!

Where Is Security When You Need Them?

by Debbie Carey

Why is it that strangers can walk into our buildings in the middle of the night and watch us sleep, steal items out of the lounges, and students can vandalize the dorms? Where is our so-called Labree security the whole time?

The TV was stolen out of the TV lounge in Hart Hall in the middle of the night by non-Husson people, and the next night two men tried to steal the furniture out of Hart foyer and an RA had to catch them in the act; the men got away. Where was security who is supposed to patrol the dorms? In February two men picked the locks and unlawfully entered a girl's room in Hart, and a girl's room in Carlisle. None of the girls were hurt, but scared. The doors were locked on the girls' rooms, but not the doors entering the building. Why not?

And furthermore, why is security on duty in the Dining Commons? What do they think we're going to do, run off with the silverware? Why aren't they out keeping an eye on this campus, which is what they are paid to do.

I don't know about you, but I think that security has to be either improved or changed altogether. Too many things are happening that aren't supposed to be on this campus, and will continue to happen unless something is done about our security system.

Dear Editor:

It has been brought to my attention that the student body of Husson College seems to have a lack of knowledge about what is happening here on campus. This leads to the question, "Why". The answer must lie in the students' inability to read, for most of the events that occur on campus have been reported in either the Spectator or the Pow Wow.

Just for the record, some of the things that the students are still unaware of are: (a) that the student government is no longer funding WHSN, (b) that there is a chess club at school, and (c) that there is a change machine in Carlisle. (Points a and c should also have been reported by the floor Senators.) So tell me, how does one reach the students? COME ON HUSSON -- WAKE UP!

Chief Week 1982

As most of you are aware, the first couple days of this year's Chief Week were a little slow, but the excitement started Saturday night with the excellent performance of Stone Cross. Chief Week was, of course, officially started with the parade on Friday afternoon. Donald and Daisy's float was a little plain but it clearly expressed their theme, "It's a Small World After All." The float consisted of a globe and a wide variety of people. Chip and Dale's float was quite colorfu. It had a tree at one end which was surrounded by flowers (as was most of the float). Their float also had a mysterious man known only as Captain Chicken who, although he was not from Disney, did add a lot of color and humor to the float. The winners of the Float competition were Chip and Dale. Friday's events ended with a dance featuring Sky High.

Saturday's events consisted of a Frisbee throwing contest and two rock bands (Toys and Highway), performing in the Faculty parking lot. Attendance was poor due to the weather, and rain caused the second band to finish early.

Sunday, the day of the Chief Week Olympics, started with the softball game which was won by Donald and Daisy, with a score of 6-2.

The next two events were also won by Donald and Daisy. The first of these was the basketball game which was won by the slimmest of margins - 32-31. The next event (voleyball) was won in an action-filled series of games, with the Ducks taking two out of three matches.

The next event, the relay race, consisted of ten parts. These parts (otherwise known as "legs") and their participants were as follows:

Event

Leg #1 - 50 yard swim; 2 - run from pool to the front of the gym; 3 - Run to Bell tower; 4 - Bike ride to flag pole; 5 - Basketball dribble to Hart; 6 - Run with basketball to courts and make a basket; 7 - Run from courts to Peabody; 8 - Soccer dribble to commuter parking lot; 9 - Run (balancing the baton on a tennis racket) to gym; 10 - Potato race across gym (using nose).

For Chip and Dale: Leg 1 - Brett Goodfellow; 2 - Crystal Peck; 3 - Gail Conway; 4 - Debbie Patnaude; 5 - Michael Williamson; 6 - Kelly ork; 7 - John Dube; 8 - Glen Champain; 9 - Donna Trusiani; 10 - Kevin Turley.

For Donald and Daisy: Leg 1 - Selena Russell; 2 - Katie O'Connor; 3 - Joline Dubord; 4 - Bob Garrish; 5 - Renee Melanson; 6 - Jana Pike; 7 - Larry Brady; 8 - Patrick Lewis; 9 - Roy Buitrago; 10 - Andy Maier

This event was again a close one with Chip and Dale winning by a nose.

These events took us down to the skits. Chip and Dale won this event through the use of a clever and humorous script, whereas Donald and Daisy's skit was a bit dry and contained few good jokes.

