Proposed Campus Of Husson College

NEW CAMPUS TO BE READY IN '66

Husson College is in the process of planning a new Campus, which will include an administrative and classroom structure, gymnasium and a series of dormitories. The proposed site is just off Broadway at Grandview Avenue.

The future campus "still in early stages of planning," is hoped to be readied for occupancy by the fall of 1966.

President Chesley H. Husson, Sr., indicates an increase to 1,200 students by the time the new campus is ready. By 1970 the College expects a student body of 2,500.

"Bangor is being considered for the site of the new campus." The proposed property plans will need the endorsement of the City and Chamber of Commerce in the acquisition of the land and an extension of Grandview Avenue with related utilities.

"CHIEF" WELCOMES STUDENTS

Greetings:

A new year, our 67th, is under way. History is made when attendance records are broken, and this happened when classes started. My welcome to the new students, both freshmen and transfers, is cordial indeed. And to the upperclassmen, I say hello again; it's good to see you back on the trail that leads to fame and fortune—if that is to be your lot.

As all of you face the tasks ahead I have a few favors to ask of you. Not favors, really, but some things to consider wisely and well.

Each of you is making an investment of effort, time and money. These are arranged in the order of their importance. Your most important investment is in the efforts that you make to get a sound and thorough education. Your goal is occupational intelligence. Work hard for it. We are here to help and guide you to a fruitful and happy career. Be sure to get your money's worth! The Indian who goes into the woods with ten arrows is better off than the one with five. So fill your quiver while you are here. There is an employer waiting for you to get ready. Be ready for him when your classwork is done. I believe this to be good advice. You see, I have been here a long time and I have watched hundreds of young men and women march off the graduation platform into immediate careers.

As for the time and money, your time is the most valuable asset of all. If it is wasted or squandered it cannot be reclaimed. It is gone forever. If you are here for a year, or two, or four, then be sure at the end of that time that you will have completed your tasks and qualify for your degree. It will be your badge of approval. It will indicate promise of future sucesses. Employers prize them highly for they measure just how you spend your time and effort.

As to money, take a serious look at this table:

Lifetime Earnings
(NEA Research Bulletin, Vol. 42,
No. 1, February, 1964)

Less than eight years	$143,000.00
Eight years elementary school	$148,000.00
High School graduates	$247,000.00
College degrees	$385,000.00

Your college degree will bring you $138,000. more than your high school diploma. Consider these figures seriously.

This is an age of living standards never before known. Houses, cars, TV, appliances, travel, hobbies, never has there been so much for so many. If you would continue to live in the manner known to you, and by you, the extra income provided by a college education will help you and yours. A garage without a car? A house without a television set? A family without babies? Teenagers without funds for college? No money for vacations and travel? Think it over. Your needs and wants will be many, and, if you are wise, you will prepare for them. The time is now. As the fellow said, "I'm interested in my future because I expect to spend a lot of my time there." The school drop-out shortchanges himself, and the family that he expects to have. Don't you make that mistake. Just fight a bit harder when the chips are down. If you fail a test, then be better prepared for the next one. But stay with it. "A winner never quits, and a quitter never wins."

I enjoyed meeting the new students during freshman week. I thank them for their courtesy, their attention, their gentlemanly and ladylike conduct. Know something? Nice things happen to nice people. Let us all practice being friendly, being nice to each other. Such an atmosphere brightens the spirits, and makes Husson a nice place in which to work and play.

I'd enjoy a visit from you. My office is not "off limits." Just come, and I'll take care of the conversation. I'd like to know each of you better. In the meantime, I wish you a busy, challenging, successful, and delightful year at Husson College.

Cordially,
"Chief"

MR. LESTER J. NADEAU "CITED" BY LEDGER

"Mr. Nadeau has been given the football, and I have asked him to run with it," says President Chesley H. Husson, Sr. This is the President's summation of the duties he has given Mr. Lester J. Nadeau, Director of Public Affairs of Husson College. He sits in on all meetings to feel the pulse of the school, both academically and administratively, organizes county and city chapters of alumni, appears at many high school career conferences, exercises all his personal ingenuity in his work, and presents to the city, state, and nation a true image of Husson College as it is today.

Mr. Nadeau, a 1951 graduate of Deering High School, Portland, Maine, took the Classical course. He was President of senior class and participated in musical activities.

Mr. Nadeau was graduated from the University of Maine in 1959, receiving a B.A. Degree in Sociology and Journalism. Campus reporter, President of Sigma Chi Fraternity, and a member of the senior class executive committee were the activities in which he was most prominent at the University of Maine.

Between his junior and senior years at the University of Maine, Mr. Nadeau played as a professional musician, in the Johnny Long orchestra of New York City. He played extensively during this period on the East Coast and Mid-West.

Mr. Nadeau has worked for station WDEA, Ellsworth, Maine, where he was News and Copy Right Director and announcer. The Associated Press gave Mr. Nadeau "Special Mention" for his presentation of news coverage.

Before coming to Husson, Mr. Nadeau worked for the Department of Health and Welfare, State of Maine. Here he had a position as a social worker.

Now that Mr. Nadeau has been incorporated into the "Husson Family," he finds his work very interesting and stimulating. He had brought about extensive coverage in the local and state wide news media. Mr. Nadeau is to be commended for the fine progress that he has made in presenting the "Husson Image."

