President Beardsley's Message to the Graduating Class of 2006

Dear Class of 2006,

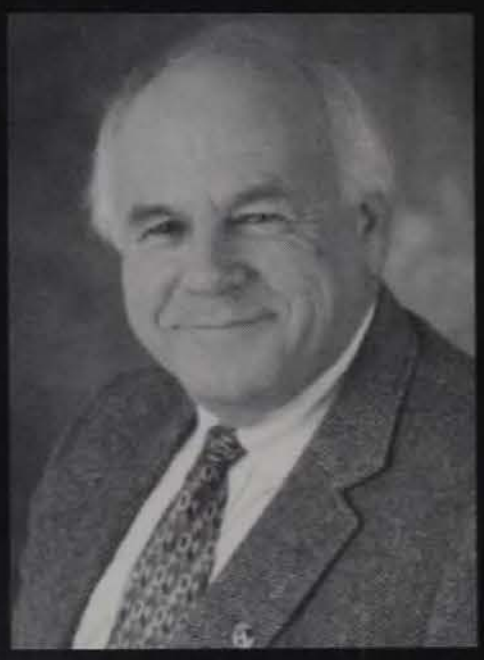

You have been at Husson during some of the most dynamic years the college has ever known. Campus enrollments have surged by 500 students since 2000. The college has introduced football and its first doctoral degree program. The date, 9/11, the cell phone, unrest in the Middle East, the rise of India and China and so many parts of the world from poverty and towards democracy, the explosive cost of health care, and the arrival of the new creative economy have all crashed in upon us and have changed what we learn, how we learn, and even the nature of the careers that lie ahead. All this has happened during your college years. It happened on your watch.

Husson will miss you and we wish you the very best. We hope you will look back at your Husson years with fondness, friendships and a sense of accomplishment. We hope you will now put your education to work and set out to make a difference in your professional and personal lives. We hope you will stay in touch and return to visit from time to time, return and you will find new students, starting their college careers as you once did. And remember, your lives are testament to what it means to have a Husson College education. Live it well!

Sincerely,

William H. Beardsley
President

The class of 2006 would like to dedicate this yearbook to our teacher, collegue, and friend...

Bob Smith

Dr. Robert M. Smith, who lead Husson's graduate program in business for a quarter century, and who had served as its chief academic officer since 1994, died November 18, 2005, after a short intensive battle with esophageal cancer. A scholar in the fields of business, history and leadership, Smith lead the recent academic transition of Husson from a specialty business school to a comprehensive professional university.

"Bob Smith was a scholar, a wonderful colleague in every sense of the word, and a very special friend to so many of us. He has been our academic anchor to windward and set our academic course as we have evolved as an institution. This all happened much too suddenly and we simply have not had a chance to say our 'good byes'," said Husson president William H. Beardsley.

Under Smith's leadership Husson added schools of health, education, and science and humanities, undergraduate enrollments increased by 500 students and six graduate degrees, including the college's first doctoral degree, in physical therapy, were added. He expanded the masters in business into concentrations in healthcare and non profit management and he brought these graduate business degrees to Aroostook County and into such business settings as Central Maine Power, International Paper and St. Mary's Hospital. He traveled extensively, personally teaching cap stone courses in every corner of the State.

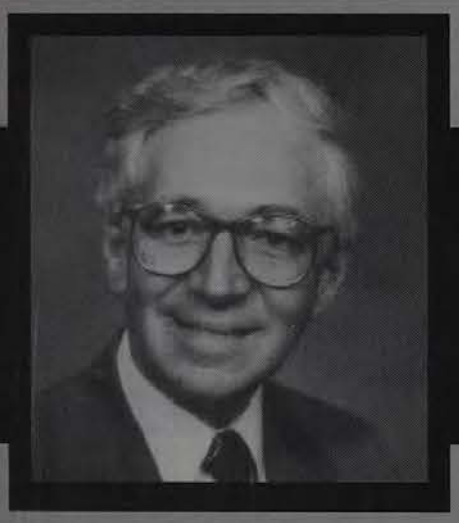

His 2005 sabbatical was focused on developing a doctor of organizational leadership which was value centered and which drew leadership curriculum from multiple disciplines. He was the academic interface with the New England School of Communications and Bangor Theological Seminary and a visionary in the concept of a campus wide consortium of separate but collaborating institutions.

Smith was a Maine native, a graduate of John Bapst High School, Saint Anselm College, Brown University, the University of Maine and the Harvard Institute for Educational Leadership. He joined Husson in 1981, first as a faculty member and director, then as a graduate dean and finally as chief academic officer. In 2002 he served as acting president while the president was on sabbatical. Through out his career he always taught and he was scheduled to teach again in the upcoming spring semester.

Katherine Lee Weber

Katherine Lee Weber, 53, passed away Oct. 25, 2005, as the result of an automobile accident. She was born Jan. 26, 1952, in Washington, D.C., the daughter of William J. Weber Jr. and Ruth A. (Dutton) Weber. Katherine was born and raised in Washington, D.C. She received her bachelor of science degree in natural resource development and a masters degree in community planning from the University of Rhode Island. She received her doctorate in plant science posthumously from the University of Maine May of 2006. Her first job in Maine was on the planning board in Hancock County. She later spent time on both faculty and staff with the University of Maine and as a city planner for the City of Bangor. At the time of her death she was employed at Husson College in the College Planning Office. Katherine was a communicant of St. Agnes Roman Catholic Church of Pittsfield. Animals have always been an important part of Katherine's life. She began her life long love of horses at a riding academy in the Washington D.C. area at the age of seven. At the time of her death she had two horses, two German Shepherd dogs and 13 cats on her farm in Dixmont. Katherine is survived by her father, William Weber, of Gaithersburg, Md. and two brothers, Robert Weber of Gaithersburg, Md. and Richard Weber of Richfield, Ohio.