The other two determinants of Chief were the Sportsmanship Award and the Popular vote, both of which were won by Chip and Dale.

The Spectator would like to congratulate the Co-Chiefs, Chip and Dale, and to thank all those who helped out in Chief Week to help make it what it is supposed to be - a time when the student body rallies to bring everyone closer together through a series of fun events.

ONE MORE LETTER

Dear Editor:

In writing this letter to you I am pleading for help. I am an inmate in a Federal prison, and my world is full of loneliness and sorrow. I spend 23½ hours a day, 7 days a week in a cell. There's nothing to look forward to, nothing to do. I have no family nor friends, and at times I get feeling so sorry for myself, that I start feeling like no one cares. Sure I made a mistake and I am paying for it. But I am human, I have feelings and thoughts I need and want to share with someone. Editor, you could help me by placing an ad in your campus newspaper for me. Please do try to help me. I just want someone I can call a friend, share my feelings and thoughts with, and correspond with.

Thank you for your help and time.

TEP

by Andrew Dubois

Tau Epsilon Phi (TEP), Husson College's youngest fraternity, had a very uncertain future at the beginning of the spring semester. But after much deliberating and compromising by members of the Husson community, TEP's future is extremely promising.

The fraternity is now recolonizing with 14 new members. The officers are President-Eric Hall; Vice President - Ray Morin; Treasurer - Andrew Dubois; Secretary - David Mclain; Warden - David Whitehorn; Assistant Warden - Dan O'Conner; Historian - Paul Caron; and Chaplain - Craig Chevalier. Other new members include Clark Hemingway, John Landry, Chris Finland, Rick Henry and Craig Worcester.

The new members are anxious and enthused. By working together, the fraternity has successfully sponsored a Red Cross Blood Drive. And during the up and coming weeks, TEP will be having a car wash and marching in the annual March of Dimes Walk-a-thon.

TEP's goal is to gain the respect of the other Greek Organizations as well as the independent community. TEP also hopes to bring the Greek Community closer together.

With the help of TEP's National, the local Omega Upsilon Chi chapter is working towards getting back their fraternity charter, their right to participate in Greek activities, and their lounge privileges.

TEP also extends many thanks to the Student Affairs Office, Terri Hutchinson (Associate Dean of Student Affairs), and Thomas Largay, our very dedicated advisor and friend.

Mellon Calls His Railroad Investment 'Positive'

by Saiful Huda and Mike Gower

The purchase of Maine Central Railroad by Guilford Transportation Industries is "something positive for the Northeast", financier Timothy Mellon told an audience of over 350 people at the Husson Business Breakfast on Thursday, April 22, 1982.

Last summer, Guilford (Mellon's holding company) purchased the Maine Central Railroad and plans to acquire both Boston-Maine and the Delaware-Hudson Railway if approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mellon feels that the combining of these railroads will help Maine's industries for it will allow them to move their goods quicker and with few delays than at present. Mellon further stated, "These three railroads make sense as a business proposition. The Northeast has a bright future and that's why we don't view this investment as a risk, but as an opportunity." Mellon noted that, although the railroad isn't doing well this year, the Maine Central Railroad has only had a deficit in three of the past fifty years. Mellon then listed several items that will bring the railroad back into prosperity. These included:

(A) Coal - power plants, along with many other industries, that converted to oil in the early 70's are beginning to switch back to coal.

(B) trucking Industry - Recent deregulation has led the trucking industry to change its prices, thus making railroad more competitively priced.

(C) Bath Iron Works expansion will lead to added business in the Portland area.

The merger of the three railroads will enable the emerging business to compete in the market of railroad prices. Under single ownership, the three railroads will be able to compete with the government-operated consolidated Railroads such as Conrail.

Through the merger a balance will be created in the system. The Boston and Maine Railroad is mostly a terminating carrier. Most freights end the journey on their lines, and the box cars return empty to their departure point. The Maine Central is both terminating and originating, while Delaware and Hudson is neither beginning nor ending. Thus, a merger of the three systems will make them more efficient, stated Mellon.