PRESIDENT CHESLEY H. HUSSON, SR., HONORED

In Detroit on November 6, 1964, President Chesley H. Husson, Sr., was honored at a breakfast meeting of the United Business Schools Association. There were between 450 and 500 guests present.

A history of Mr. Husson's life and career as a business college owner, administrator, and President was read to the audience. His many accomplishments, club memberships, comittee chairmanships were announced by Maurice L. Gorsky, Governor General of Pi Rho Zeta International. Mr. Gorsky presented President Husson with the C. W. Woodward Award which reads as follows: The C. W. Woodward Award presented to Chesley H. "Chief" Husson, Sr., and Husson College, Bangor, Maine, for encouragement of the principles of progressive business education to benefit students, educators, and the community by Pi Rho Zeta International Commerce Fraternity and Sorority, November 6, 1964.

This award was dedicated to the memory of C. W. Woodward, formerly Executive Secretary-Treasurer of Pi Rho Zeta International for at least twenty-five years. Mr. Woodward was an outstanding contributor in the area of business education. He is now retired and was unable to attend the breakfast because of ill health. This award will be made yearly to the President of the college or business school which sponsors the most active and outstanding fraternity and sorority chapters in Pi Rho Zeta.

This was a complete surprise to President Husson, and he was thrilled to the core. The plaque hangs on the wall outside his office for all to see.

Business educators, college presidents, and United States legislators attended the meeting.

High Ideals Don't Make Headlines

by
GEORGE DOMINELLO

We hear so such these days about teenage rebellion against society. Knowledgeable young adults, as well as alarmed editors, parents, and educators are begging for the answers. It is an oversimplification to call the Hampton, N.H. riot of last fall "a last fling of summer"; nor is it altogether honest to argue that 10,000 innocent, vacationing teens were suddenly led astray by the rhetoric of a few intoxicated agitators.

Level-headed teens have learned that it isn't impossible, nor even too difficult actually, to say NO to the crowd. Perhaps there aren't enough level-headed teens. Secure youths find their fun in our free society at the right time and the right place. Perhaps then, insecurity among young Americans is partly responsible.

Isn't it too easy to put the blame on parents even though they, too, must share the blame? Isn't it easier still to accuse the American School System of inadequate guidance and the law for lack of understanding? Let's be honest with ourselves. Young Americans claim to be as patriotic as any previous generation; yet disrespect for the law, disregard for private property, and selfish pursuit of "kicks" can scarcely be regarded as elements of patriotism. No wonder the headlines scream!

The other side of the coin isn't newsworthy, but is shines. Fortunately, for every rioting teen on American streets and beaches last summer, hundreds of thousands of young Americans were hard at work and hard at play far removed from their destructive peers. Perhaps young adults who have dedicated themselves to high ideals should protest for "equal space" in the nation's press.

Isn't anyone interested in us?

Know Thyself

by GEORGE LAMBERT

You, Mr. Student, and you, too, Miss Student, what are you? Are you an active member of the campus community? Or are you a parasite on the student body?

Since it requires ambition, initiative, and work to participate energetically in campus life, many students take the path of least resistance —they become parasites. It is so easy to be a parasite! All one has to do is to sit back on his haunches and to let the others do the work, sharing the glory for all successes ("Look what we did!") and washing their hands of any failures ("I was against this project from the beginning!").

These parasites are either overt or latent. The overt parasite just does not do anything for the benefit of the student body. The latent parasite is more tactful and hypocritical and, therefore, harder to identify. He joins college organizations: fraternities, religious associations, political clubs, social groups, etc. But, does he attend meeting? Of course not, he is too busy! Does he help in club activities? Of course not, he is too busy! Does he strive to further the goals of his organizations? No, he is still too busy! However, he is present to share in the laurels; he is free to attend parties and mixers. Though I would not dare be so audacious as to even think that such a sycophantic member is egotistical and self-centered, it seems oddly coincidental to me that he is always ready to enjoy himself but never willing to work.

Undoubtedly, every campus has parasites, overt and latent. Yet it appears to me that Husson College has more than its share. Though Husson is the third largest college in Maine, its name is less renowned than other smaller schools. Why? Student parasitism!

You, Mr. Student of Husson College, and you, too, Miss Student of Husson College, what are you? Know thyself!

Who Represents "Who"

This is a question which has come before the Student Senate of Husson College. There are some representatives in the Student Senate who are representing no particular Group. They are known as "Representatives At Large."

In a recent meeting of the Student Senate, a proposal was brought up to amend the constitution so that any student representative who is not reelected to the Student Senate by his club can be placed in the Student Senate as a "Representative At Large," with voting rights.

In the Senate of the United States, each senator is elected by the people in his state. If not elected, he is not a senator. The student body of Husson College should become more aware of what the Student Senate is doing. It is trying to become an effective governing body with all the students as the voice of its actions and legislation. All intents and purposes seem to lead toward a more positive student governing body. As students of Husson you should know the facts behind your Senate.

Prior to last year, we had a Student Council whose primary duty was the administration of the student store. It did not act as a legislative body. As now constituted, the main purpose of the Student Senate is to act as a representative group in expressing its opinions and feelings to the administration.

