The Program

The golf program at Husson College has a proud tradition of excellence. At one point, the team won ten straight NAIA New England Championships and participated each of those years in the National NAIA Golf Tournament. Many of the Husson golfers have enjoyed outstanding careers along with All Conference, All New England, and national honors. The past two years the Braves have won the Maine Intercollegiate Championship and the Maine Athletic Conference Championship.

This year's team won all eleven tournaments that the team entered. This year's regular season record was an outstanding 90 wins and 0 losses.

MacGregor named coach of year

Leader of Husson College golf team honored by NAIA Region 10, MAC

Bruce MacGregor of Husson College in Bangor has been named the NAIA Northeast Region 10 and Maine Athletic Conference Golf Coach of the Year.

College report

MacGregor, the former longtime men's basketball coach at Husson, has guided the Braves to the NAIA National Golf Championship, scheduled for May 23-26 in Albuquerque, N.M. The team departed today for that tourna-fill the void at the center position."

Husson golf team completes unbeaten season

BANGOR — Building on last year's successful campaign, in which the Husson College golf team played its way into the NAIA National Tournament, the 1994 edition of the Husson golf team has done one better.

Husson, under coach Bruce MacGregor, posted an 11-0 record this fall.

MacGregor's squad won its first tournament was a big one, the 11th Maine Athletic Conference championship at Natanis Golf Course in Vassalboro last weekend, earning the Braves another trip to the regional championship which they will host in April.

Another win there will send Husson back to the nationals, a level the Bayers believe is not

"We were out there and played a strong round, but we couldn't play at that level every time," said Corey Fiolo, a junior from Strathmore.

The Braves have been weekend to weekend competitors in the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association Championship at Natanis Golf Course, the Cappaquin Classic at Bowdoin, Mass., an unofficial tournament for the Braves with Penobscot U., and ill teams participating.

Fiolo showed the most improvement of all the Braves, dropping his scoring average to 84.4, more than five strokes below last year's average.

Pete Ward, the only golfer to sig- nificantly lower his scoring aver- age, though, was co-captain Chad Curley of Caribou, who cut his average about three strokes to 79.8, and co-captain Greg a stroke to 86.1. Rich are in their fourth years with the team.

A surprise, and welcome, addition this fall was former Husson basketball team knows where we the captain) are coming from and supports everything we say."

Building out the top five is the MAC Rookie of the Year, freshman Joey Pomerenke of Sidney who had an 81.6 average.

In spite of the fact that it might appear that Husson dominated its opponents, MacGregor said, it wasn't quite that easy.

"It's been a weird year," he said. "We thought the weaker schools would finish last, but the scores have been fewer, and we had to be there. All year we had to be there."

Curley said, "Our goal was to come out on top in every tourna-basketball player Rick Sinclair of Hermon. He found he had a year's eligibility remaining and joined the team, averaging 79.8 strokes per round.

Sinclair's maturity has been an added benefit, according to Tribou.

"It's nice having a guy that will do that."

Tribou enjoys the fact that every one contributes.

"It's nice as a co-captain to have four guys who, any day of the week, can beat me," said Tribou of the Hallowell native. "Ryan, a freshman from Jonesport, only played in three of the matches, but his understudies."

"These guys are a lot more competitive than I thought," Rand said. "I could have played at (the University of Southern Maine) with Joe's, but it makes you work that hard knowing you're not going to play but twice."

Tribou is confident the Husson tradition can be carried on if players continue the way it should be as a freshman.

"That's the great part about it. They have to do it better.

"I think we have just as good a

The members of the Husson College golf team are all a little different, but they all have the same frame of mind.

"We want to show that people up here can play golf, too," said Greg Tribou.

In the NAIA Region 10 Tournament at Dennis Pines Golf Course on Cape Cod on April 25-26, the Braves showed previously undefeated Dominican College of Orangeburg, N.Y., they can play golf.

Because of that victory, they will be taking their message to the NAIA National Golf Championship at Isleta Eagle Golf Course in Albuquerque, N.M., May 23-26.

"We want it to be fun, too, because that's what we've worked so hard to get to."

Braves in MAC golf win

Husson College of Bangor knocked off two-time defending champion University of Maine-Farmington this week to win the rain-shortened Maine Athletic Conference-NAIA New England Golf Championship held at Natanis Golf Course in Vassalboro.

College report

By virtue of the victory, the Braves earned the right to take on the NAIA's Pennsylvania-New York-New Jersey champion in next spring's regional championship.

This weekend, coach Bruce MacGregor's Braves, who boast a 67-10-1 match record, will compete in the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association Championship at New Seabury Country Club on Cape Cod.

"It was a pretty sensational year for us," MacGregor said. "We've had some great teams over the years at Husson, but this is probably the best one in the last 6-7 years."

Husson placed four players on the All-MAC team, including senior captain John Murray of Castine, junior Greg Tribou of Hampden, and sophomore Corey Pion of Waterville. Freshman Ben Chapman of Orono, who tied UM-Farmington's Adam Casey for medalist honors at the NAIA New England event, was named the MAC Rookie of the Year.
