President's Column

The Easter season is upon us. How welcome it is this year! The cold winter of '59 with its sub-zero temperatures, its snow and ice, its hazards, its fuel bills, these are now history and we breathe easier because of it. We look ahead with glad anticipation to the Spring and Summer seasons when old Dame Nature unwraps her prettiest packages and gives us flowers, and birds, white clouds, blue waters, and adventures in travel, picnics, suntans, warm rains, and vacations from long weeks of work. I guess, at long last, that I like Winter least of the four seasons.

The basketball teams had fine seasons all. The varsity was again winner of the Northeast Conference title with a 15-1 record. The women were undefeated for the second year in a row. The J. V.'s had a 11-4 record, one of their very best, and when they lost it was by the barest of margins. I compliment them and their coaches. It is a proud record, and I admit that I like to win. We will do all that we can to win, which lends savor to the victories that come our way. It also means that no apologies are needed, or indicated, when we lose. We may be unhappy over a loss, but we are philisophical about it, and take it in stride as our way of life. I haven't forgotten the Cheerleaders, and my compliments to them are sincere indeed. They lend color, charm, and spirit to the games, and the teams join me in thanking them for their contribution to the season's play.

At mid-year we graduated some twenty students, and were pleased to see them quickly placed. Two went into the armed services, Johnny Rioux and Donald Wallace. Gary Rioux is teaching at Freeport High School and is happy in his new work. Ed Street is out in Ohio, Bob Tilden in credit work at Ellsworth, "Mat" Williams in finance at Bangor, Miss Lapham at the Eastern Trust and Banking Company, "Art" Everett in the training program at Sears Roebuck Company, and Bob Aultman is in Belfast winding up an estate. I'd like to hear from Bill Foster and the rest. We would like to keep abreast of all placements for the record.

I mention these events because they follow a pattern. He who studies and prepares himself opens his own doors to opportunity. All of these young people are now on their way to careers in business and education and our good wishes attend them. They should inspire other youth to study for the rewards that are sure to come. Abraham Lincoln said it for all of us. "I will study and prepare myself," he said, "for some day my chance may come." It came, and our country is forever in debt to this lovable giant who attended "his own college" made up of books he borrowed, begged and bought when the pennies were available. His story has always inspired me, and I hope that

Girls Tops

(The Boston Sunday Herald, Feb. 15, 1959)

It gets to be an expected thing to talk about the undefeated Husson College girls' basketball team. Season after season, the girls in green and gold have chalked up outstanding marks against the top competition to be found throughout the Eastern Maine area.

And the 1958-59 season has been no exception.

The Husson girls had one game left on their schedule this weekend. If they could pick up the victory, they would close another year with an unblemished mark.

But Coach Janet Kinney had trepidations in the middle of the week about her girls' chances. "We try for our 13th straight victory on Friday the 13th with 13 girls on the squad," she said with a shudder.

But despite those seemingly unlucky odds, it would have been difficult to find anyone willing to bet against the Husson sextette.

Winning became a tradition at Husson under Coach Clara Swan, who retired from coaching this season, though still holding an important position on the Faculty at the business college on Park Street hill.

It appears that Coach Kinney and her charges play to uphold the tradition established during Miss Swan's long and distinguished career.

Beverly Govone Defensive Star

With forward Jean Murphy of Millinocket sidelined by illness for the final game, Coach Kinney was going with a starting six made up of Rachel Mitchell of Appleton, Amy Oxley of Hampden and Nancy Hamilton of Brewer at the forward posts; Diane Hodgkins of Frye, Beverly Burrill of Rockland, and Beverly Govone of Forestdale, Mass. at the guard positions.

An indication of the fine scoring potential of the Husson girls may be taken from the fact that the Misses Mitchell and Oxley have fired in an average of 24 points each per game thus far this season.

Miss Govone has been outstanding in her defensive position at guard, using her 5-7 reach to great advantage in the rebounding department.

Others on the squad this season are: Judy Smith of Rockland, Margaret Cyr of Mt. Desert, Mavis Churchill of Washburn, Joan Arnold of Frye, and Managers Helen Colby of Camden and Janice Day of New Sharon.

