The Husson Ledger

Fall 1979 (?)

Vol IV No. 1

From The Dean

Jay L. Fennell, Vice-President
Dean for Academic Affairs

This is my first opportunity to report to you as Vice President and Academic Dean of the College the status of the academic area. I began my affiliation with Husson last September, and have thoroughly enjoyed this first year of activity and getting to know the many fine people here.

Early last fall we concluded that a first priority for attention in academics would be a complete review and updating of all of the academic programs offered, along with an investigation of new areas for development. This was a major undertaking for the College, but the work has been completed and Husson begins the fall semester, 1979, with both revised and new programming to meet the needs of students and the business world.

The most dramatic news to report to you is that we have moved into the field of business data processing with both associate and baccalaureate degree programs. To be exact, there are five programs in data processing. In the Business Administration Department there is a baccalaureate degree program in data processing as well as an associate degree program; and, there is a combined marketing and data processing program wherein a student actually completes two concentrations or majors. This program requires an extra half year to complete and awards the baccalaureate degree. In the Accounting Department students may also elect four and one-half year programs that combine accounting with business data processing.

You may be interested in reviewing the wide array of programs now presented by the college.

At the Bachelor of Science degree level, the Accounting major offers concentrations in Management, Public Accounting, and Managerial/Data Processing. In addition to the General concentration, the Business Administration major offers concentrations in Data Processing, Data Processing/Marketing, Financial Management, Insurance, Marketing, Personnel Management, Recreation Management and Small Business Management. Business Teacher Education offers concentrations in Accounting, Business Administration, Distributive Education and Office Administration. Office Administration offers concentrations in Court and Conference Reporting and in Executive Administration as well as in the general major at the Bachelor level.

At the Associate level the Accounting major offers only one program. Business Administration offers five concentrations, including Data Processing, General, Insurance, Real Estate, and Small Business Management. Office Administration offers six concentrations at the Associate level: Court and Conference Reporting, Administrative Assistant, Insurance Administrative Assistant, Legal Administrative Assistant, Medical Administrative Assistant and Office Science.

You will note that the Secretarial Department is now titled the Office Administration Department. This is an updating to reflect what is happening in the field. The department will begin to move into word processing to a significant degree beginning this fall.

I hope that you will agree with us that a great deal of progress is being made in academic programming. Progress will continue this next year as we investigate additional new areas for program development. One of these areas is the allied health field. Many of the occupations in this field require a combination of both health and business training. Another area which we will be investigating is hospitality management and tourism. Again, business is combined with specialized training to prepare individuals for excellent career opportunities.

Moving now to another part of the academic area of the College, you will recall, I am sure, that this was the first year of operation for the graduate program. You will be happy to know that this program has had an excellent beginning. Over fifty students are already enrolled in classes and a sizable increase is expected again this fall. The first graduate will be awarded the master's degree at next year's spring graduation, although he will finish the requirements of the program this fall.

In yet another part of the academic area, we are experiencing steady growth in our Continuing Education and Extension Division. As you know, Husson degrees are offered in six external sites around the state; and a seventh site, Lewiston, will be added this fall. The college is also promoting workshops and seminars through CEED, and the interest in this type of educational programming is growing.

I have gone on at length to give you a proper updating on what is happening here at the College; and, to be truthful, I could add a good deal more. You have the general picture, though, and you know that we would be happy to give you further details on an individual basis if you would like them. I would ask one favor of you as an alumnus, and that is to let people know what Husson is all about. When people are looking for a career-oriented, four-year collegiate institution, we would like them to look to Husson College for solid academic preparation.

Close Up

Edited from an article appearing February 10, 1979 in the Morning Sentinel. Printed by permission.

Madison High School (Madison, Maine) won't be the same without Shirley Klimavicz Richard '55 and her husband Alexander.

Alex, the principal, and Shirley, the English teacher, have given the bulk of their adult lives to the education of two generations of area youths. Their joint retirement in June marked the end of an era.

The Richards have had 52 years of combined service at Madison and a total of 61 years in education. They have also seen a few changes during that time.

Both feel the biggest change has been in the attitude of the students.

"People say kids are different today, and they are, but those differences only reflect changes in society," they agree.

Shirley said, "It irritates me when people dump on the youngsters. Most kids are still good, but it's the odd ones who draw the most attention. The vast majority of students are not problems and there is some good in all young people. You just have to find it."