The constitution by which the Student Senate operates to implement these procedures was approved by the Husson College Faculty Senate. Recently these two bodies have been discussing problems involved in holding dances in Commerce Hall. The substance of the faculty proposal is that the student pay a $5 fee to be used to subsidize any organization who puts on a dance and fails to make a profit. Do you want to pay this five dollar fee? If not, talk with your representative to the Student Senate. Make your voice heard on this and other matters which concern you individually as students of Husson College! Make your Student Senate the voice of student opinions! Don't support it and you will be defeating its purpose. Let's have a democratic society at Husson College, with a student body, which has its voice heard and its proposals acted upon, through the Student Senate! . . . DGM

ALUMNI NEWS

Washington, D.C. and its governmental agencies employ many Husson graduates. A Washington Chapter has been organized with the following officers: Frank Ackley, President; Darlene Merrill, Secretary; Joseph Daigle, Treasurer. The Washington Chapter membership list will appear in the next issue of the Ledger.

A third segment of active alumni is the group of classroom teachers who meet once a year as the Husson Business Teachers. The meeting is always a luncheon affair during State Teachers' Convention. Newly elected officers as of October 1 are: Miss Ruth Wishart, Brewer High School, President; Karl McGaw, Bangor High School, Vice President; Linwood Decker, York High School, Secretary-Treasurer. President Husson spoke to the group on the plans for expansion. Mrs. Diane Allen Henderson introduced him. She retired as President of the group. Over two hundred teachers and faculty members attended the luncheon.

HUFF '55, GREEN '36 ADVANCE IN CAREERS

David L. Huff, B.S. in Accounting, June, 1955, was warded a Master of Business Administration degree at Rutgers University Graduate School of Business in June, 1964. In 1954 Dave was working as a part-time bookkeeper for Caloil distributor Community Oil Company, in Bangor, Maine, while he was attending Husson College. Dave enjoyed his exposure to the oil business and wanted to give it a try after graduation. Things turned out the way Dave hoped they would; and in the summer of 1955, he joined Caloil's accounting staff after getting his B. S. in Accounting from Husson.

In 1959 Dave decided to enroll in Rutgers University Graduate School of Business. An economics major, he generally took one course a semester, which is 2 1/2 hours per week of classroom work. In addition, Dave usually spent five to seven hours per week outside class to prepare assignments. He was awarded his Master of Business Administration degree this June.

In his nine-year career at Caloil, Dave has worked in Service Station Accounting, in Payroll, and on the Marketing Department staff. In 1962 he was promoted to his present position as Section Head of Marketing Accounting.

Dave is a member of the National Association of Accountants and a member of the California Federal Credit Union Supervisory Committee.

Raphael Green, Husson, 1936, is now a lecturer and Documentary Film Editor, who travelled to Russia, Siberia, Afghanistan, and many other countries. It is hoped that Mr. Green will return to Husson College and present a lecture and one of his films. Raphael is a native of West Enfield and was graduated from the teacher-training program in June, 1936. He travels out of the city of San Francisco. Raphael taught school several years in Maine and spent three years in the Service of the Armed Forces. He served on the White House Staff. He travelled to the Far East with Ambassador Pauley, head of the United States Reparation Mission. He was one of eleven men sent to North Korea for a survey. He has travelled in Manchuria, China, Japan, Afghanistan, and Russia.

From The Mail Bag

PATRICIA RANDALL KNOWLES, "My face is red with embarrassment for taking so long to write, but I've been busy. I think I can safely say that we are finally settling down to normal married life. What a job it has been. When I took those marriage vows, I never knew all the scrubbing and cleaning I was letting myself in for. Ha! Ha! Regardless of all the back-breaking work, I've enjoyed every minute of it.

"We had a very nice trip down, travelled mostly at night so Ricky could sleep. We stopped in New York City for two days to rest and do a little sight seeing. Ray has an aunt living on Long Island, not too far from where Sherwood Robinson lives but was unable to contact him.

"We are renting a two-bedroom house in a housing project located on the outskirts of Hampton. Thus far, I like everything I have seen of Virginia. Langley AFB, where Ray is stationed, is beautiful; and I just love shopping there because prices are so good. Ray and I have both become members of the Government Employees Exchange which is a huge department store, like Grants, only with lower prices.

"How is everything at Husson? I kind of miss seeing everybody but wouldn't change a thing for the world. I would appreciate being put on the Ledger mailing list. Thank you."

PAUL DINSMORE, Malone, New York, "Here we are in our third week of school in Malone. I finally found out what subjects I was to teach this year and am very pleased with my schedule. We have to be at school by 8:15 and classes start at 8:45. I teach two classes of General Business, two classes of Busness Law, and one class of Advanced Bookkeeping.

"I teach the first three classes from 8:45 to 11:03, then I have a lunch period followed by a free period and can go home to lunch each day. My next class is at 12:32, then a free period, then my last class is followed by a homeroom period for activities and we are free to leave at 3:30.

"The classes are all large except Advanced Bookkeeping—14. My largest law class has 34, and my largest General Business class has 37. We have seven teachers in Business Education.

"Our furniture arrived right on the dot when it was promised. We are just about settled now and really like the area. The friendliness one finds here can only be approached in Aroostook County, in our opinion. Faye is teaching in the kindergarten at the Methodist Church, I am singing in the choir, and we have been asked to be the advisors for the Intermediate MYF on Sunday evenings. So, you can see that our days are busy ones.