Always a fast team, the Husson sextette this season has both speed and accuracy in the front court and speed and size in the back court.

Miss Mitchell Good Set Shot

Rachel Mitchell has compiled her 24-point average mainly on the strength of a deadly two-handed set shot, while Amy Oxley has kept the defenses honest with a hard-to-stop driving one-hander which has helped Amy to her fine point average.

his way of life, his philosophy, will inspire countless others.

June is not far away. Many of the graduating class have accepted positions out of state, and others have promising replies to their letters seeking positions in the big companies across the land. All of them will land on two feet. The American economy is again on the upswing, and there will be jobs for all. Because this is true, each should study industriously to the end of the term and be ready for the challenge that faces him. Get out of each class all that is humanly possible, because this is the ammunition that will be needed to face the future.

The faculty has been contributing over and beyond the call of duty this year and I thank them for their interest in the student body that transcends the classroom. I'm sure that the students, too, feel this warm friendliness and appreciate the kindnesses and understandings of their problems.

To you all a very happy Easter vacation. Be sure to attend the church of your choice, and keep alive in your breasts a love for the saviour of mankind. A life without God must be empty indeed.

Thanks for the birthday present. I repeat, "You are good kids."

THE PARENTS' PART IN A HUSSON COLLEGE EDUCATION

When your son or daughter is enrolled at Husson, your responsibility for his or her education does not end.

Husson provides the best facilities available for its students' education and progress, but education is a cooperative venture. You, too, must play a role. It is an important role, one of assistance and encouragement—a role that you must understand and accept if we are to be successful in our efforts on behalf of your son or daughter. We accept full responsibility for your youngsters' education—but you must offer help and guidance to them.

The Husson College program and facilities are designed to meet all the academic needs of its students, since their requirements and future plans are known. (The library will be functioning at capacity when students return from Spring Vacation). Students are kept busy and stimulated during the day sessions.

The Husson College schedule of clubs, sororities, fraternities, and sports activities, social gatherings and field trips provide many interesting hours beyond the regular school day.

Full advantage is taken of the excellent Bangor Public Library, the Bangor Conservatory of Music, the Eastern Maine General Hospital and other local institutions.

What about the remaining hours of the day? How are they spent? Leisure time—is it wasted?

Here is a check-up on your offspring and on you—How do we all rate? Students and parents take notice.

1. Does your son or daughter devote regular hours to study and homework each day? How many? Does he follow a regular pattern of study?
2. Do you permit your son or daughter to be distracted from study by the TV, the radio, the Hi-Fi or phone calls?
3. Is your youngster spending too much time on social activities—too many hours for friends and hobbies, too little time for study?
4. Do you encourage the reading of a variety of books beyond those required in courses? Do you encourage interest in music (all types) and art?
5. Does your son or daughter get the proper rest that he or she as an individual needs? Health good? Spirits good?
6. Do you know of school tardiness or class absences? Necessary ones, yes. Unnecessary ones?
7. Does your son or daughter conform as to proper dress for school?
8. Are you interested in his grades? Do you see them each semester?

In summarizing, parents are urged to take an active parental and personal interest in all of his or her activities. Laugh with them when they are happy. Sympathize when they have problems. Share his or her dreams, hopes and plans. Listen to them, understand them, criticise them, yes, but also encourage them and love them.

Husson College stands ready to help you in every possible way. We are glad to have your sons and daughters as part of the Husson "family."

HUSSON RETAINS NORTHEAST RULE

(Boston Sunday Herald, February 1, 1959)

One of the finest records of any small business or teachers college in the entire Northeast sponsoring basketball is that chalked up in recent seasons by Coach Del Merrill's Husson College Indians of Bangor.

Moore Lone Senior Starter

Perennial winners of the Northeast College Conference, the Indians took a 10-0 record into New Brunswick and Aroostook County this weekend. Under Merrill, the Husson five has rolled to 60 decisions in 70 games and shows certain signs of continuing its march through Northeastern small college hoop ranks for at least three seasons.