Alex feels that one of the most drastic changes in the attitude of young people has been formed by television. "Because of TV, many have become passive and not used to responding. It is hard for teachers to give the kids what they want when they feel they should be entertained. Young people have a wider range of knowledge because of television but their personal communication skills have suffered."

Despite television, Shirley observes, "We find young people are reading a lot today. They are reading just as much as in the past. But unfortunately, much of the reading material is not high quality."

Television has also been blamed for declining SAT test scores. Shirley feels, "The biggest reason for that is that more students are taking the SAT's. It used to be that just your college preparatory students would take the test but now others are too, and it has brought the average score down."

Another major change at the high school has been the requirement that students must remain in school until they reach the age of 17. "There are more students in school now because of the 17 year-old law. Kids who used to quit now have to stay. They're not there because they want to, but because they have to," observes Alex.

That change has caused problems in the classroom, Shirley notes. "Some students are not receptive to being taught because they are just serving time."

Attitudes toward success have changed. Shirley feels, "It is more difficult to impress upon today's kids the necessity for using good English because they see so many people who don't speak well, yet have been successful."

Alex, a Madison native graduated in 1941 from Madison High School, where he played football, hockey and baseball. After graduating from Colby College in 1949, Alex taught social studies and math, coached six man football, hockey and baseball, and served as the cheerleader adviser at Dixfield High School. He returned to Madison in 1952 as physical education and social studies teacher, head football coach, and assistant coach in basketball. In 1958, Alex became assistant principal, and in 1960, principal, a position he held for 19 years.

Shirley Klimavicz was born in Dover-Foxcroft and grew up in Sebec, where she received her early education at the one-room schoolhouse at Sebec Corner. Her family moved to Old Orchard Beach, where she attended the local high school. After graduating from Old Orchard Beach High School in 1946, Shirley entered Husson, where she earned a diploma in business education in 1948. In 1955 she received her bachelors degree.

At the age of 19, she landed her first job at Mattawnawcook Academy in Lincoln, teaching all business subjects and coaching girls' basketball and the cheerleaders. The cage game was familiar to her, having captained the girls' basketball team at Husson.

Like her husband, Shirley was able to continue her education while at Madison High, earning her Master's in Education from the University of Maine at Orono in 1969.

Shirley and Alex met in 1952 while she was teaching in Skowhegan and he at Madison. Interestingly, the two met at a friend's home on Main Street in Madison, in the same home in which they now live—directly across the street from the high school.

Retirement will be active. Shirley hopes to stay in education on a part-time basis and Alex still has his Air Force Reserve duties. Both will also stay active in community affairs, indulging in such hobbies as golf, hiking, camping, and, perhaps, some traveling.

The Richards agree that if they had to do it all over again, they would choose careers in education, because working with students has been both satisfying and enjoyable.

An era has ended at Madison High School, but the imprint the Richards have left on their students and colleagues will endure long after their retirement.

Enrollment

The Office of the Registrar has released statistics indicating that 1299 students are registered for studies at the College during the fall semester. Eight hundred twenty-two students registered for the Day Division. Eleven are College personnel. Of the 334 freshmen, 175 are females and 159 are males. One hundred sixty-five members of the Day Division represent eighteen states other than Maine: Alabama (1), Connecticut (26), Illinois (2), Indiana (1), Massachusetts (58), Michigan (2), Mississippi (1), Missouri (1), New Hampshire (16), New Jersey (10), New York (30), Ohio (2), Pennsylvania (2), Rhode Island (8), Tennessee (1), Texas (2), Vermont (6), and Washington (1). Seventeen Day Division students represent eleven foreign countries including Bangladesh (1), Bolivia (1), Canada (3), England (1), Hong Kong (1), Iran (3), Israel (1), Packistan (1), Saudi Arabia (1), Turkey (1), and Venezuela (1). The origin of two students is not known.

Statistics of departmental registrations indicate that 197 day division students are pursuing studies in accounting, 395 in business administration, 39 in business teacher education and 167 in office administration. There are 13 special students. The eleven employees are excluded from the departmental statistics.

At the seven sites of the Continuing Education and Extension Division, 423 students are registered. Of this group, 173 are freshmen.

The Graduate Division, beginning its second year, has 54 registrants, of whom 23 are first year students. Three of the graduate students represent two foreign nations: two from Iran and one from Nigeria.

Grants

The College has received two federal grants from the U.S. Office of Education totaling $392,482.

The largest of the two, a grant awarded to Husson under Title III of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, provides $325,000 over a two-year period for continuation of Husson's Supplemental Education Program, a Management Information System study, and faculty and student development.