"Friday we are going to the NYSTA northern zone teacher's conference at Potsdam, about 40 miles from Malone. Hope to see Leah and find out how she is doing and likes the area. Will probably run into Glen MacDougal and who knows, there may be other familiar faces there.

"We both will always be grateful to you for all the help you have given us—especially for sending us for an interview to Malone. It is certainly all we could have possibly hoped for or expected."

"Please say "hello" to all of my many friends at Husson and do drop a line if you ever find the time in your very crowded schedule."

BARBARA THIELE, Long Island City 5, New York. "I love teaching at Clarke High School very much. Everyone on the faculty is so nice and helpful. I am teaching two classes of Office Practice I, two classes of introduction to Business I, and one class in Personal Typing. I have from 23 to 36 students in my classes. Also, I have a homeroom and a study hall with approximately 100 students.

"Since homeroom starts at 8:08, I have to be at school at 7:50 a.m. I bought myself a blue 1964 Buick Special, so I could live at home with my mother and commute every day. It is about 25 miles and takes usually 35 minutes, depending upon traffic. I like the Buick very much as it is so easy to handle. I sure could have used it up in Bangor. Classes end at 2:36 so I am usually home by 4:00. Then I grade papers and prepare my lesson plans. It is nice though having only one job and being able to concentrate on it instead of having to divide your interests.

"On Wednesday I am attending the New York State Teachers Convention. On Thursday I have to proctor a Regents Scholarship Exam. We also have Columbus Day off so this week should go fast. My mother and I plan to go to Syracuse next weekend to visit Vicky who has a teaching position at the University.

"It sure is hard getting use to the city again. I'm so use to the wide open spaces of Maine.

"Thank you very much for all the help you gave me while at Husson.

"Give my best to Miss Bradford and everyone else at Husson. Also, give my congratulations to Del Renaud for being the new International Vice President."

ANNE ROBERTS, E. Hartford, Connecticut. "I am enclosing my check for the sorority dues and thought I would take a few minutes and drop a line to say "hi" to everyone at Husson, especially the faculty who were very patient and understanding during my two years at Husson.

I am working for a dentist now as his assistant and enjoy my work very much. One thing is for sure, I don't have too much spare time during the day to sit around and loaf.

I don't have very much time to write this letter, as I am doing this on my lunch hour and it is just about over.

I will be looking forward to reading the Greek Letter, Ledger, and also the Alumnae Bulletin. I hope you can have a reunion this year, and I'll certainly try my best to get back to be there for it."

LEAH KEARNEY, Hermon-DeKalb Central School. DeKalb Junction, New York. "Please send me information on Husson that I can give my students. I am recruiting students for Husson.

"Teaching is a wonderful profession. I enjoy it as each day passes. Of course, I am busy all the time; but I don't really mind this. My classes are small — 3 in secretarial office practice, 13 in law, 16 in Shorthand I, 8 in Shorthand II, and transcription, and 21 in bookkeeping. We are not using the Diamond Jubilee Shorthand, but perhaps next year I can get it in. I have given my first tests in all subjects, and they are average. The students here have a problem with reading but on the whole are average.

"Friday, I have a Teachers Convention and hope to see Paul Dinsmore there. It will be good to see a familiar face.

"The teachers are very friendly. In fact, some are like a "mother hen." But a neat bunch! They certainly have been a big help to me making sure that I am not homesick and that I don't work too hard.

"Say hi to the Secretarial Science Department for me and to the other teachers."

MRS. PATRICIA HAUDEN DEMARIA. "It is hard for me to believe that since I was at Husson College the days, weeks, and months have added to a grand total of eighteen years. Long enough, I'm sure, for me to be considered a voice from the past; but only in a physical sense because my thoughts have been with you often. My family has sent me news clippings from time to time, and it is wonderful to hear of my alma mater's expansion program. I certainly hope the end result is everything you're aspiring for.

"In June, my youngest child (a strawberry blonde daughter who is the apple of her father's eye and a constant source of joy to her mother) completes her second year of school. This brings me to one more milestone and the thought that it may be high time for me to begin to realize some of my own potential outside the role of keeper of the hearth.

"Every fall when the leaves begin to turn and there's a nip in the air, I confess to an abiding nostalgia for the classroom. The complex that makes up the New York City school system at one time frightened me, but for several years, I have been completely involved in volunteer P. T. A. work which has brought me into close contact with many administrators and teachers in both the elementary and secondary fields. This work has been stimulating and enlightening and has made me realize that I might have something to offer.

"Thus, the reason for this letter, aside from a strong desire for a friendly visit, is to request an official transcript of my work at Husson College (1945). My plans at the moment are to try for acceptance at Brooklyn College which has a highly rated education department."

"Please say hello to my friends there—Swan, Brad, and Mrs. Miller. If anyone is planning to come to the World's Fair, I'm extending an open invitation to visit us—the latch is always out (and we're nearby Flushing Meadows besides!) I'd love to show off my family, too."

MAJOR WILLIAM B. DRIVER. "After completing Command and Staff College here, I was selected to remain on the Faculty of Air University of the Squadron Officers' School. So I am now a teacher and find it a very worthwhile experience. It is a 14-week school for Captains and Lieutenants, the first step in military education for the career officer. All three professional schools for Air Force officers are located in one complex—unlike any other similar facility.

"I am attending George Washington University's evening courses here. They are awarding Master's degrees in Business and Public Administration to qualified faculty and students of the Air Command and Staff College and the Air War College. GW's program is in conjunction with the curriculum's of each school and is completed within one year.