On his 13-man high-scoring squad, Merrill has eight freshmen, three sophomores, and only two seniors. Two freshmen and two sophomores are on the starting unit, while a great freshman scoring prospect should draw a starting assignment when he returns to the squad after a service hitch February 2.

A pair of former students for the State Champion Ellsworth High School teams of 1953 and 1954, Jack Scott and Jerry Kane are the first-year starters. Dick Moore of Milo is the senior and Wayne Smith of Milo and Don Vachon of Brewer are the sophomores.

Jim McKay, also a freshman, from Bar Harbor, is another of Merrill's first six players and one of the squad's top rebounders at 6-6.

Merrill is looking forward to when Karl Daigle, former Bangor high scorer who led the Indians in scoring for a half year before he went into the Army, will join the squad. The 6-3 frontcourt performer is a great shooter and rebounder.

Scott Excellent All-Round Player

Other senior on the team is Dana Dow of Mapleton, who has seen a great deal of service at a pivot post during his four seasons under Coach Merrill. Wayne Haskell of Hermon is the other sophomore.

Freshman candidates besides Scott, McKay, and Kane are: Joe Paul of Milo, Gerry Wright of Orono, Julian White of Bangor, and Al Trask of Charleston.

Scott, rated by many as one of the two top basketball players ever to play on Eastern Maine schoolboy courts, has fired in a total of 212 points in the 10 games for a 21.2 average. Obviously a fine scorer, the crew-cut smoothy is even better known for his tricky playmaking and high number of assists per game.

Kane is recognized as one of the best defensive players ever to come out of Maine schoolboy ranks, but he can also score well, as witness his 155 points, second only to Scott's output.

Smith is the other double figure scorer, averaging 12.3 per game thus far this season. The former Milo standout is another top passer and playmaker, and is also noted for his ability to climb high for rebounds.

Daigle Holds Tourney Mark

McKay has 85, Vashon 93, and Moore 67 points to round out the top six in that department.

Daigle's addition to the squad should make the Indians a formidable scoring team, for the talented shot-maker still holds the Eastern Maine Class L Tournament single game record of 39 points and hit over 40 for Husson before going into the service.

And the Indians may need that punch with Washington State Teachers College, Ricker College, and Aroostook State Teachers College presenting stronger opposition this season in the N. C. C.

ALUMNI NEWS

Alstead, New Hampshire
February 13, 1959

Dear Swan:

Received your card some time ago and want to thank you for the address.

I have been intending to write and tell you about my job—but I never seem to have time to write many letters.

We finished up our basketball season yesterday. We beat Janice's team. They beat us earlier in the season. This was really a big win for the team as Charlestown has one of the best teams in the area.

I started out the season with a lot of prospects but my team narrowed down to eight players because of kids leaving and a few dropped for disciplinary reasons. Sometimes I was wondering if we were going to have enough players to play our games.

It's a good thing they don't enforce the rule against coaching from the sidelines up here because I really took advantage of it. One game the kids said they thought they would have to tie me down because I was off my seat more than I was on it.

We averaged about 47 points to 36 for the opponents in 11 games. My chief asset in the scoring department was a girl about 5'6" that can shoot one and two hand sets and is a deadeye with an overhead push shot from all over the court. She averaged about 27½ points in 11 games, which is a good season. We ended our season 8-3. Two of our losses were by one point—one in overtime.

By the type of ball played in this area compared to the Bangor area, I think up here they have better control of the ball and are smoother ballplayers. This was especially true of both mine and Janice's teams this year. I can really say I enjoyed coaching and am more of a basketball fan than ever before.

But everything is not play. I'm teaching six subjects a day and enjoy them all. I haven't been able to decide yet what subject I enjoy most. As far as teaching is concerned, I really enjoy it. I couldn't have picked a better profession. I enjoy the kids and have some good times with them at school events.

I do take a lot of ribbing about two things. One is good old Maine. By the way people talk you'd think Maine was over in Africa instead of a few miles from here. I go along with their kidding though.

Every time I go home, I never seem to be able to get everything in my suitcase and the boy that lives here always has one idea—to leave my shoes here. He says people in Maine don't wear shoes anyway.

