HUSSON LEDGER

NOVEMBER, 1967 — HUSSON COLLEGE, BANGOR, MAINE — VOLUME 42, NO. 1

CAMPUS PROGRESS

By Chesley H. Husson, Jr.

Progress at the new Husson College campus has been stepped up to insure that the facilities will be ready for occupancy by next September. Excessive rain during the last several months has seriously limited the number of work-hours of construction. In fact, since last February, there have been only about three or four weeks in which at least one work-day has not been lost because of rain. As of this moment, however, the General Contractors, Joseph Rugo, Inc., of Dorchester, Massachusetts, have assured me that the accelerated rate of construction will enable the College to make its move on time.

To the left of the Strickland Road entrance are three dormitories, two for men and one for women, each of which will house 326 students. Thus, the College will be providing resident facilities for close to 1,000 students. With an allowance for three to four hundred commuting students, the total enrollment will approximate 1,400. The absolute need for the new campus becomes readily apparent considering the current enrollment at Husson College in its present facilities is 1,256.

Each of the dormitories consists of three wings in the overall shapes of a "Y" and is three stories high. Outer construction of the first two of these dormitories is virtually complete and the third is well under way.

Between the second and third of these dormitories is the dining commons. This is for resident students and will seat 500 at a time. Additional dining facilities will be provided in the academic center for commuting students.

All of the dormitories and the dining commons are constructed of pre-stressed concrete faced with colonial brick. The dining commons is particularly interesting in design. It is completely circular, and in addition to pre-stressed concrete and colonial brick will utilize huge laminated arches so that the interior will be open from floor to roof. The structure might easily be compared to a carousel.

To the right of the inner road directly across form the dormitory-dining complex is the academic-administrative center. This complex is constructed of structural steel, all of which is now in place. Like the dormitories and dining commons, the building will be completed with colonial brick to preserve the architectural style. The building is three stories high and provides space for 40 classrooms, 2 seminar facilities, 16 administrative offices, and the College library.

At the far end of the circular inner road is the Psysical Education Training Center. In the opinion of many, this will be one of the finest structures of its kind in the State. Actually, construction of this facility is really just getting under way as far as full production is concerned. Certain soil problems had to be solved before the concrete footings could be poured, complicated by the intricate design of the lower levels of the building containing the swimming pool and handball courts. This facility will be constructed of structural steel, pre-stressed concrete, and colonial brick. Complete facilities for all forms of physical education will be provided, ranging from instructional courses to all of the spectator sports.

At the hub of the wheel will be a $25,000 bell tower or carillon donated by Pi Rho Zeta International. Completion of the six buildings will complete Phase I of the new Husson campus. As enrollment pressures increase and time and money permit, additional dormitories will be added around the rim of the wagon wheel and academic buildings on its spokes.

President's Column

I extend a cordial welcome to the new members who have joined the Husson "family" and, of course, a warm hello to the upperclassmen. Our student body numbers more than 1,200, the largest opening term in our history.

Classes are all under way and everyone will soon get the "feel" of things as we meet each day for work and play. Notices are appearing of the first meetings of the many student organizations all of whom are seeking new members. It is my earnest plea that each student will elect at least one group to join and enjoy.

It looks as if the men outnumber the women four to one. I wish more women were interested in secretarial and teaching careers. They are attractive, challenging and well paid in today's business economy and should appeal to the girls who plan wisely for their future. A woman without an education could end up as a cleaning woman or some similarly unattractive job which deadens the spirit and pays little. Ever hear of the five D's in the path of every married woman? Death, divorce, disability of the breadwinner. Devotion—a woman at work to help pay for the house or to help pay the bills or to educate the children. Diversion—a woman who returns to work after raising her family and who is not content with club meetings and bird watching. The woman with an education fares much better when she seeks employment and again when she enters it. There are thousands and thousands of women who have met the five D's and who work nights to dust and clean the office buildings across the nation. It is a sad army. Not one of them planned it that way. It just happens and the best insurance against the five D's is an education. Husson is a good place for women who think, and I hope that the guidance personnel in our high schools will not only recommend more high school girl graduates to us but stress the grave and happy importance of a college education.

This is an exciting period in our history. Next September we will be in our new "home." I visit the new campus every other day and watch it grow, and it promises to be beautiful as well as functional. The bell tower will chime each hour announcing the passing of classes. That will be a thrilling experience for all of us, one that is most pleasant to contemplate. We will be able to do many things, now too difficult or impossible, that will extend and improve our programs of study and recreation. We are going to be happy — students, faculty and staff — in the new setting. That is our prayer.

One more thought before I lay my pen down. Each of you is making a sizeable investment of time and money in your quest of a Husson degree. These can be wasted by the thoughtless student who fails to study, who is expelled for breach of discipline, or who drops out. Avoid these categories as you would a plague. Live up to your potential. Work; attend your classes. The assemblies are designed for you, attend them. Make every day count. Your parents and relatives are proud of your success to this point and watch anxiously your progress in college. If you love them, do not hurt them. I am sure that you can keep them happy by responding to your responsibilities as a student. This I want, and so do you. Your best will meet our best—and that is good teamwork, isn't it?

I wish you a happy and fruitful year, all of you. Do not pass through Husson—live through it. Be a "doer," and all things will come to you.

Drop into my office sometime. We should know each other better. I will furnish the coffee.

Cordially,

Chief

HUSSON COLLEGE

Absence Regulations—1967-68

Every student is expected to attend each and every class meeting for which he or she is registered. It is understood that there may be extenuating circumstances beyond one's control which may cause the student to be absent from class.

Therefore, Husson College has established the following attendance regulations for 1967-68.

1. Disregard all other previous rules and regulations.

2. Number of absences allowed:
   5 days a week class—8 for semester.
   4 days a week class—8 for semester.
   3 days a week class—6 for semester.
   2 days a week class—4 for semester.