Our many friends in Maine have invited us again to visit this next summer. We are looking forward to meeting them again and taking in the World's Fair in New York. Please say hello to our many friends at Husson!"

HUSSON COLLEGE GRADS SPEARHEADING JAYCEES

Contributing heavily to a successful year for the State of Maine Junior Chamber of Commerce, that currently finds them tied as the top state organization in the country, are three Husson graduates: Edward McInnis, State President; Frank Dawes, State Treasurer; and Robert Good, Business Manager; all former members of Mu Sigma Fraternity.

The State of Maine Junior Chamber of Commerce currently numbers 60 chapters throughout Maine with a total Commerce membership throughout the country of 239,339 members in 5300 chapters.

The Jaycees, as they are more commonly known, is a service organization limited to young men between the ages of 21 and 35 whose main objective is the development of leadership training through community development.

Edward McInnis holds a B.S. Degree in Accounting from Husson and is married to the former Sylvia Applebee, also a Husson graduate. The couple and their two children reside in Bangor. McInnis is employed as Office Manager of New Central Furniture Company.

Frank Dawes, a native of Sangerville, is married to the former Carlene Perkins; and they reside in Bangor with their three children. He holds a B.S. Degree in Accounting and is a partner in the accounting firm of Hayes, LePage, Little, and Dawes.

Good graduated from Husson with a B. S. Degree in Business Administration. Married to the former Barbara Greeley, also a Husson Alumna, they have five children and live in Hampden. He is employed as Credit Manager for Bacon & Robinson Co. in Bangor.

Adding still another Husson touch to the Jaycee State Administration is sophomore Sandra Bickford, who is employed as executive secretary at the State Headquarters in Bangor.

INDIA VS UNITED STATES

By

Shantu Satyabhashak

India is slowly and gradually gaining ground on the political arena of the world and so the contributions of its young people to its economic as well as social growth cannot be underrated.

The topic is divided by me into three parts. 1. Education 2. Social 3. Comparison of youth life with an American youth life.

The Educational aspect of our young people is the same as you have in your country. The young man spends four years at the elementary or primary school and seven years for the high school education. During the course of his study, he studies English, social as well as natural sciences, arithmetic, and geometry. The difference between your high school graduate and ours is this: Our young man has to face the final examination conducted by the state examination board, whereas your high school graduate is facing the tests held by his own school.

All States have their own examination boards known as Secondary School Certificate Examination Boards. At the state examination, all the students from various high schools from the particular state will appear at the examination. The Board will set the question paper set by by his own panel of paper setters for various subjects. The duration of the examination is three hours with eight essay-type questions. As soon as the examination is over, the state examination board officials will collect the answer papers of the students and dispatch them to the Board office. The Board will then send those papers to the respective examiners appointed by the Board. For example, the papers of the State of Maine will be found in California. The examiners will examine the papers and will dispatch the same to Board Office.

When Board Offices receive all answer papers of the various subjects, they will start preparing the result. As soon as the result get ready, it is published in the local news papers. After a day or two, the student gets his results officially from the respective school of which he is a student. Normally the result is declared after three months.

At the college level, all the colleges are affiliated with respective university of the state to which they belong. During the four years of the college career, a student has to appear twice at the university examination held by the university. All the students of the colleges belonging to the same class get the same set of question papers similar to the school board examination. The third year of the college is known as jolly juniors because the students have not to appear for the university examination that year. But the fourth and final year, the students have to appear for the comprehensive examination to be held by the university.

The social aspect of our young people's lives have no common element with the life of young people in this country. The boys and girls do not mix with each other as freely as they mix here though they study together at schools as well as at colleges. There is no dating custom with our young people. Since I came here, I have come in contact with various young people. The main topic of their talk with me is their girl and dating program. I would like to assign two possible reasons for this type of development. The one reason is unrestricted freedom and secondly material comforts of the life. The smoking and the drinking habits are not prevailing among our young people. The girls are not smoking at all. This is considered as immoral in our society particularly in respect of girls. When you open the purse of the Indian girl you will find some money and a handkerchief where as if you open the purse of an American girl, you will find a cigarette packet generally.

This social order here is one of the contributing factors in selecting the partner for life. But in my country the selection of the partner is always made by the parents. But in that case, the young man is always consulted whether he is willing to marry a particular girl. The time is given to them to decide their own case as soon as they are engaged. If they do not agree the engagement can be broken. The engagement once made is always acceptable by the young people. In very few cases, you will find the disapproval from the young people. In considering the marriage proposal, the social status of the family is always considered. There is a sanctity of married life in the sense that it is the union of two hearts for a life. The wives are always husband devoted wives. Whatever may be the status of her husband or whatever may be his outward appearance, the husband's devotion is always found with our women. The reason is very well apparent that it is the union of two hearts in true sense and not the union of hearts by emotions. The problem is different here because of the material bliss or comforts and hence more divorce cases.

The significant feature of the young people here is this. As soon as they get married, they live independently and hence you will find the young people behave in a more maturely manner. In my country the young people do not live separately but live in joint family. The father is the head of the family and his orders are obeyed by all the members of the family.