Another thing I've been taking a lot of ribbing on is the kids say I never smile in class. My basketball players were always saying when I got in class I was afraid to smile because I was afraid I'd crack my face.

Another thing I keep meeting up with is people who don't think I'm the business teacher but a new student. Oh well, another 10 years and I'll probably wish they would make the mistake once in a while.

Well, guess I've written enough about this little town. Drop a note some time when you've got a minute.

Dear Chief:

I have just completed your highly commendable questionnaire, and find that this is certainly a step in the right direction to insure proper education for our future businessmen.

In relation to the subject of improving our curriculum, the subject of the Alumni Association also is important for the future of our undergraduates. It goes without saying that to raise the level of the present college's curriculum, there must be a strong Alumni to lend its guiding hand. I still maintain that it is the graduates, like myself, that are paving the way for the boys you are now educating.

The formation of a strong Alumni Association for Husson still remains a vigorous thought in my mind. I am sure that there must be other dyed-in-the-wool Husson-ites, like myself, who would also give their right arm for this organization. Please, Chief, let us exercise this energy before it dwindles.

Please note that I have moved from my old location in Perth Amboy. I am also sending you a check for $1.00 to cover the cost of the "Ledger." Incidentally, why not use this median of communication as a "feeler" for the Alumni?

Both my wife and I remain in good health and we anticipate meeting you again in the near future.

Cordially yours,
David L. Huff

Dear Swan:

Have wanted to get a nice long letter off to you for quite some time, but have found myself so busy this year that I haven't even written to family.

School is going along better than ever this year. I have two classes in shorthand, three in typing, and office practice. It makes sort of a busy schedule, but fun. Also have the school paper, Senior class adviser (which is a job in itself), and an added job of school finances this year.

Around the middle of November I decided to buy a house in Eliot. Have been travelling ten miles to school from South Berwick for two years and thought it would be easier. The principal, Mr. Pierce, moved out of a small house (4 rooms) into a 6-room one, so I bought his. From that point on I was very busy. Had the floors sanded and refiinished and the whole place papered and painted. I helped on a lot of the painting. Didn't have anything in furniture, so have been busy buying all sorts of pretty things. It's just darling and a perfect size for Jeff and me. Jeff just loves it! There's a tree in the front yard that makes for good climbing (I'll probably start having doctor's bills for broken arms and legs). His electric train is down cellar, his room is his castle, and he's so pleased to have a house of his very own. He'll start school next year in the building right next to the high school, one session, so will be going on the bus one way and with me the other.

Of course, through the process of moving, etc. I got pretty tired out and was shot to pieces when I arrived home for Christmas vacation. However, got rested up and Mom came back with me for a few weeks, until I get settled. It is helping a great deal, and she likes my new house very much. I feel settled for the first time in years—it's a wonderful feeling.

There are a couple of girls in my Senior group who would like very much to go to Husson next year. Judy Bailey is a real smart girl, does real well in my Business subjects, has maintained straight A's all year. She wants to take the Business Education course there at Husson, but is running into opposition at home, finances mainly. Her Dad teaches at Traip Academy and wants her to go to Gorham—it's much cheaper. I lived with Helene while I was there so didn't have much of an idea of how much living expenses were or jobs available to the girls. The catalogue says $500 tuition, but I couldn't tell her much else. Brenda Paul wants to take the two-year Medical Secretarial course. I think she's already sent in her application. Both wanted to know about jobs and living conditions, etc. I told them about the various dorms but as I said before, couldn't help them out much on living expenses and jobs. Thought you might be able to fill me in on the details.

Jeff wants me to watch "The Sleeping Beauty" with him, so must rush off. Hope all is well at Husson. Am enclosing a dollar for the Ledger.

Dear Mama Lowe:

So nice to get your Christmas card and note. Christmas is such a wonderful time to renew old friendships and I did so enjoy your letters while I was at Lackland. But now here I am at Travis and it is some different I can tell you. I have so much to report that I hardly know where to begin. You just can't imagine the things that have happened to me since I wrote you last. So guess I'd better start with my last three or four months at Lackland.