3. A warning slip will be issued by the instructor when you return after your last absence. If you are absent after this warning is issued, you are overcut! !

4. Appeal to the Absenteeism Committee:
   A. May be made in case of extended hospitalization or extended illness.
   B. A STUDENT MUST VALIDATE EACH AND EVERY ABSENCE IN ORDER TO APPEAL.
   C. Student must report to Joyce Dyer at Hart Hall for Appeal Slip.
   D. Student will present slip to instructor in order to return to class. Instructor will keep appeal notice.
   E. Student will appeal to the Absenteeism Committee on the following Wednesday. The Committee meets in Room 5, Main Building at 3:00 p. m.
   F. Failure to appeal on specified date will constitute an automatic F in the course.

5. Only ONE appeal is possible. The 1967-68 Committee has one or more members of the Faculty Senate and several classroom instructors on it. The College Administration has vested all powers for reinstatment in the Committee.

6. WARNING: A student is considered absent if he enters his class after ten minutes past the hour. If you are within your 10-minute limit, it is up to the student to notify the instructor after the class that said student was tardy. Student's name will then be crossed off the attendance list.

7. OVERCUT constitutes "F" grade which is figured in the cumulative point average.

Gift Of Gab For Pure Blarney

Tangible recognition is about to be given to those who excel in prodigious discussion.

Or. . . . those blessed with the gift of gab.

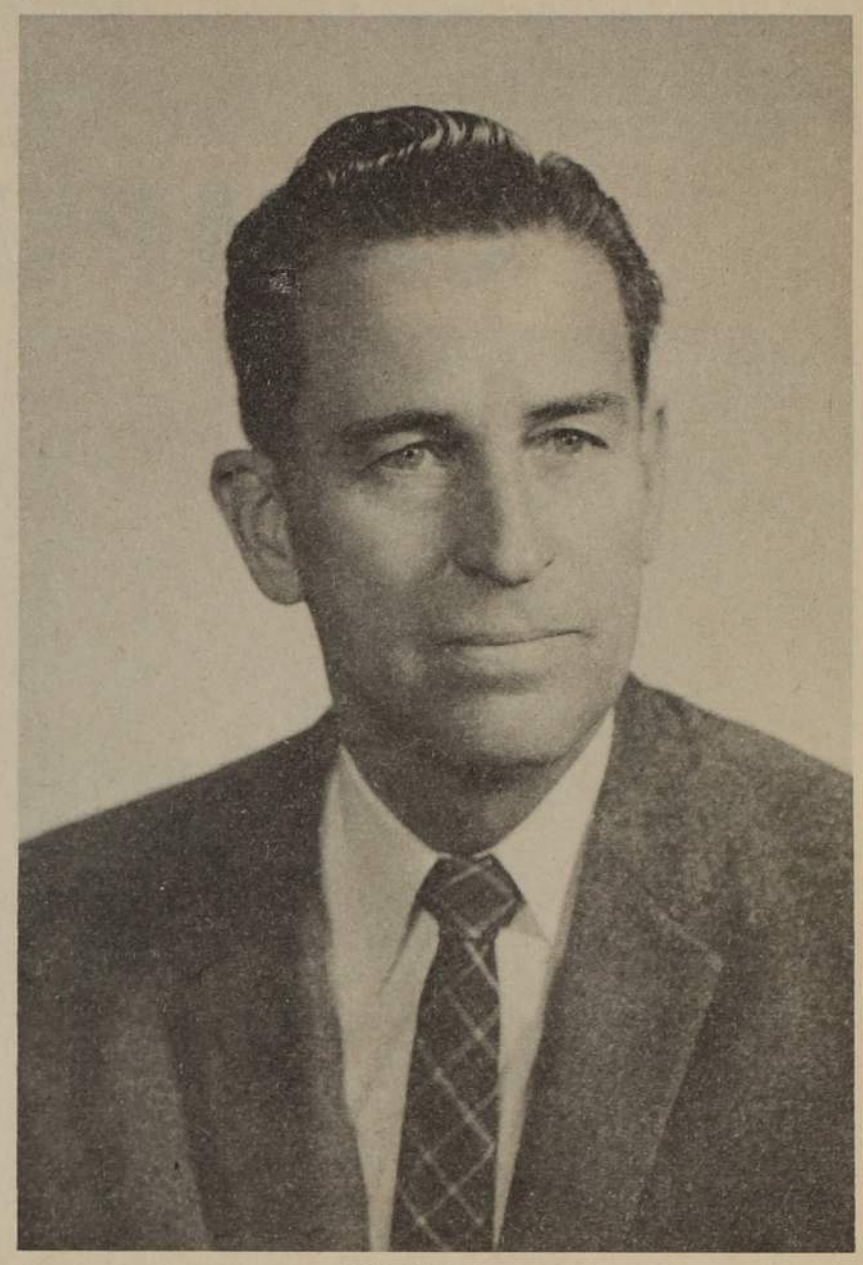

A new organization has been formed that owes its very existence to the fine art of artful articulation, superative elocution, vociferous verbosity, keen wit and wordy good cheer. . . appropriately named. . .

"The Gift of Gab Society"

"Too long have Americans been still. Now is the time to speak out. The art of conversation is not dead, and it's not sleeping in Mexico City either," said I. M. Garrulous, Custodian of the Official Stein for the organization. "To those who have held the torch—to the cab drivers, disc jockeys, bartenders, and beauty parlor operators who have kept conversation alive in spite of stoney faces and steely looks—we owe our appreciation and a vote of thanks," he continued.

The by-laws of the Gift of Gab Society provide for the encouragement and development of light-hearted individuals whose conversation reveals the touch of the poet. As a public service and with the sole purpose of acknowledging discriminating raconteurs, the society has been formed by that noteworthy supporter of non-filling, no-carbohydrate conversation, Gablinger's Beer.