You will find few boys smoking cigarettes but most of them are not addicted to smoking. I would like to compare the lives of the young people of my country with the lives of the young people in this country. In the first instant there is no social freedom and so the way of life is altogether different than what you have here in this country. It does not mean that the boys and girls do not mix at all. We, too, have social gatherings at school and college. The students form many societies and unions and the perform dramas and arrange picnics and gatherings. There are debating competitions among the students of the various colleges. The contribution of the students to our freedom movement under the leadership of gandhiji was remarkable. There were general strikes in the colleges during the 1942 movement, and many of them laid down their lives for the country.

Secondly, regarding the smoking and drinking with our students community, it is very, very negligible. Drinking is considered against the moral values of the society and any individual who drinks will be looked down upon by the society. The parents are usually much respected and nobody will smoke in the presence of the parents as a sign of respect. We do not consider this as a loss of individuality or individual freedom. The present-day students in my country are going away from the rituality of the religion but they are religious at heart. These are my general observations.

My speech before the Pi Rho Zeta.

Kappa Delta Phi—Kinship, Duty, Philanthropy. With these three words, Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity summarizes its purpose, its objective, and its goal.

KINSHIP. As a fraternity, Kappa Delta Phi creates a brotherhood where mutual understanding and mutual help unite students of different ethnic backgrounds, diverse religious convictions, and particular social environment into a heterogenous solidarity. From this inextinguishable source of racial, religious, and social constributions emerges an artficial family, a family that promotes interdependency and cooperation. The "frat" provides a milieu where brothers may share ideas, discuss problems, express opinions. Kappa Delta Phi is what it professes to be, a fraternity, an organization of fratrorum (brothers) whose kinship is not that of blood but that of academic and intellectual communion.

DUTY. Like a true family, Kappa Delta Phi imposes duties on its brothers. It requires that each members meet conscientiously his oblgiations to his God, to his country, to himself. Though it dictates no particular faith, the "frat" professes its united belief in the existence of a Superior Being by commencng each meeting with an invocation. Kappa Delta Phi also dictates that the brothers undertake their civic duties with the ardor and the enthusiasm of proud citizens. Yes, Kappa Delta Phi also demands that its members be true to themselves as students and men by the relentless pursuit of knowledge and wisdom and by the straightforward observance of moral convictions. Duty to God, duty to country, duty to oneself—Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity stands for the compliance with all obligations, religious, patriotic, and personal.

PHILANTHROPY. The bonds of cooperaton that unite Kappa Delta Phi brothers do not exclude nonmembers but reach out to society and extend a hand to aid and to succor. Kappa Delta Phi seeks to promote and to diffuse the humanitarian ideal that helping the needy brings an inner joy which in itself is reward enough for the work accomplished.

HELL WEEK

"Hell Week" for the pledges of Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity began on October 4. Besides being submitted to the indescribable ordeals of initiation, the pledgees also undertook service projects at St. Joseph's Hospital, Eastern Maine General Hospital, and Bell Hall of Husson College. After a week of trials and tribulations, the pledgees were officially welcomed as new brothers at the fromal initiation on Sunday, October 11.

CIRCLE K ACCEPTS NEW MEMBERS

Husson College Circle K International awarded honorary membership to five international exchange students at the October 29 meeting. Honorary members indoctrinated by David Machaud were: Fa'alepo Fa'alepo, American Somoa; Puchong Phornpheboon, Thialand; Peter Thande, Kenya; Remesh Genge and Shantu Satyabhashak, India. The granting of the honorary certificates is a first for the Circle K chapter of Husson.

Like most international organizations, this is an attempt to improve international relations with other nations and their citizens, who are attending colleges throughout the United States.

Active new members were inducted on November 2. The ten new members are: Lewis Bobbidge, Robert Balenger, Samuel Myers, William Magliozzi, Jack Nendel, Lawrence Wallace, Daniel Miller, Randolf Keep, Lloyd Cunnings, and David Foulds.

Also Tulip bulbs were sold to provide funds for Circle K to promote more service activities to the community and Husson college. Seven members chaproned 350 fourth graders as they were being given a tour of the Dow Air Force Base.

As the year progresses the Circle K will continue to promote community projects and services. Any one who has any suggestions as services which the Circle K could perform would be gratefully accepted.

Officers of the Husson Players are: Hal Lench, President; Jack Rowe, Vice-President; Gene Melville, Treasurer; and Diane Veazie, Secretary.

Husson Booters Cop Northeast College Conference Title

Husson College, in its third season of soccer, won the Northeast College Conference Title by defeating Ricker College by a 7-3 margin. Led by Co-Captains Pete Richard and Serge Henry, the team compiled a record of 9 wins against 1 defeat. The lone loss came to the hands of Aroostook State Teachers College early in the season (3-2) in double overtime.

After their surprising defeat by Aroostook State Teachers, Husson would not be denied and started a winning streak of eight straight.

Scores of the games were as follows:

Husson	3	Gorham	2
Husson	2	Aroostook	3
Husson	6	Farmington	1
Husson	5	Aroostook	4
Husson	2	Ricker	1
Husson	7	Windham	1
Husson	4	Lyndon	3
Husson	4	Fort Kent	0
Husson	7	Ricker	3
Husson	4	Eastern Nazarene	1

One of the most exciting games of the season was its "come from behind" 2-1 win over traditional rival Ricker College. Ricker took an early 1-0 edge in the second quarter. Going into the fourth quarter and the score still 1-0, John Boucher scored a goal for Husson and tied the scored at 1 all. Serge Henry then scored after 11 minutes of the last quarter to give Husson its margin of victory.

