Philo Hutchenson, Gulf Oil Representive Attacks President Carter's Wind-fall Profit Tax

At this month's business breakfast, Philo A. Hutchenson, Manager of Public Issue for Gulf Oil Corporation spoke to a large group of the Husson Community on the pressing issues of oil prices and taxes. As a past resident of Maine, Mr. Hutchenson is very much in tune with problems confronting the private and commercial oil consumer. Although most of profit and supply figures were not new issues, Mr. Hutchenson did enlighten the formal crowd on the disadvantages of government intervention.

Mr. Hutchenson cautioned the Maine consumer to be realistic about our energy supply future. He did say that an immediate recession as well as further upheaval in the oil producing nations could add to our energy problems concerning price and supply. However, he did cheerfully comment that there would be no forseeable shortages this summer.

Mr. Hutchenson spoke further on U.S. dependence on imported oil. Most notable was his reference to New England's 80% use of oil as compared to a nation wide utilization of 40%. He added that more is spent by the government on energy than on all military combined. The fact that most of it is being spent overseas is staggering. Mr. Hutchenson confirmed from his view that "the United States has all the energy resources we need but we lack the social and political will to use these resources." He states "We cannot conserve our way out of the energy crisis with the population increasing."

With these points set, Mr. Hutchenson started his attack on President Carter's Windfall Profit Tax. (At that very moment the bill was being passed in Congress, now awaiting the President's signature.) The Windfall Profits Tax would take an estimated 338 billion of oil production's profit through taxes. This added tax will add to the price of future oil supplies. "Nine-tenths of the 338 billion is earmarked for purposes other than energy by the government". The result is that the money is coming out of the crude oil industry but is not going back in as research into energy alternatives. Gulf Oil on the other hand has always reinvested heavily into development as can be shown in its ventures into coal, nuclear, solar, etc. Hutchenson clearly stated the oil industry's argument against the newly imposed tax and now seeks public support through the consumer to help the oil industry voice its plight. With at least 10 years of oil dependence, Hutchenson urged the consumer to pay more attention to their politicians in order to correctly solve the energy problem. Hutchensons's conclusion clearly told the consumers that we will not be paying for a secure energy future and we now must insist we get what we are paying for.

Husson Community Welcomes Penobscot Job Consortium

By Debbie Hogan

A ribbon cutting ceremony coordinated by Eunice Johnson was held Thursday, March 27 at the Penobscot Community Based Job Corps Center located at Bangor Community College.

The ceremony marked the end of the 10 day orientation and commenced the start of actual training.

The educational training is two-fold consisting of both skill-based education as well as vocational training.

The skill based training consists primarily of reading and math skills under the direction of June Roggenbauer, director of education.

The vocational training is the responsibility of director, Paul Parks. The five areas offered include: building maintenance, machine tools, business/clerical, nurses aid and food service programs.

Among those attending the ceremony were President Delmont Merrill, Mayor Albert Weymouth, Vice President Jaffrey as well as the former Dean of Student Affairs at Husson and now Deputy Director of the Consortium, William Eisenhardt, who summed up the ceremony by saying "After 3½ years of planning and organizing we are ready to make it work."

After-math of Husson weekend— $1400 worth of damage at concert.

Thoughts
"Spring Fever Hits Hard"

by Debbie Hogan

The latter part of Spring semester has always been full of activities leaving little time for studying. Consequently, many students' grades substantially drop.

"Spring Fever" always hits hard at Husson from the first warm sunny day that hints summer is nearing. Frisbees are flying between the dorms, Chief Week approaches as well as year-end banquets for the various organizations.

So what could possibly ruin the fun, the sun, and the parties? The dreaded "term papers" for one. Yes, each year many students are inflicted with this dreaded foe of fun and sadly, many could be spared with a little preventative medicine. We have a full week of vacation coming up to use as we like. We all have a choice; we can use it to relax or we can use it to get caught up, and why not just once, even get ahead in our studies.

Ask any returning student who has survived a previous bout with "termpaperitis" what it is like to be buried in a pile of books in the library when the weather is sunny and all your friends are making a road trip to Bar Harbor and Sand Beach — definitely not one of his most memorable experiences!

So make sure you use your vacation constructively and return to participate in Husson at its best!

Just Spectating: Consortium

"Down Memory Lane"

i would like to take this opportunity to thank the Penobscot Consortium for allowing me to take a trip back through memory lane. It thrills me to be reminded of my adolescent past. All the joys and amazements of my teenage days are rejuvinated vividly in my mind every day I come in contact with the Consortium student. Memories of smoking marijuana before my 8 o'clock class come back to me as I pass the well-hidden group of teenagers "anxiously" awaiting their school bus. As I return from my morning meal, I recall the rebellious reasons why teenagers neglect to have one's hair cut as well as neglecting other forms of general hygiene. The use of grass and abusive language to make one a "man among teenagers" at every meal by these kids is reminisence of everyone's teenage day. I almost forgot how much fun it was to be disrespectful to people in position of authority, but I can now remember all of that every time I visit the gym. Finding someone to buy me a pint on a Friday night so I can get outrageously drunk and "scoff up chicks" is no longer a thing of the past for me. I can watch this every weekend from now on, so I've got to be grateful to these people. The practice of lenient morals can be exhibited at the adolescent level as one drunken-stupored teenager mauls his female counterpart. I almost forgot the thrill of that. I'm glad somebody's still doing it. Where would we be without these people. You know, you can't just turn your back on your childhood. Thanks to the Consortium student we grown-up college students don't have to. Isn't this great!