Husson has also received a one-year award of $67,482 under the TRIO program to provide educational and cultural services to students who have economically or culturally deprived backgrounds. Plans call for the college to make available to its students educational, psychological, and sociological counseling as well as programs to develop sound study skills.

According to President Merrill, the Title III funds will be used to strengthen currently developing programs within the college such as designing a more effective system for the creation, flow, storage, and retrival of management information. Funds will also be used for student peer tutoring, drug and alcohol abuse programs, and student leadership training sessions.

Sports

The 1978 fall season was both successful and frustrating for Coach Lee Jewell, III ('71) and his team. The season ended with a record of seven wins, five losses and one draw—a good indication of success. It is the team's statistics which give the real picture. In thirteen games, Husson scored forty-four goals, allowing opponents only thirty-one. The last three games alone saw Husson score seventeen goals, allowing only six.

A source of frustration, however, was the one-goal loses to Presque Isle (4-3) late in the season. The team began strongly with a 5-2-1 record in the first eight games, yet fell short by a single goal on two occasions. The losses to Machias (4-3) and to Maine Maritime (2-1) seriously damaged the team's over-all record.

High scorers for the season were Dennis Cyr '79 and Steve Plourde '82. Dennis scored fourteen goals with two assists; Steve tallied six with ten assists. Don Violette '81 and Mike Fulcher '79 scored eleven and nine points respectively. Defensive standouts were co-captains Bert Boucher '79 and Pete Sirois '79, two of the five seniors graduating in May.

Soccer

This year has been strong for the team. With four games left in the season, Husson has a 5-3-2 record and has already outscored opponents 47-21. Watch for the last two soccer games of the the season: October 27, Unity College and October 30, University of Southern Maine. Both are home games.

The women's athletic program had a good year. Women at Husson enjoy three varsity sports: volleyball in the Fall, basketball in the Winter and softball during the Spring. The volleyball team qualified for the State Tournament and ended up fifth in the State. The basketball team won nine games and lost eight. The team also made the State Tourney, but lost to the team which lost in the finals.

The women had co-coaches in volleyball—Lauri Osgood and Linda Spring '78, a Husson alumna. The women's basketball team was again coached by Pam Hennessey. The softball team was coached by Sue Skinner, '77.

Rocky Tibbetts, a sophomore from Whitefield, was voted most valuable player in both volleyball and basketball. Rocky was the only Husson player selected for the All-State of Maine team. Kathi Higgins, a sophomore from Ellsworth, is distinguished as most valuable player for softball.

Last spring's golf season was excellent for the Braves, who finished with a record of 14 wins and no losses. For both fall and spring, the team had a record of 24-1. They were Maine Inter-Collegiate Champions with a score of 301 and NAIA District 5 Champions with a score of 302. It was the fifth straight year for winning the National Championship, taken by the Braves six of the last seven years.

Freshmen Dick Brown (HDCP:4) was third finisher with 75 at the Inter-Collegiate Golf Tournament. He took fifth place with 76 at the NAIA New England District 5 and made the All District #5 New England Golf Team.

Mike Norris, also a freshman, was a medalist with 73 at the Inter-Collegiate Golf Tournament, a medalist with 70 at the NAIA New England District 5 and medalist at all NAIA District #5. Mike has a handicap of 4.

Co-Captain Mike Wilson (HDC:8), a sophomore, was a member of last year's NAIA Championship team. Co-captain John Bowler (HDCP:3), also a sophomore, took second with 74 at the Inter-Collegiate Golf Championship, fourth with 75 at the NAIA District 5, and made the All NAIA Golf Team. Tom Quigley, a sophomore, took ninth with 79 at the Inter-Collegiate Golf Championship and eighteenth with 81 at the NAIA District #5. Tom has a handicap of 4.

Junior Mike Duffey, Jr. saw his third year on the team and his third year in the NAIA Championships. Tom Thorne (HDCP:6), also a junior took ninth with 79 at the Inter-Collegiate Golf Championship and twenty-ninth with 85 at NAIA.

Awards went to Mike Wilson (Coaches Award), John Bowler (Most Consistent Player) and Mike Norris (Most Valuable Player).

Ms. Pam Hennessey, in addition to her coaching responsibilities, has taken on the additional responsibilities of Director of Women's Athletics.

Mr. Bruce MacGregor has become Men's Athletic Director while continuing some coaching responsibilities.