Serge Henry, who has been leading scorer for the team the past two years, was again leading scorer with a remarkable total of 24 goals; Burt Phornphilboon was second in the scoring department with 7 and closely followed by Sparkie Alden with 6. Pete Richards, for the second consecutive year, led the team in assists and proved to be a very able playmaker.

Offensively, the team scored 44 goals, while defensively holding their opponents to 23 goals. One of the main reasons for Husson's strength on defense was Chappie Clark, the goalie, who averaged close to 17 saves a game.

All the players put forth true team effort. Each individual did their very best to make the 1964 season the best ever at Husson.

Special mention must be made for the efforts of the managers Jim Hunt and Bob Baker. They both helped immensely and their help was greatly appreciated by Coach Averill Black.

GOALS SCORED

1)	Serge Henry	24
2)	Burt Phornphilboon	7
3)	Sparkie Alden	6
4)	Pete Richards	3
5)	Pete Thande	2
6)	Bill Robichaud	1
7)	John Boucher	1
	Total	44

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

This year we again have a two - league schedule. There are 14 competing in the two leagues.

The set-up is as follows:

National League

1. Kappa II
2. Patriots
3. The Lovers
4. Honey Bears
5. Hustlers
6. MEX Gunners

3. Rejects
4. Dean's Men

All the teams play two 20-minute halves per game with 5 minutes between the halves. The 40 minutes of playing time is continuous time with the clock running all the time except the last 3 minutes of the second period. All teams have substituted quickly and efficiently with only momentary delays. An example of the scoring done in a 40 minute game can be seen in the score of the Kappa I-Hussonett game. Kappa defeated the Hussonetts by a score of 67-52. This particular game was fast moving with very good scoring by both clubs. At half time the Kappa club led the Hussonetts by only a 6-point margin, 39-33.

Spectators are welcome, so come and see some of the games. Games are played Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6-9 p.m.

INTRAMURAL BOWLING

In intramural bowling, the members of a ten-team league are already on their way. The teams consist of two men each, with each team in the league matched evenly, based on their roll-off scores. Handicaps will be assigned each week based on the accumulative pins. The teams compete at the Bowl-Mor Lanes. Some of the intramural bowlers competing again this year are Bill Woitkowski, Dick Grabowski, Doug Bishop, John Kershules, Dave Ufford, and Herb Hopkins. Other bowlers competing this year are: Steve Higgins, Skip Hanes, Richard Vogel, Richard Douglas, George Dominello, Ed Eckert, Ed Burgess, Tom Gorman, Steve Harding, Skip Harris, John Papp, Bimbo Smith, Paul Smith, and Neul Stroheker. It is hoped that we will have another highly competitive year of bowling.

PLACEMENT OFFICE ADVICE TO SENIORS

The market looks good. Of course the number of seniors is quite a bit higher this year, but also is their overall point averages. Many positions will be available. However, each potential graduate has work to perform in order to present his best profile. He must study the occupations available to the business college graduate and line up positions that are compatible with his interests and abilities.

Husson College will help. The placement office and the library have a great deal of material. The placement director will help the senior write resumés, give him names of company officials to contact, and will line up campus interviews. Our tentative recruiting schedule is:

December

3 Internal Revenue Service
4 Arthur Andersen Company
8 Mutual Fire Inspection Bureau of N.E.
9 U. S. Army Audit Agency
10 Arthur Young and Company
11 Ernst and Ernst

January

8 New York State Department of Audit & Control
15 Edward A. Filenes

February

5 Price Waterhouse and Company
9 Sears, Roebuck and Company
11 Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company
15 Union Mutual Life Insurance Company
17 Merrill Trust Company
18 Kresge's
23 Continental Insurance Company
24 W.T. Grant Company
25 Paul Revere Life Insurance Company
26 Travelers' Insurance Company

March

4 International Business Machines
8 REA Express Agency
9 Jordan Marsh Company
16 Burroughs Inc.
17 Swift and Company
22 F.W. Woolworth Company

Careers depend upon planning. The college, through its placement facility, has planned the above activities. However, in the final analysis, the career upon which a graduate embarks will depend on the planning, preparation, and initiative of the senior BEFORE he graduates. as J. C. Hall, President of Hallmark Cards says, "If I were selecting my first position, I would give it the clearest thinking of my life. For indeed, my life and my future success and happiness would depend on it. So think it through!" Mr. Hall then goes on to list ten points to consider about a company before choosing it as the organization in which to pursue a career. They are listed below followed by a comment on each using former graduates as examples:

1. Work you will enjoy

Charles Oliver (Bus. Adm. '58) was unhappy with a "giant" concern in the South. He came back to a Maine firm for less money, but he enjoys the work, the environment, and the Maine climate (weather and otherwise).

2. Pick a Winner

George Wheeldon (Bus. Adm. '64) had several offers last year. He picked Burroughs because of its consistent success and secure future in system's development

3. Right Kind of Operation

Be sure the company you choose is an operation in which your talents can be fully utilized, and organization whose value system corresponds with yours. Harold Hansen (Bus. Adm. '61) shopped for months an subsequently accepted the position of Business Manager at the Bangor Theological Seminary where he is finding a successful and rewarding career.