Karl McGaw

Professor Karl McGaw died November 16, 2005, after a long battle with cancer. He was born April 19, 1936, in Lincoln. He graduated from Lee Academy, attended Husson College and then continued his education at the University of Maine where he received his Masters in Education and CAS. His first teaching job was at Bangor High School. He joined the faculty at Husson College in 1996 and remained at Husson until he retired in 2001. He was named a full professor in 1982. For many years Mr. McGaw also served at the Director for Alumni Affairs at Husson. He was known as a student advocate, and no member of the faculty worked harder to see that their students succeeded.

He was involved with the Business Education Association of Maine for many years.

He was very active with his fraternity Kappa Delta Phi and served as their advisor for many years. Generations of Kappa Brothers called Karl not only an advisor and a brother but a friend. He often hosted students in his home and was always available to counsel a student in need.

NESCom in New York City...

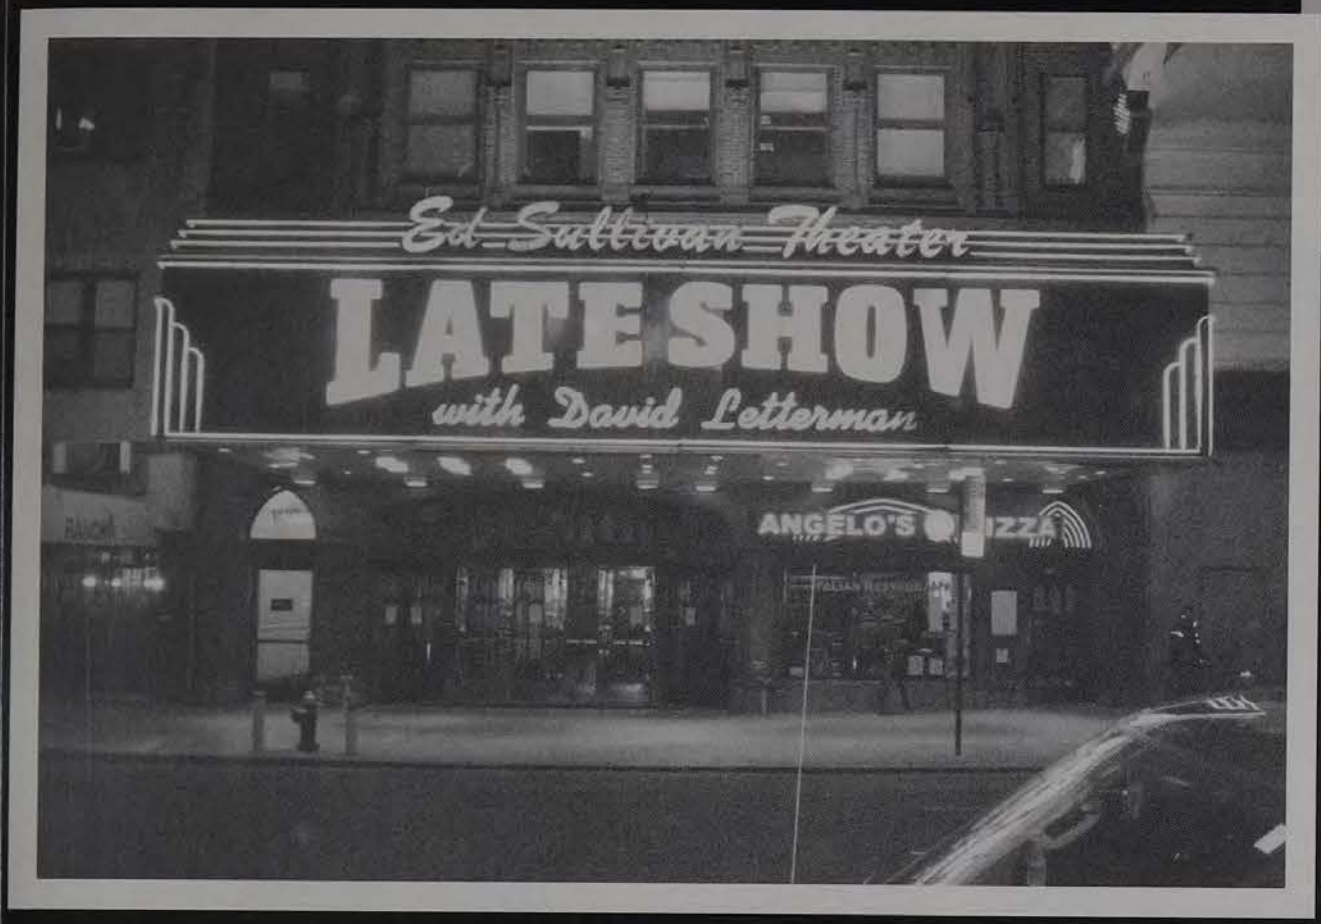

One of the places they visited was NBC studios and while there, they were at the TV show "Live with Regis and Kelly"

New York is the communication capital

Students were glad to enjoy the many things the city had to offer...

Nurses Pinning

The Nursing major students were honored on May 14th with a pin symbolizing their special achievement. The nurses pinning ceremony dates back to 1880. It signifies the integrity and tradition of badges worn by the healers and crusaders of care.

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

KaLeNa

You did what you came to do...You made great friends, You grew as a person, have been a great support for many people...Now it's time to move on...We wish you the best and we know that wherever you go you'll be just the BEST! We love you...We'll miss you