After I finished tech school I was already to ship out to Turkey but due to circumstances beyond my control I never got there. I was scheduled to leave Lackland on a Monday night for a 30-day leave home and then on to South Carolina where I was to sail overseas but I guess it just wasn't meant to be as on the Friday before I was to leave I had a large sum of money stolen from me and I also had conclusive proof of who took it. What made matters worse was that the stolen money was my plane fare home and back to South Carolina. It was well over $200 and it left me with exactly 25 cents in my pocket. Natually I reported it because I couldn't go anywhere with no money. So the next thing I knew my orders were being revoked, assignment cancelled and the accused thief was to be court-martialed. Naturally, I had to stay at Lackland and it meant getting a different assignment. This all happened in September and it was November before the court-martial finally came up. While I was waiting for the trial I was working in the squadron office which was good training for me as it was the exact work that I had been studying for tech school. Also just before the trial I was promoted to A/2c which was a surprise to me because there were over 30 men eligible and only 5 could be promoted. Finally the day of the court-martial came but again it wasn't in the stars because the accused was found innocent on the slightest of technicalities and after the CM was over he came up and laughed in my face and admitted he did it. But it was too late then so what could I do. He had a brilliant attorney whereas mine was excellent, too, but he didn't know his law as well and his opponent tripped him up on a minor point of law and that settled the case. But there is more to the story than that. The accused is now in Leavenworth because of five other counts against him. He was found guilty on all five. They included one other theft, willful destruction of government property, AWOL, disobeying a direct order by an officer and plural marriage. I honestly think his mind was sick but after an examination by psychiatrists he was found absolutely sane. So I suppose he is paying for it in a way but I never did get my money back so I lost out too.

I finally left Lackland about a week before Thanksgiving. I came home by train. It took me only three days and it was a lonely ride. I found myself more convinced than ever that traveling is an education in itself. We rolled across the prairies of Texas with its cactus, cones and oil wells and then into Oklahoma as "little Texas" but don't tell anyone I told you. Ha Ha. My roommate is from Oklahoma and he'd wring my neck if he knew I had said that. Then we crossed the line into Missouri (The Show Me State) and believe me, it didn't show me a thing. We had a long day over in St. Louis so I got to see some of the city. I guess I wasn't very impressed. Then we boarded the Pennsylvania Railroad and crossed the big Mississippi River and on through Southern Illinois and Indiana to Indianapolis, where we had three hours wait. Now you take Indianapolis. There's a city. Most friendly and beautiful. I wouldn't mind settling down there for life. At Indianapolis we changed to the New York Central Railroad, noted for its excellent hospitality and gigantic prices. Our next stop was Cleveland at exactly midnight. I suppose Cleveland is a nice town but any railroad station at midnight is pretty dismal. But we only had an hour's wait before we took off again for the great state of New York. We made brief stops at Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse and then in Albany we changed trains again. This one took us straight through to Boston and man oh man did New England ever look good. It seemed awfully cold after the Texas heat but it was home and what is more joyful than a home coming. Need I tell you that my train from Boston to Bangor was the Boston & Maine. I had a real nice leave and just relaxed and enjoyed myself. As I only had 15 days I didn't get to see everyone I wanted to see. I intended to call on you folks but my only trip to Bangor was out to Dow to get paid. However, I am quite sure I glimpsed Mr. Lowe out there. Doesn't he work in the office almost across the hall from where the men are paid? I am sure it was he. I was sorry not to be home for Christmas but I just couldn't arrange it. I left Maine about the 7th of December and arrived at Travis on the 12th. My route from Bangor to St. Louis was the same. Then across the beautiful farm lands of Kansas and through the mountains of Colorado. Then through Southern Wyoming and on to Utah where we crossed the Great Salt Lake on the trestle that was written up in the Post a couple of months ago. I think I enjoyed Nevada and the glorious Sierra Nevada Mountains more than any other state. Finally entered California and found 80 degree weather here. It is still warm (about 75) and I couldn't ask for any nicer weather.

Travis is located in the Sacramento Valley about an hour's drive from San Francisco and a half hour drive from Sacramento. I've had the opportunity to visit both places and I must say I prefer Frisco. Sacramento is quiet and pretty (typically Californian) but Frisco is exciting and different. Always something doing.