4. Leadership

Four years ago Robert Ayer (Bus. Adm. '61) accepted local employment with a leading casualty insurance company (Kemper). Today Mr. Ayer is the local manager of claims in Kemper's Bangor office.

5. Growth

John Buck (Acct. '64) chose a local firm—King Cole Foods, Inc., primarily because of its growth potential. Getting in on the ground floor of a growing organization may lead to positions of responsibility for the right person.

6. Stability

Look for a company with a reliable future. John Lynch (Bus. Adm. '63) has recently been promoted to a management position in personnel work for Ford Motor Company.

7. Management Training

Thanks to Mr. Gordon Chase, manager of the local Sears store, several of last year's graduates are now employed by Sears, Roebuck and Company. They chose Sears because of its excellent salary structure and fringe benefits AND because of its sound management training program. Edmund Hardy (Acct. '58; Mich. State, Masters '59) was one of the first Husson men to be employed by this nationally recognized training program.

8. International

Any organization with foreign operations has a strong overall potential. Veronica Yuskiewicz (Bus. Adm. '62) is enjoying her work with the U.S. Government in Spain.

9. Location

As in the case of Charles Oliver mentioned above, we find that environment is extremely important. Mavis Churchill (Ed. '62), for example, is enjoying her job location at Charlestown, New Hampshire.

10. Compensation

Though tenth on the list every one knows that salary is an important matter in choosing the organization in which one makes his career. Kathy Mitchell (Secretarial '64) was well trained and would have become an outstanding medical secretary. However, she could not afford to turn down the excellent starting salary and fringe benefits offered to her by the New England Telephone Company.

When choosing a specific company, therefore, the senior should look beyond the base salary budget on fringe benefits, the total value of the job is $6000. Representative salary ranges that can be expected by this year's graduates from business colleges are:

HUSSON FORMS GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Husson "grads" and seniors met at the May reunion of alumni, faculty, and friends. A nominating Committee brought forth the following slate of officers for 1965. Elected to the office of President was Cecil Wilson, Class of 1956, employed by the Bangor Daily News as its office manager; vice president elected was Edward McInnis, Class of 1955, office manager for New Central Furniture; as secretary, Beverly Kane, Class of 1959, Business Education instructor at Hampden Academy; and as treasurer, Hazen Polk, Class of 1919, self employed as a public accountant in Bangor.

The alumni mailing list is being brought up to date and expanded to include all those who have attended Husson in the past years, all those who were graduated in June, 1964, and all those who will be graduated in years to come. This is a big job and will require much time and interest. You can help if your name is not on the Ledger maling list; you can help if you know the addresses of one or several of your classmates—just send them in!

Mr. Les Nadeau has become Husson's first full-time Public Relations Man, and he will be working for and with the College alumni. If you have noticed an increase in publicity in the newspapers, on TV, and radio, it is due to the efforts of Mr. Nadeau to point and portray the true picture of Husson, its students, its faculty, its activities, and its alumni. Mr. Nadeau is a fine young man and already shows that Husson College publicity is his war cry! He is out to put Husson College on the airways, in print, and known all over the United States.

There are three segments of the General Alumni Association active today. The Shaw Chapter is made up of all those who were graduated years back from Shaw Business College. Shaw was the name of this College before it became the Maine School of Commerce. The President of the Shaw Chapter is Othello Robinson of Shirley, Maine. This Chapter meets once or twice a year, and last May four of its members attended Husson Homecoming. They were Mr. Manley Perkins of Brewer, Mr. Garfield Jones of Millinocket, and Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Polk of Bangor. Hazen Polk is now treasurer of the General Alumni Association.

EPSILON DELTA ALUMNI SORORITY CHAPTER OF PI RHO ZETA

Epsilon Delta Alumnae Sorority members are happy and proud that two of its members were elected to office in Pi Rho Zeta International Commerce Fraternity and Sorority at Evansville, Indiana, in August. Clara L. Swan was re-elected to the office of International President by the delegates gathered at the annual Conclave. Dolores Renaud was elected to the office of First Vice President of Pi Rho Zeta. Del, as she is known to the Epsilon Deltas, is an instructor in the Secretarial Science Department of Husson, this being her third year on the faculty. Del has recently become the adviser to Epsilon Tau Epsilon Chapter of the College. She is a Lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve. Many of the young men enrolled at Husson salute her every Monday night. She conducts a class on base for her assignment. One of the highlights of the trip to Evansville was when Del discovered that she needed an evening gown for the Ball as the newly-elected officers were in formal dress for the evening. A quick trip downtown, and she brought back to the Hotel the exact same dress as she had tried on in Bangor and didn't buy! Eunice Harding Sibley, Mavis Churchill, and Madalyn Jordan were the other Alumnae who attended.

Mrs. Thelma Vining is the current President, Mrs. June Smith is the Vice President, Mrs. Madeline Brown is the Secretary, and Mrs. Virginia Wright is the Treasurer. Miss Beverly Kane, Hampden Academy Faculty member, is the Sergeant-at-Arms. She also serves as editor of the Bulletin.

Epsilon Delta Alumnae would like all Ledger readers who have been affiliated with Epsilon Tau Epsilon or Delta Sigma Delta Sorority Chapters and women alumnae of Husson to affiliate with the Chapter. This is an invitation. Just write the sponsor, Clara L. Swan, if you wish to become an active or inactive member.