Maine Central Railroad had net earnings of more than $4 million in 1981, a record in the railroad's history, according to John F. Gerity, president of Maine Central Railroad. In a brief address he told the full house audience that despite a financially difficult first quarter in 1982, the future appears positive. Gerity addressed the breakfast audience before Mellon's speech and emphasized an optimistic future both for Maine Central and the railroad industry. The condition of the economy, the state of the pulp and paper industry, and the company's ability to control expenses were the key factors that will determine the level of success for 1982, added Gerity.

In closing, Mellon stated that an investment in Maine is very sound because Maine citizens are involved with their communities which gives the communities the ability to regenerate themselves.

Thursday's Business Breakfast - a smashing success - concluded the series for the academic year, and will resume in the Fall.

"The Hikers In Action"

YOUNGSTERS

by Stephanie Look

The Bangor Daily News, on April 19, 1982, stated in an article titled "Jordan Tops on Souadabscook as Mother Nature Cooperates"..."one rubber raft was witnessed navigating the stream, being piloted by a couple of youngsters who appeared to be under 15 years of age."

These "youngsters" were, in fact, Husson's own Barbara Peppey, Special Services Counselor and Linda Bates, Husson student.

Barbara and Linda were the only competitors in the race using a rubber raft, and tipped into the icy water just once.

ICLS Chief Leaves For State Department

Dr. Ernest Parkin Takes a New Job

by Saiful Huda

Dr. Ernest Parkin has a new job. The charismatic director of the International Center for Language Studies at Husson College is leaving at the end of April to join the Department of State as a Foreign Service Officer. "I'll be going to Washington for training, and then I'll be sent overseas to work at an embassy," stated Dr. Parkin.

He came to Husson in March of 1977 and ICLS began its first term on April 11, 1977. Dr. Parkin is the force behind the success of the ICLS Bangor Branch. "The ICLS program is a series of four-week intensive classes in which students are taught speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills," explained Dr. Parkin.

In the last five years, ICLS has trained hundreds of students from a variety of countries, and has changed greatly over the years. "we opened five years ago with five students and three teachers. We currently enroll about 30 students with 6 instructors. During the summer, which is our peak season, we enroll approximately 60 students," stated Dr. Parkin.

The ICLS program at Husson brings in an international flavor and provides a culturally broadening experience for the Husson students. According to Dr. Parkin, Husson offers both positives and negatives for the ICLS student. "There aren't as many opportunities and activities on a small campus like Husson's as there would be on a larger campus.

The negatives are balanced by positive aspects of the size. "The Husson campus is a comfortable, secure place to live where people try to get along," said Dr. Parkin.

His job as Director of the ICLS program at Husson has always been a positive, according to Dr. Parkin. "It's always hard to leave a job at which you've been satisfied. At Husson I'll leave a number of good friends among the students and staff. Also, I'll miss the Maine lifestyle and recreational opportunties," he said.

Dr. Parkin's duties will be taken over by Robert N. Juckett, who has been an ICLS instructor since this branch opened. "His main duties will be to insure the recruitment of a good, diversified student body at ICLS and to ensure that the teaching remains good," stated Dr. Parkin.

Women's Softball 1982

The 1982 women's softball team has been preparing for their season with what Coach Pam Hennessey describes as an enthusiastic and optimistic attitude despite a recent losing road trip.

Hennessey returns to coaching softball after a number of years, and is joined by Katie Donovan to round out the coaching staff. Hennessey decided to return to coaching softball in order to lend consistency to the women's program.

The '82 squad is led by a veteran nucleus of six returning letterwomen including last year's MVP Bernadette Bell. Bell, a junior co-captain from East Millinocket, plays first base and is described by Hennessey as being one of the speedier runners on the team. Bell's former high school teammate, freshman Lynne Michaud, is the squad's shortstop. Michaud has proven to be a consistent hitter and a solid defensive player.

The pitching duties have been shared by veteran Joan Pettengill and newcomers Shara MacDonald and Debbie Howlett. Pettengille, a sophomore from Center Harbor, nh, has good pitching speed. Joan is a versatile player and may find herself on first or in the outfield when not pitching. Both MacDonald, a freshman from Greenville, and Howlett, a senior from Mars Hill, have strong pitching arms and are both described by Hennessey as power hitters. Shara may also play in the outfield when not pitching, and Debbie has been used as the team's designated hitter.