Outstanding Faculty Personality

Millard E. Foss
Dean of Men

By Stephen E. Mitchell

This year the staff of the Ledger has decided to honor an outstanding faculty member in each of its five issues. As editor of the Ledger, it is my privilege to announce that Millard E. Foss, Dean of Men, has been chosen as the Ledger's first outstanding faculty personality.

Millard E. Foss was born in the Washington County town of Jonesboro, which is located on the coast of Maine. Mr. Foss spent his youth in Jonesboro and was graduated from Jonesboro High School. He entered Husson College (known as Bangor Maine School of Commerce, 1926-1947) and upon completing the three-year Teacher-training course, received his diploma. While a Husson student, he was active in various organizations. He was president of the Men's Athletic Association, a member of Mu Sigma Chi Fraternity, and was a student assistant in the accounting department.

Upon graduation, he accepted a teaching position at Dennysville High School which is located in Washington County. He not only taught business subjects but also was the coach of a very capable basketball team which went to the tourneys for competition in the State Basketball Finals.

Mr. Foss stated "I caught my first Atlantic salmon in Dennysville. I used to go fishing from 3 a. m. until it was time to pack up and get to school." He still loves hunting, fishing, and canoeing, as well as gardening.

In 1942, he entered the U. S. Air Force and was stationed here in the United States.

In the fall of 1946, Millard E. Foss started his teaching career at Husson College. He has taught accounting, typewriting, junior business training, law, mathematics, taxes, and business organization and management. He has taught evening school as well as in summer school here at Husson. He is presently teaching math and all phases of business law. He received his B. S. degree in 1951 and his M. Ed. degree in 1956, both from the University of Maine.

A young woman, Marie Plummer, from Machias in Washington County, came into his life and they were married in 1947. They have a daughter, Penny, and the family resides in Hampden.

Mr. Foss was appointed as the first Dean of Men at Husson College in September, 1954, when the enrollment of students was only 400. There were approximately 200 male students then; today, there are 964 male students enrolled at Husson. Dormitory accommodations find 397 of the men at the Town and Country Motel, Twin City Motel, Plaza Motel, Y.M.C.A., and Husson Hall. There are sixteen proctors as well as one head proctor. Mr. Foss is also assisted by Mr. David S. Robinson, Assistant Dean of Men, and Mr. William Herd, Dormitory Director.

"I can only say that I will be anxious to move to the new campus where all men will be in two new dormitory buildings. I am anxious to have any male student come into my office and have a chat. I would like to get to know each male student personally. I have an open door any time. My office is located at Husson Hall."

This article cannot possibly hope to reveal all the attributes of Millard E. Foss. It is my hope that you, the reader, will become more familiar with Mr. Foss. This academic year marks his twenty-second year at Husson. The Ledger takes off its hat to you, Mr. Foss.

The Big Little Things

Some few weeks ago I spoke to a young people's group on Little Cranberry Island. The boat trip to the island was delightful. It was a lovely day, and the scenery was beautiful. I stayed with the young people throughout the day and gave my talk that evening. The boys and girls were to stay for the weekend, but I had to be taken back to the mainland after dark. By now the weather had changed considerably. The skies were sullen and gray; the wind was blowing hard; and the rain was coming down. There was another hazard besides the weather. Our progress in the dark was hindered considerably by the presence of hundreds of small lobster buoys dotting the surface of the ocean. It was necessary for our craft to thread its way through this maze of buoys without getting one or more of them entangled in the propeller or around the shaft. Other vessels were on the move, and some vessels were tied at their moorings. Our searchlight had no difficulty picking up the vessels in our path and taking action to avoid them. It was the small and, at times, almost indiscernable lobster buoys that created the greatest problem.

So many times in life it is the so-called smaller difficulties that present the greater difficulty. It is gratifying to see how the majority of individuals handle the major crises of life. So many times it is the accumulation of the little things that destroy us. There seems to be a time when "a straw can break the camel's back." Many of us are familiar with the story of how for want of a nail a shoe was lost, for want of a shoe a horse was lost, and eventually a kingdom was lost.

We lost so much out of life by neglecting what seems to be the small things. Being courteous, appreciative, and friendly is not difficult, and they add so much to life. On the other hand, such things as quick temper, impatience, cheap talk, inattention, self-centeredness have, at times, detracted greatly from the enjoyment of life. In basketball one foul may seem a small thing, but games have been lost because of it.

We know the big things that have brought you to this college: the desire to get an education, to pass courses, to get good grades, to get the foundation stones of success, to get that diploma; but, on the way to these achievements, don't get entangled in some of these little things that can slow you down and perhaps stop progress altogether.

PLACEMENT OFFICE

By James L. Wright

On September 29 a senior class meeting was held at Harlow Street Auditorium to discuss this year's recruiting program. Since many seniors were unable to attend the meeting, it seemed appropriate to devote this article of the Ledger to announce the results. It was decided that each senior would be invited to visit the Placement Office for a 5-to 10-minute interview on the following schedule:

October 2-20— All February graduates.

October 23-November 6—Accounting majors.

November 6-December 15—Business Administration majors

Month of April—Business Education and Secretarial majors.

These short interviews are for the purpose of getting acquainted, talking over plans, and improving communications. This is certainly not a rigid schedule, and you are free to come in at any time. President Husson wants each senior to do this. We are concerned with each of you as you develop your future plans. The Placement Office can help you in this endeavor by lining up interviews, aiding in your choice of company contacts, letter writing and resumes, counseling you regarding specific interests, and providing references.

Part of the senior meeting was devoted to explaining the Federal Service Entrance Exam (for bachelor's candidates) and the Junior Federal Assistance Exam (for associate degree candidates). There is a multitude of challenging and rewarding career opportunities in government at all levels.