On New Year's Day one of my buddies and I had the pleasure of going to the Rose Festival and Rose Parade. Honestly, it was just beautiful. Someone has said that "there is nothing as perfect as a rose." But when you see thousands of them and thousands of other flowers as well made up into designs and floats it is a sight to behold. New Year's Day was a day that will long live in our memories. We may never see it again but at any rate we can cherish the one time we did see it.

Now for the light side of the news. I like it here very much and am having a real blast for myself. However, the opposite sex is scarcer than hen's teeth on this base. Of course, the town of Fairfield nearby yields better profits but it's 8 miles away and not having the luxury of one of those new contraptions called the horseless buggy I have to resort to what is known as the thumb.

I get the Bangor Daily News and read all the Husson items but I'd love to get the "Ledger." Thanks for remembering me. I had thought about having it sent to me but didn't know just how to go about it.

I suppose you are having snow and cold weather. Nothing like that here. Only sunshine, ocean breezes, and 80 degree temperatures. Not bad, huh? Sure seems good to run around in short sleeved shirts and no hat or coat.

I think it is about time I closed for tonight. Do hope you and yours are well and happy. Write me all the news if you get a chance and please remember me to Mrs. Miller and Miss Swan. Also Miss Robbins.

Take care now.

Sincere best wishes,

Norman

Bert Albert, June Senior, has taken a position with Sherwin-Williams Paint Company. Bert has been away on a training program and eventually will become a store manager. Bert will receive his B. S. degree in Business Administration in June. He and Mrs. Albert are expecting an addition in the near future.

BASKETBALL OFFICIALS

For the first time in the history of Women Officiating Basketball, a class in refereeing techniques and rules was conducted by Miss Swan at Husson. It met for ten classes and at the end of these classes, written and practical examinations were given. Miss Swan is a National Basketball judge for the Eastern Maine Board and also Basketball chairman. The exams were given under her jurisdiction. She was assisted by National Officials, Mrs. Grace Gilmore, Mrs. Vivienne Page and Mrs. Margaret Homans of Bangor.

Former graduates getting ratings were Miss Janet Kinney, Girls' Coach; Dorothy Abbott, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Mrs. Geraldine Harvey, R. B. Dunning Company; and Ellen Severance, Star Beef Company. They are licensed officials now and will be busy on the court next winter.

Beverly Govone of Forestdale, Massachusetts, a Junior and a star guard of the girls' team, received her rating. She is now licensed to referee high school games.

Amy Oxley received an Intramural rating. She can call any class games on any level. She is a Freshman and a member of the Girls' Basketball team.

Severance, Abbott, Govone

Albert Tagg, a Jet Pilot and Husson Junior, has temporarily left Husson to further his career. He is now employed by Northeast Airlines. Al flies the commanding officer of Dow on many missions.

BOWLING

The Husson College bowling team recently participated in the National Intercollegiate Bowling Tournament. The students that entered the tournament were: John Abbott, Bob Chandler, Roger Tate, Andrew Pyzynski, Thaxter Trafton, Floyd Lovejoy, Ralph Berg, Mike Abbott, Charles Kent, and Paul Fleming.

The National Intercollegiate Bowling Tournament, in which colleges all over the United States participate, is sanctioned by the American Association of College Unions. Husson is located in Region I, which includes the New England States.

The awards made on the regional level are trophies that are awarded to the high team, doubles, singles, and the individual with the high score in all events. Medals are awarded to other high scores in each area. The high individual for all events in each region is awarded a trip to St. Louis, Missouri, where he will compete in the college division of the American Bowling Congress Tournament held annually in April.

The Husson College Bowlers had only one full team of six men, thus there was no team competition on the school level. However, the team had a pin fall of 2684 or an average of 149 pins per game. The winners of the doubles were Roger Tate and Thaxter Trafton, with 946 total pins or 158 pins per game. Other double teams were John Abbott and Floyd Lovejoy with 924 total pins; Andrew Pyzynski and Bob Chandler with 898 total pins; Ralph Berg and Mike Abbott with 803 total pins; Charles Kent and Paul Fleming with 744 total pins.