Freshman Tanya Busch of Minot is the squad's starting catcher. Busch has been described by Hennessey as having an excellent arm and as being a hard-working defensive player.

Senior co-captain Liz Russell is a versatile defensive player who has seen action at third base and centerfield. Barb Rollins, a veteran sophomore from East Corinth, is the starting second baseman. Barb has been a consistent hitter for the Lady Braves this season.

Veterans Jen Noyes and Lori White are the starting left and centerfielders respectively. Both Noyes and White have played well offensively and defensively this season.

Veteran June Marsh, a junior from Tularosa, NM, is a catcher and outfielder, bringing experience to the squad.

Freshmen Tami Ward and Christine Simard add depth to the team. Ward, from Fort Fairfield, is capable of playing outfield and second base. Simard from Jackman is an outfield specialist.

The Lady Braves next game is a doubleheader on May 3 against Bates College at 2:00 p.m. Get out and support the softball team!

Baseball

by Michael Gower

This past Saturday (April 24th) the Brave's baseball team took on and defeated St. Joe's in a double header.

St. Joe's jumped to an early lead in game one by scoring one run in the top of the first. The Braves were determined however, not to lose in front of a home town crowd. The Braves went right to work in the bottom of the first. Glenn McGuire was first up and reached first base on a walk. Glenn then stole second which placed him in scoring position, from which he scored a moment later when Kip Cameron hit a single to center field.

Husson put St. Joe's away in the bottom of the second when, with two outs, Chris Watson, Glenn McGuire, and John Hopping hit back to back doubles which scored two runs.

Husson's final run came in the bottom of the fifth inning. Glenn McGuire singled and was moved to second base on a sacrifice bunt by John Hopping. McGuire then stole third and scored on a fielder's choice hit by Randy Harris.

Game two started out much like the first with St. Joe's scoring a run in the first inning. This early lead didn't last much longer than it did in the first game. Chris Watson's triple and Glenn McGuire's single (which watson scored on) tied the game at one each. Husson's winning run came in the bottom of the fifth. Jeff Crowley was walked and he then stole second base. Crowley was batted in on a two out single by Chris Watson.

Husson's victories over St. Joe's (4-1 pitched by Jimmy Black and 2-1 pitched by Ken Huot) increased the Braves record to eight and four.

Graduation Speaker

College of the Atlantic president Edward G. Kaelber will be the speaker and he and retired Bangor banker Frederic S. Newman will receive honorary degrees at Husson College commencement exercises on Saturday, May 8.

Approximately 240 associate, baccalaureate and graduate degrees will be awarded at the 83rd Husson commencement.

Dance-A-Thon Winners

by Stephanie Look

The senior class Dance-a-thon was a success, as twenty-odd couples danced for eight hours to raise money for the Ronald MacDonald House of Bangor. Over $1500 was raised in all, including donations from local businesses.

The winners of the contests that were held are as follows: the High school that raised the most money - Brewer High School; the organization that raised the most money - Doug's Shop and Save; the couple that raised the most money - Roger Poulin and Robin Roderick; the person that raised the most money - Mike Sharifian; faculty and staff that raised the most money - President and Mrs. Merrill.

The sexiest dancing couple was Mike LaChapelle and Peg Lippincott; the most Original dancing couple - resulting in a tie - John Dube and Debbie Morrone; Scott Morpeth and Stephanie Look; the best dancing couple - Mike Sharifian and Angela; Best single female dancer - Crystal Peck; Best single male dancer - Mike Sharifian.

Congratulations to all the dancers for the effort you put forth!

POINT OF INTEREST

Recently the radio station overdrew on its account because an order of necessary records was slightly oversized. The Program Director, Jonathan Roberts, made a request over the air, that donations would be greatly appreciated to make up the difference, which was only thirty-odd dollars. Pledges began to arrive, and a total of $608.97 was pledged in all. Mr. Roberts remarked, "It makes me happy to know that our listeners are concerned."

Congratulations to David Whitehorn for being chosen as the 1982-83 Job Bank Co-ordinator.

Congratulations to Dick Mooney and Dan Dyer for submitting the correct solution to the last puzzle, which is shown below.