At the meeting Sgt. Casey spoke to the seniors about the officers candidate program of the Air Force. "Regardless of your choice of service," he explained, "do not put off applying. Do it early so that you know where you stand." Mr. Robert Anderson (Bus. Adm. '64) spoke to the group about his job as an investment counselor. Bob, who left the U. S. Army as a 1st Lieutenant, also urged the men to enter the service as an officer candidate.

Some of the do's and don'ts of job seeking that were mentioned at the meeting were:

Do you think about a variety of opportunities and spend time researching potential jobs?

Don't put all your eggs in one basket.

Take interviews even though you may be drafted.

Prepare for the interview by reading the company brochure, being on time, being neat in appearance, and finding out what it is you might be able to contribute to the company. You don't have to ask the interviewer what the job pays if you have conscientiously done your homework.

Don't base your judgments on hearsay and misinformation. A good offer for Jones may not be a good one for you and vice-versa.

Weigh all of the factors involved—not just one or two. Do not think you are "whipped" if your point average is on the lower side. Concentrate instead on the tremendous number of opportunities that are available. Don't expect that all seniors will be placed at $8,000. Somewhere between $5,500 and $8,000 is what you are worth. What you receive will depend on the job, what skills you have to offer, fringe benefits, degree of risk and so on. Many jobs are low paying at the beginning but pay scales move up rapidly. Others pay low but provide an automobile. Many times the advancement potential or the challenge of the job is more important than initial salary.

Space is running out and I do want to include this year's tentative recruiting schedule. Please drop by for a chat at your first opportunity.

Husson's New Faculty

L. to R., Front Row: Joanne Kendall, James McKee, William Combs, Harriet Eaton, Karl McGaw; L. to R., Back Row: John Crawford, Floyd Barnett, Bruce Gillaspey, Daniel Hylan, Gordon Halpern, Alfred Webster.

The year 1967-68 has brought many changes in the faculty. New faces are being seen on campus and in the various classrooms.

Mr. William Coombs of Portland, Maine, has joined the staff of the Accounting Department. Coombs is a graduate of Nasson College and was awarded the M.B.A. degree from the University of Maine in Portland. Mr. Coombs taught at the new Unity Institute last year. He is teaching Accounting to the Freshmen. Mr. Coombs is now making his home in Orono, Maine.

The Department of Business Administration has acquired four new instructors. Mr. Floyd Barnett, a Husson graduate and a newly-appointed CLU (Certified Life Underwriter) was a sudden addition to the faculty and quite by accident, too. Suddenly, two days before the Freshmen came, Miss Swan was notified by letter that a new teacher to the staff would not come! Barnett had just stated that he was interested in teaching a few days before in a conversation with Mr. Curran. A quick phone call and Mr. Barnett came to the rescue. Barnett is married and makes his home in Ellsworth. He is an insurance salesman. Barnett is teaching courses in Management, Sales, and Law.

Mr. John Crawford of Burlington, Vermont, is now teaching Labor Economics and Law at Husson. Mr. Crawford taught the past few years at Champlain College in Burlington. Mr. Crawford's family is grown up and he is a grandfather. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford have purchased a home on Winter Street. He has a B. S. degree from the University of Rhode Island and is working on his Master's degree at the University of Vermont.

One of the most impressive men on campus is Lt. Colonel Bruce Gillaspey, U.S.A., Retired. Gillaspey (Mr. to us) has just retired after a colorful career in the United States Army. The past year Mr. Gillaspey was associated with a large industrial firm in a New Jersey city. With a young son, Mr. Gillaspey wished to move his family to the quiet area of the good old State of Maine. So New Jersey's loss is Husson's gain. Mr. Gillaspey is teaching Law and Management. He will teach Real Estate courses, also. Mr. and Mrs. Gillaspey and son, Steele, live at 48 Silver Road, Bangor.

In the Business Administration Department, we find a new classroom instructor who is teaching Finance. He is A. James McKee. McKee is a graduate of the University of Maine. He was awarded a M.B.A. by the University of Maine in Portland. Mr. and Mrs. McKee make their home in Bangor. McKee has taught at the University of Maine in Portland. Husson's faculty has been improved by the addition of this fine young man.

The English Department is fortunate in the acquisition of Miss Joanne Kendall of West Haven, Connecticut. Miss Kendall has a B. A. degree from the University of Connecticut. While working, Miss Kendall completed a Master of Arts degree at Boston University. Miss Kendall has served in the Peace Corps and has taught the Africans to speak English. She is teaching Freshman English and Report Writing and has replaced Miss Babson as cheerleading coach.

The Division of Liberal Studies has four new instructors this year. Mr. Alfred Webster has been added to the Mathematics faculty. Mr. Webster has a B.S. degree form the University of Maine and a Master of Arts degree from Boston College. Mr. Webster has majored in the various facets of Mathematics with a direction toward Computers. Currently he is studying Data Processing and Computers. He has had training as a Programmer. Mr. and Mrs. Webster have three very active youngsters and live in Brewer. Mr. Webster was teaching at Brewer High School.

Husson is fortunate in obtaining the service of Mr. Daniel Hylan of Orrington. Mr. Hylan is teaching Economic Geography and Western Civilization. Geography is his major and he enjoys teaching it. Hylan has a B. S. from Farmington State College and a Master of Education degree from the State Universtiy. Mr. and Mrs. Hylan have a new baby who was the youngest at the faculty picnic this year. Mr. Hylan has taught at Brewer High School.

Mr. Gordon Halpern of Hampden Highlands, the new instructor of Human Relations, Sociology, and Social Problems, has a B. S. degree from Brooklyn College in New York. He also has a Master's degree from Long Island University. He has been a former psychologist at the Eastern Maine Guidance Center. Mr. Halpern is a certified Counsellor.

Two new, but familiar faces are seen about the Secretarial Science office. Mrs. Harriet Eaton and Karl McGaw have joined the Husson staff.