High man in the singles was Bob Chandler with 476 total pins or 159 per game. The other singles were: Ralph Berg 454, Charles Kent 433, Floyd Lovejoy 424, Roger Tate 413, Thaxter Trafton 408, Mike Abbott 407, John Abbott 367, Paul Fleming 345.

Winner of the all events (team, singles, doubles) was Floyd Lovejoy with 1485 pins or 165 per game. The others were: Bob Chandler 1433, Thaxter Trafton 1302, Ralph Berg 1276, Mike Abbott 1257, John Abbott 1234, Roger Tate 1222, Charles Kent 1213, Andrew Pyzynski 1206, Paul Fleming 1026.

ROVING REPORTER

Meet Seven Gonul Erutmen of Istanbul, Turkey. Seven is the daughter of Mr. Enver Erutmen and came to Husson in February. She is enrolled in the B. S. in Business Administration course. In Istanbul Seven graduated with a B. A. degree from The American College for Girls. While she was there, she was a member of the Women's Athletic Association, The Drawing Club, and The Dance Club.

Seven is staying at the Smith House on Ohio Street. When asked how she liked Husson, she answered, "I like the school very much, it is a very good school, and I am very glad I came here."

Seven said the weather is quite a bit colder in Maine than it is in Turkey, but she replied, "the friendliness and sincerity of the people make up for the cold weather."

She has one brother who was also an exchange student in America. He attended school in Washington, D. C. in 1956-57.

It is a pleasure to welcome you here, Seven, and we hope your stay in Bangor and at Husson will be a most enoyable one.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

An outstanding program of music was presented by Mr. Cupp and the Glee Club. The setting was that of a church with beautiful stained glass windows in the background. The Reverend E. Charles Dartnell was the speaker and his message to the student body was outstanding. The program gave us all a much needed lift spiritually and gave us much to take home.

Santa came early as usual to Park Street and stopped at the "Friendly School Upon the Hill." The Student Organizations banded together and presented the Chief with a transistor radio for those fishing trips out on Green Lake. He was very happy with it. The faculty members who are advisers to the various organizations were remembered by the students. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year were the cheery greetings spread by all.

School spirit at Husson is a much discussed topic. The spirit is there and it lies dormant some of the time. But just let a catastrophe occur and the students band together and are 100 per cent behind any project. It happened at Christmas. Jim Manship, a 1958-59 freshman, a veteran, and a family man, lost his billfold just after he cashed his VA check. This money was for tuition. A thorough search was made to no avail. Over $100 was lost.

Just before the assembly, Bud Elsemore, Student Council President, had a council check for $10 to start a fund for this man. ETE Chapter contributed $10 and in the assembly Bud and some of the boys "passed the hat," in reality, a 10-quart pail, and the student body just threw in change here and there. When the pail was presented to Jim, he was speechless and his eyes were full of tears of happiness to think Husson students believed in giving and Santa Claus. Jim received over the amount he had lost. The balance over his loss was given by Jim to the LaChance Family Fund.

Each and every one of the donors had a better Christmas because they gave. School Spirit, yes, and love for our fellowman is here to stay. We are a family!

POEM

THE TEACHER

by ALBERT E. PILLSBURY

The bell has rung, the shouts subside,
From far and near the human tide
Of youngsters, trip their way toward school,
So mindful of the given rule.

A moving line in single file
Weaves toward the classroom all the while,
And standing in the hall between,
The Gray Haired teacher's face is seen.

The Treds upon the staircase old,
Have deepened with the shuffling soles
Of hundreds who have gone before,
And etched their mark into the floor.

It seems as though 'twere yesterday
That this old heart, then young and gay
Tripped up the stairs, within the line,
And took his place among his kind.

The Little Girl with sticky hand,
The tattered flag of our dear land,
The ink stain on the oaken floor,
The greeting at the open door.

The ruler on the teacher's desk,
(T'was never used except in jest)
For never a more kindly soul,
Was sent to play a teacher's role.

The problems of that mighty age
They spread themselves across the page,
But patience, kindness, and advice,
Not given once, nor given twice,
But oft repeated time again,
Gave courage to the goal attain.