Mrs. Eaton is a graduate of Husson College. She is the mother of three daughters and one son. Her husband, Larry, is a Husson grad and is employed by Dead River Oil Company. Mrs. Eaton is teaching Secretarial Accounting and Typewriting. The Eatons make their home on Webster Avenue in Bangor.

McGaw earned his B.S. degree at Husson College. He has taught several years at Bangor High School and has conducted the M.D.E.A. program in the city for a number of years. McGaw owns his home on Broadway. He is teaching on the Team in the area of Secretarial Procedures and is teaching Advanced Shorthand.

The Administration and faculty welcome the additions.

Back from summer vacation, the Brothers of Mu Sigma Chi, under Pres. Steve Jacobs, are all set to get in on the action. The first order of business was to get the Pledge Program underway, and under Pledge Masters Dunc Jordan and Okey O'Conner, Hell Week began on Octobre 1. For the rest of the week 24 of the best men in school proved themselves well. The Pledge Leaders were Dick Bilodeau and Randy Murphy. These men will become brothers at Formal Initiation early in November.

The Brothers and Pledges have all been busy with the reopening of the fraternity house. This marks the fifth year that Mu Sigma Chi has had its house. Things seem to be shaping up, and the house is in topnotch condition.

Mu Sigma Chi is grateful to have its two faithful employes back again this year. "Ma" True returns for her second year and "Dutchie" Goode, our cook, returns for her fifth year. Dutchie is more than a good cook—she is forever guiding the Brothers with helpful hints on running the House.

MEX has just finished a very successful pledge program—hell week—being the week of October 1-7. The Pledges proved during hell week that they are men, and that they have a sincere desire to become Brothers of Mu Sigma Chi.

The Brothers were honored to have as a guest Robert Bahr from Milwaukee. On Monday, October 2, Bob spoke to a joint meeting of Mu Sigma Chi, Epsilon Tau Epsilon, and Delta Sigma Delta on the 1968 Pi Rho Zeta Conclave which will be held in Milwaukee.

It didn't take the annual raffle long to get going and this year's better than ever. MEX is giving away a beautiful General Electric Console Stereo with AM-FM Radio which is being displayed in the Bookstore window. Chances are $.25 apiece or five for $1.00 and can be purchased from any Brother.

There's plenty to be done this year, but it's not all work. Keep your eyes open and you may be in on some of the fun.

Maine Is On The Move

Still lingering in the minds of many Maine people is the belief that to find opportunity one must go elsewhere, this despite mounting evidence to the contrary.

When I was young there was a measure of validity to the claim that opportunity was sparse. Lumbering and farming were the principal pursuits, and if one didn't fit into either of those categories, and neither promised much, he had little choice but to pack his bag and look elsewhere.

Now things are changing, and dramatically so. Maine is becoming a land of promise, a new frontier where opportunity will be unlimited.

Curiously, this new promise that Maine holds is recognized to a greater extent by those who live elsewhere than by our own citizens. As a result, more and more of them are moving here, enthusiastic people who are making their way to the top in government, business, industry, and in the professions. Their positive thinking is fast dissipating the dreary negativism that has dogged Maine for so many generations.

Of course it is well enough to say all this, but is this optimistic outlook backed by facts? From the following, judge for yourself.

Standish K. Bachman recently completed a four-year term as Commissioner of the Maine Department of Economic Development. In a report, he said that during that period Maine manufacturers have spent a half billion dollars in plant modernization and expansion. Between January 1964 and July 1967, 67 new industrial plants opened their doors. The value of goods manufactured in Maine increased for the fifth consecutive year and for the first time topped two billion dollars. Per capita income increased by 21.5 percent; the Maine business index value has risen by 21.9 points. The number of unemployed in the Maine labor force has declined by 1.4 percent. More and more it is becoming not a question of seeking new industries for Maine, but in providing professional and skilled help for those who are anxious to move here. All this shows the way the wind is blowing.

Of course there are reasons for Maine's emergence; reasons why its desirability will increase with the years. The metropolitan areas are becoming overcrowded, smog enshrouded, choked with traffic, beset with the many social ills that are making them all but untenable. That being so, people are looking for less crowded places; places where one can work more productively; places where life can be lived more graciously. And so more and more of them are turning their faces toward Maine.

Maine is becoming more and more attractive to the so-called growth industries—electronics, instrumentation, and so forth. These space age industries pay top salaries to those with the proper training in a wide range of categories. And, of course, every one of them that comes here spawns a need for goods and services of all kinds.

Maine is on the move, and those of us who are here on the ground floor would be somewhat less than wise if we did not give a long hard look at what the future holds. Let us forget the old wives tale about lack of opopportunity here.

Pi Rho Zeta Conclave

Twenty-eight Husson College delegates returned from the Pi Rho Zeta International Conclave held at Winchester, Virginia, with six honors following the week-long conclave.

Two Husson College officials were elected officers of Pi Rho Zeta International. Miss Dolores Renaud, assistant professor in the Secretarial Science Department, was selected 2nd vice president. "Chief" Husson was reelected to his office of Governor General for another term.

Miss Mary Richard of Bangor, a member of Epsilon Tau Epsilon Sorority and a June 1967 Business Education graduate, was crowned Queen of the Conclave.

A second award was made to Epsilon Tau Epsilon Sorority for its chapter scrapbook prepared by Linda Vadnais of Arundel.

For the second time, a Bangor chapter of the international organization was awarded the travel trophy for the most mileage logged by Chapter delegates from home port to the convention site. Epsilon Delta Alumnae Chapter was presented the trophy at the annual Banquet dance for a grand total of 7,020 miles.

A delegate from Delta Sigma Delta Sorority, Deborah Stubbs of Hampden, received the fourth award, a $75 scholarship.

As a result of the Bangor Delegation's campaigning, the 1969 Conclave will be held in Bangor.

Peace is Sweet

by Glenn Reed

A battle scarred old lady,
Gazes out across the trembling fields.
She has seen the brave of a hundred nations die.
She has seen the tears that a million mothers cry.
She weeps not.

She has seen a peaceful people go to war,
She has heard the dove quoth nevermore.
And huddled masses yearning to be free,
Are not hers alone to see.
She smiles not.

For she knows that there are free who see not this,
Or are afraid to loose their bliss.
They fear the chains of responsibility,
That are the price of liberty.
They care not.

Her hand is trembling as she holds the lamp.
And o'er the golden door they tramp.
Pulling their chains of slavery,
Only democracy could choose to forfeit liberty.
Peace is Sweet.

Bangor Brewer Tuberculosis Center

The Bangor-Brewer Tuberculosis and Health Center is a community facility operated by the Bangor-Brewer Tuberculosis and Health Association—a voluntary agency dedicated to the eventual eradication of tuberculosis and the control of all respiratory diseases through a program of health education, health services, and community organization.

The work of the Health Center, which is located just above Carlisle Hall on Broadway, is supported by Christmas Seals, endowment income, and other voluntary contributions.

Every year approximately 15,000 Christmas Seal letters go out to friends of the Association. From the returns, 25 cents of every dollar goes to the State and National TB Association for research, educational materials, and other services.

Although, in the interests of protecting the community, no fee is ever charged to a TB patient or a TB contact, other individuals who can afford to pay a nominal fee for a chest x-ray. In addition, voluntary gifts, bequests, and memorials support the services offered by the TB and Health Center.

This TB Center is open to Husson students. You are all encouraged to accept the facilities of this center. You will receive a pulmonony test as well as a tuberculin test. If there are enough students interested, there are lectures and movies available at the Center on tuberculosis. Take advantage of these free services.

Delta Sigma Delta

A number of the sisters attended the Conclave in Virginia this summer. It was a great success as many traveled long distances to attend. In fact, Husson received the traveling award.

At the next meeting, new officers will be elected, since many of last fall's officers have graduated. We are now considering upperclassmen for immediate acceptance into the sorority. Freshmen will be eligible for membership after completion of the first quarter.

At the present time, we are planning fund raising projects. We are looking forward to initiation of many new members and an active year.

General $75 Student Fee

This fee replaces the four fees charged in previous years and in addition includes $10 per year towards the graduation fee. Previously, the graduation fee of $40 was paid during the student's final year in school.

The general fee partially covers the cost of benefits enjoyed by all students. Some of these benefits are: free admission to all athletic events, student publications, placement, guidance, counseling, use of library, student financial aid, medical service, and pay for faculty advisors to student organizations.

Christmas Ball

Mu Sigma Chi's annual Christmas Ball is going to be the best yet. Headed by Chairman Gene Melville, the Ball will be held on Friday night, December 8, at the Pilots Grill. Music will be furnished by Nat Diamond and his Band and will run from 8:30 to 12:00 p. m. The Ball will be highlighted with the election and crowning of the Sweetheart from four candidates. Her first official act will be to draw the winner of the beautiful GE Console Stereo with AM-FM Radio which the frat is raffling off. Bids will be limited and will sell for $4.00 per couple.

Kappa Delta Phi

We found a door

and traded it in for a jacket!!

Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity has initiated 25 new members into its brotherhood. Informal pledging began last May when 54 interested young men began by doing various tasks around the College, attending study tables and smokers. The informal pledge period ended by having a pin party at which the brothers of Kappa individually pinned their new little brothers.

Hell week began on September 22 and lasted for ten days. During this hazing period, the pledges were dealt both intensive physical and mental harrassment. The week was under the supervision of co-pledge masters R. Cataldo Digennaro and Steve Higgins. The all-important first degree was held on Saturday night, September 29, with second degree on the following morning. That same night a combined dinner and formal initiation was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Bangor.

The new Kappa Delta Phi Brothers are: Thomas E. Tarr, Richard W. O'Buck, Douglas W. Chase, Joel Michaud, Ralph F. Kennedy, Ken B. Simpson, Douglas E. Owens, James L. Ruby, Paul A. Whitney, John F. Jones, George N. Soutiere, John F. Keddy, Gregory T. Worthley, Robert DiMinno, Robert Godbout, Robert C. Shin, Peter Dobriko, Glen L. Gaspar, Bradley G. Dooling, William R. Tacintho, Shawn Lewin, G. Brian Erskine, Forest W. Hamilton, John W. Hunt, and Dave S. Parker.

Sunday, October 22nd, at Garland Street Field was the scene of the first inter fraternity football game. There was plenty of fraternity spirit from both sides with various cheers and challenges to the opposition. Kappa won the game 12 to 6.

SOCCER TEAM WINS FIRST TWO

The first scheduled game set for September 30 was called as a steady rain continued through the day, but this proved no effect concerning the determined Husson eleven against Ricker on October 3. The constant hustle by F. Faalepo, Bryar, and Burt Phornphiboon sparked the 4-1 victory. The first score came early as Lim booted one through a confused Ricker defense. The game resumed and play remained equal until Faalepo scored the first of his two goals. Due to a Husson foul, Ricker scored their first and only goal by a free kick. Good teamwork was obvious as Williams scored the third goal and Faalepo ended the scoring for both teams with his late period goal.

Husson traveled to Fort Kent October 7 for their second victory. The 3-2 score showed a little more competition for the Braves, but not enough for defeat. The steady teamwork was again the winning factor. Lim had another good day with two goals and Williams with the other. Coaches Mr. T. Anderson and Mr. Peter Tucker, along with the support of Husson's student body, can look forward to a good season.

Faculty Awards

Three Bangor men and an Ellsworth executive were awarded the coveted Chartered Life Underwriter designation at National Conferment Exercises of the American College of Life Underwriters in Chicago, Illinois, on September 8 and presented their certificates during a Conferment Dinner sponsored by Maine Chapter of the American Society of Law Underwriters Thursday evening at the Sheraton Eastland Hotel in Portland.