Oh, kindly teacher, what we owe
To thee, who seeds of knowledge sow.
Your eyes are faded with the years,
You shared alike our joys and fears.
Your teaching days have long been gone
But hundreds like you carry on.
The golden thread you wove with care,
Has taught us how to do and dare.

The many little feet that tred
Will climb long after you are dead.
The stairs by now will be replaced,
But lessons taught can never waste.
And children filing in from play
Will use your guides in future days.
To you we lift our hats in praise,
And thank you for the many ways
You made our youthful lives serene
And led us into pastures green.

God bless you for your acts and deeds,
We'll try to sow and reap the seeds
You planted with such love and skill,
In that old school house on the hill.

And when our useful days are done,
When we have shared our fears and fun,
Why then I hope that we, like you,
Shall pass along to others too,
The lessons taught against our will
In that old school house on the hill.

HARD DAY

Another day
Alarm sounds,
Out of bed.
On your feet,
Clear head.
Get dressed,
Wash, eat,
Catch bus,
Find seat.
Reach town,
See friend.
Forget school,
Late again.
School starts,
Same grind.
Two classes,
Rack mind.
Next class
Has begun.
Very dull,
No fun.
Stomach growls,
Dinner time.
Hamburger,
Lemon-lime.
Back to school
Come what may.
Finally through,
Bell rings.
Rush of feet,
Someone sings.
Home again,
Heavy date.
Hurry up,
Can't be late.
After dance
Home to bed.
Head aches,
'Bout dead.
Off to sleep,
Dream away.
Alarm rings,
Another day.

HARRIET RUSSELL HART, 80, PIONEER CLUBWOMAN, DIES

Mrs. Harriet Russell Hart, 80, first Lynn woman ever to serve in the State Legislature, former member of the Lynn School Committee and a widely known clubwoman and pioneer in women's rights, died yesterday suddenly at the Saugus General Hospital.

The wife of Fred V. Hart, she was the third woman in the State's history to be elected to the General Court and served in 1925-26, representing the old 11th District. At that time, the district comprised Wards One, Six and Seven in Lynn, Saugus and Lynnfield.

She served on the School Committee for five years, at first a three-year term, 1921-22-23 and a two-year term, 1928-29. In the latter election, she topped the ticket of the six winning candidates.

In 1928 she was a Hoover delegate to the Republican National Convention.

At the request of the State Department, Division of the Blind, she was instrumental in organizing the Lynn Association for the Blind, and served as its president for 13 years.

She was a past president of the Women's Club of Lynn, the Outlook Club, the Women's Republican Club, and has long been active in th Greater Lynn Council of Church Women.

NOTED SINGER

An accomplished singer for many years, she was a contralto soloist in churches in Lynn, Salem, Swampscott and Attleboro.

With her husband, a past president of the Lynn Council of Churches and active in the Boston Street Methodist Church, she celebrated her 50th wedding anniversary on Thanksgiving Eve in 1949.

Born in West Lynn, she was the granddaughter of the late Joseph Russell, the first councillor to be elected from Ward Six. She attended the old Franklin Street and Cobbet Schools and graduated from Classical High School.

At the age of 18, she moved to Saugus with her parents. Two years later she was married and the couple moved back to Lynn. For many years, they resided at 52 Linwood Street until six years ago when they moved to 35 Marion Road, Marblehead. Mr. Hart was retired as an executive of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation in 1953 after 47 years of service.

Besides her husband, she leaves three daughters, Mrs. R. Granville Veale and Mrs. George S. Hammer, twins, and both of Marblehead; Mrs. Arthtur W. Trefry of Stowe; two brothers, Harlow M. Russell and Waldo B. Russell, both of Boothbay Harbor, Maine; six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

GLEE CLUB

Since their performance at the Christmas Assembly, the members of the Glee Club have been busily rehearsing for the Easter Assembly. The selections they have prepared include "In Joseph's Lovely Garden" and "We Do Believe."

Although the Glee Club is a small group, it has provided excellent programs for the assemblies throughout the year.

After the Easter Assembly, the Glee Club will begin making preparations for graduation.