Receiving the awards were William J. Curran, Jr., of Bangor, head of the department of Business Administration at Husson College, Ronald E. Bishop of Bangor, special agent for National Life Insurance of Vermont, Earl Fuller of Bangor, manager of the Prudential Life Insurance Company; and Floyd Barnett of Ellsworth, representative for Mutual of New York Life Insurance Company. Making the presentations was Chesley H. Husson, Sr., President of Husson College.

The American College of Life Underwriters grants the C.L.U. designation to persons engaged in activities relating to the insuring of human life values and who pass a series of professional examinations and meet the stringent experience and ethical requirements of the College.

The CLU program was established to meet the professional education needs of the men and women who provide life and health insurance service for the public. The courses cover such areas as: fundamentals of life and health insurance; group insurance, health insurance and pensions; law, trusts and taxation; economics and finance; and business insurance and estate planning.

The typical candidate for the C. L. U. designation enrolls in a special study class at a college or university and spends four to five years in the program. Locally, classes are taught at Husson College.

A Pawn For A Pawn

by Glen Reed

From a quiet weep,
I lapse into a sleepless sleep.
And your quiet eyes,
laugh up at me.
There are no lies,
Love will always be.

The sleepy haze begins to clear,
Because the sun is drifting near.
And finally the longest hours are gone,
those that come so close to dawn!
The ones that prove that life goes on,
The ones that prove that you are gone.

And because you cared,
Your image reaches out its hand;
To a mind that cannot understand,
But darling I'm not scared;
Life will go on,
With one less pawn.

The Freshman Beanie

This year the Beanie was worn for such a short time by so few that it was noted on campus by upperclassmen and faculty as a definite loss.

The "Beanie" which is presented to you by Husson College when you enroll as a 'lowly' Frosh is a way of life on all campuses! In many colleges, Frosh pay for the "Beanie." What is the purpose of a "Beanie?" For a short period of time, the "Beanie" signifies that you are Freshmen; that you are new; that you may be lonesome; that you may need help; that you may be scared; that you may be happy; that you may be a good sport; that you may not be a good sport; that you are a member of the greatest class on campus—this year, the Class of 1971.

Why is this a privilege? Have you thought of the many young men who are in Viet Nam today and NOT in the college of their choice? Have you thought of the hundreds of young girls who are not in college but working in factories? What wouldn't these young men and women give to be in your shoes—the Freshman. I imagine that they would swap the caps and hats they wear for the lowly "Beanie." You can just bet they would if they had the chance.

Do you Frosh realize how the city officials and people feel when they see the streets of Bangor filled with students with the green and white Beanies? They can identify you, and Bangor is glad you have chosen Husson.

Why did you remove the Beanie—a few, then more and slowly but definitely no "Beanies" in classes, none in the gym, and none on the streets. This all happened before the first soccer game! Perhaps, the answer is that the Class of 1970 failed in its obligation to the Class of 1971—too busy, perhaps, to see that the Frosh wore their Beanies—too few interested in making the Frosh aware of their obligations to the "Friendly School Upon the Hill."

What about you—Class of 1971—You must have an answer—Certainly these past two weeks you have seen the Fraternity pledges walk around in a daze from lack of sleep; stand in a group at the appearance of a school administrator, etc. Is this so different from the wearing of the "Beanie?" I believe it is NOT!!

So, a few words of advice to you members of the Class of 1971. Do not fail in your obligations to the Class of 1972. Be organized—stand up and be counted as a fine class. Plan, be ready, and be present in September of 1968 when the college goes into new quarters. Make the "Beanie" meaningful to the Class of 1972. See that all Freshmen are happy to wear the "Beanie." Teach them the meaning of it.

School spirit is something you start to build at the beginning of your college career. The Class of 1969 will have the honor of graduating from the new facilities; the Class of 1970 will have two years to enjoy the new campus; and the Class of 1971 will be there three years.

In spite of the distances travelled from Harlow Street to Carlisle, there is a closely knit, friendly feeling which exists on campus. Your faculty is interested in you and your success. Your department heads are available for help in the academic areas; your Deans and the Chaplain will aid you with personal or social problems.

Rifle Team

Rifle Team

The Husson College Rifle Team, as of this year, has become an intercollegiate team under the supervision of the Athletic Department. The original Rifle Club was formed as an informal group three years ago. Since the first year, the club progressed rapidly under the coaching of Mr. George Mueller and the over-all enthusiasm of the members.

Last year the Rifle Club participated in approximately 27 postal matches and won 9. In the four shoulder-to-shoulder matches, the club won 2 and lost 2.

This year's hopes are high. The team consists of 13 members of which 5 are returning shooters, and the remaining consist chiefly of freshmen and sophomores. The hosts this year will be various colleges in the state plus a series of postal matches. The team looks forward to a season of good competition.

Faculty Promotions

Clara L. Swan, Academic Dean, has announced the promotion of two instructors to assistant professors. Promoted were Dolores Renaud and George Mueller, Jr.

An instructor in the Department of Secretarial Science for the past six years, Miss Renaud earned her B. S. degree at Husson College and was recently awarded the Master of Education Degree from the University of Maine. She is advisor of the Student Education Association and co-advisor of the Future Secretaries Association.

Mr. Mueller, of the Department of Business Administration, received his Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration and Masters of Education degree from Suffolk University. At Husson, Mr. Mueller teaches in the area of marketing and retailing and has organized and developed the College Rifle Team which competes on a national basis. He has been on the Husson College faculty for four years.

Remember — THE "BEANIE"!!! —in the fall of 1968—is your problem—Frosh of 1971!

Husson Players Plan Busy Season "Harvey" Set For November 16 - 17

Mary Chase's three act comedy Harvey, will be the first production of the Husson Players this year, as Husson thespiains make plans for another busy and productive season.

Harvey, the lovable six foot rabbit, created by Mary Chase in 1943, has become almost a classic on the American stage. Aside from being extremely funny, the play has a message for those of us who are too concerned with what others think, to enjoy life. As in past productions, the play will present an excellent cast, well-suited to their roles. Mr. Weymouth will direct the show.

In addition to Harvey, an evening of one-act plays will be presented in March, while a second major production will be forthcoming in May. The Husson Players are presently considering "Inherit the Wind," a masterpiece of contemporary theatre, as the spring production.

As in last year's program, short plays and skits will be available to the local area, and consideration will be given to taking "Harvey" on the road as was done last year with "Bus Stop."

Membership to the Husson Players is open to any Husson or Conservatory student upon application to the club. Application forms are available in the college bookstore.

S. E. A.

On October 10, 1967, SEA started off the new year with an informal meeting at Husson Hall. Round table discussions on teacher-student incidents were the main part of the meeting.

The New England Regional Conference was held at Peterborough, New Hampshire, on October 13, 14, 15. Two delegates—Laurel Rokes and Teresa Bourgoine — attended, along with the SEAM State Secretary, Gene Melville.

In its planning stages is an education conclave. SEA is asking Mr. Logan, Commissioner of Education, State of Maine, to speak to all Business Education majors in the Harlow Street Auditorium. SEA members are excited about this possible program sometime in November and hope it will come about.

For past SEA meetings, there have been speakers, films, panel and group discussions. Also, attending the several conferences and conventions is a part of SEA.

A Christmas party will highlight the month of December, and election of officers is in January.

Epsilon Tau Epsilon

Epsilon Tau Epsilon sorority is looking forward to a busy year. At our first meeting, we elected Betty Jane Smith as our new Student Senate representative and Sue Cannell as our new Chaplain. An open house was held for all degree girls, at which everyone enjoyed games and refreshments. We are expecting a great group of girls this year when we start pledging. Tryouts for the annual ETE Amateur Talent Show were successfully held and all are looking forward to "a really big show." Plans are already under way to raise money by selling candy again this year.

Circle K Club

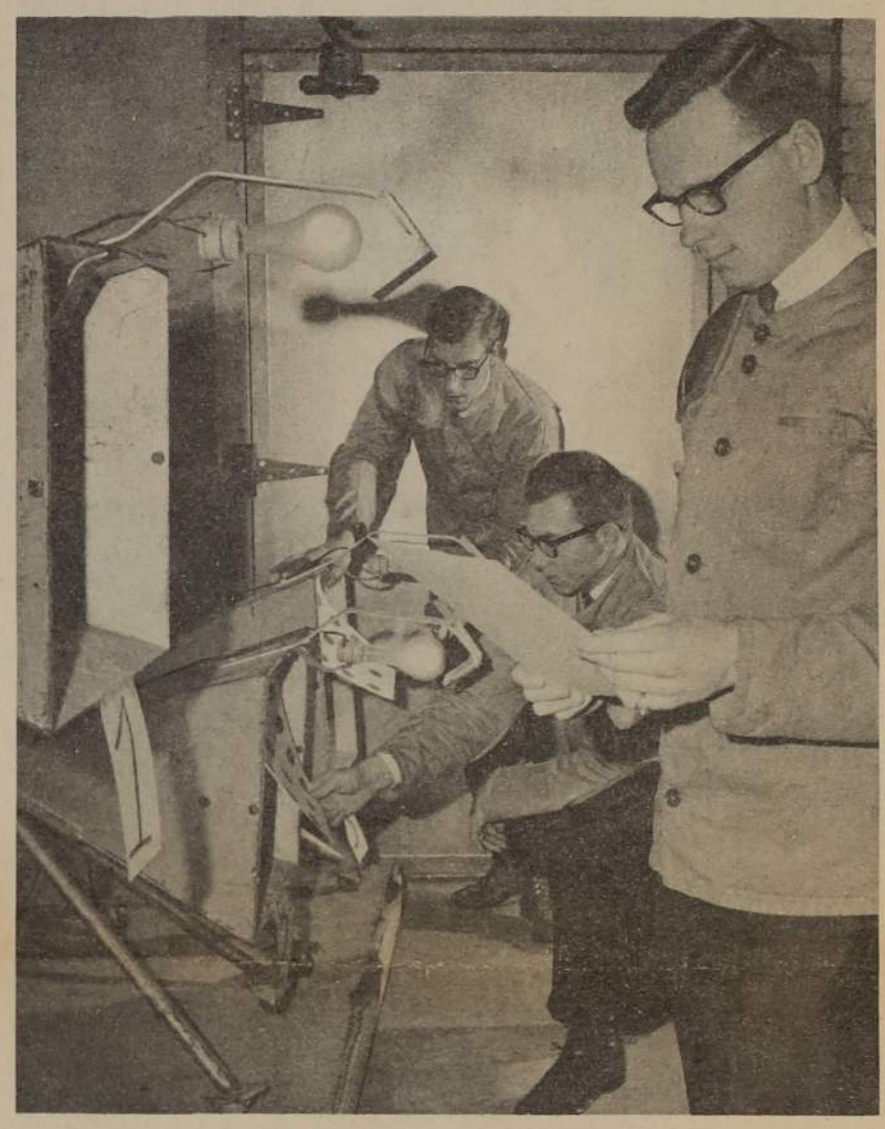

The Circle K Club is well underway in the 1967-68 academic year under the direction of the new advisor, Mr. Anderson.

The new Board of Directors elected are: David Titus, William Brown, Jack Willette, and Mark Willette.

The following new members entered the club on October 4: William Davis, David Kendall, Ben Wenowitz, Richard Sawyer, Robert Huggin, Ralph Strycharz, Robert Bird, and Douglass Grawf.

Duane Hults entered the club as a transfer from another Circle K Club.

On October 4 David Parker was elected as the new club parliamentarian.