Signed

WHSN Doesn't Get "Credit" It Deserves

Dear Editor:

As I understand it, WHSN may play a major role in the new minor field of study of Broad Cast Journalism should it be implemented next fall.

It seems to me that since this will attract many students and in turn tuition dollars, that the school should be funding some of the renovations the radio station will need.

To date, all funding has come from the student senate and from minor fund raising drives by WHSN staff, but if the station will be used to promote this new program of study, then the school should be helping out. Now in preparation, and not after the tuition dollars are secured. After all, that is what business is all about, one has to spend a little money in order to make money — and "Husson does mean business."

Letters to the Editor...
Husson Blood Donors Congratulated

Dear Editor:

The American Red Cross personally expressed their appreciation to the students of Husson College for what they considered to be "the most successful effort of any group donating at the blood center."

A total amount of 62 pints of blood were donated and served as an invaluable contribution toward meeting the blood needs of the State of Maine -- 25 pints daily.

The number of first-time donors was notably high and these additional contributions helped make the drive the success it was. We feel this effort reflects a concerned student body and hope future drives will be equally as successful.

Sincerely,
Louise O'Donnell

Inmate Seeks College Pen Pals

Dear Editor,

I am an inmate in a Federal Prison in Memphis, Tenn. I feel that you might be able to help me with this problem that I have. I would love to correspond with people in your college. I have no friends in the outside world because I'm in here. It seems like all my old friends don't want anything to do with me now. See, I feel a man is only complete when he has a free friend to really understand him, to share all his feelings and sorrows with, and to stand by him throughout his life. I'm sure I can find this type of friendship with people in your college.

What I'm asking of you is to please put my name and address in your campus paper. Maybe someone would like to write me or perhaps they would like to know what prison life is like, and how a man must act to get along. The letters I'll return in reply will be nice letters, nothing dirty or weird.

If you can do this for me; I'll be forever grateful to you. Do what you can for me please!

Thank you.

Tod Hobin Concert Security:
Too Insecure to Intervene?

By Denise Cope

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regards to the Tod Hobin Concert held last Saturday night and as to the damage done to the tables in the dining commons. As I understand it, a total of 8 tables were destroyed valued at $175 each for a grand total in damages of $1,400.

This amount may or may not be charged to the student and rumor has it that the band may be charged because they allegedly "provoked" the students to act in a barbaric manner and thusly were indirectly responsible for all damages incurred.

This however, is not what I am attempting to make judgement on because I do not have all the facts.

My gripe lies with Lamson Security. Why didn't they get the students off the tables after the first one broke? Or even after the second? But to stand there polishing their badges while 8 tables were destroyed is beyond my comprehension of what their job scope involves.

Now, I don't mean to imply that the students are so immature here as to have no understanding between right and wrong but let's face it, the Husson community has been starving for decent entertainment all year and may be we all got a little excited listening to real live music as opposed to the usual record hops with two people waving a flashlight for a light show.

I also understand that three security guards were contracted for the evening and that one left early at 10:30.

I don't think that it is fair that the students must pay for security guards to monitor a dance when they don't even do their job -- yet we are forced to hire them.

It wasn't every student who was involved in the damaged tables but every student who has a little bit taken from their activity fee to pay for the band, and for the security guards, and in this case -- damage of which some could have been prevented had security intervened.

I think the problem could have been solved if one security guard turned up the house lights while the other informed the band to instruct everyone to get off the tables before they would start playing again. Using this tactic, it would be amazing how fast the students would oblige.

Do Husson Students Have Alcohol Problem?

LINDA BENNET:
Yes, I think there is a problem. There is nothing else to do.

MARC CARRIER:
There is a problem. They should be more alcohol awareness programs.

ROBERT HINDES:
Yes, because a couple of years ago we rated #7 of all the colleges in United States for alcohol consumption per capita.

ERNIE BURCHILL:
Yes. It is all around and easy to obtain anytime you want it. Husson has a "party school" name.

JOLENE CHAPMAN:
Definitely. I don't think people realize they have a drinking problem.

TIM DARLING:
Yeah. There aren't enough activities on campus. People drink for something to do.

LANCE STINSON:
Not as a whole campus but there are a few individuals with problems.

ROBERT PENNEY:
No. I don't notice any.

Pinball Machines To Be Awarded To Top Fund Raising Greeks For Heart Fund

Fraternities and sororities nationwide are invited to compete for 20 new Stern pinball machines, top prizes in a three-day campus fund-raiser, April 11 through 13, proceeds of which will benefit the American Heart Association (AHA).

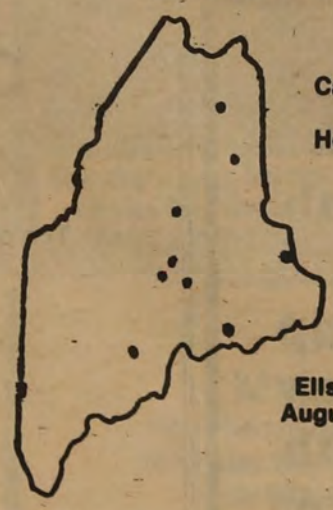

Colleges and universities across the country have already joined the fight against heart disease by signing up to participate in a national fund-raiser competition in April, AHA's "Youth Awareness Month." The contest has been designated a national special event by the National Youth Committee of the AHA and is being sponsored by Stern Electronics, Inc. (a major pinball game manufacturer) and National Lampoon magazine.

Any sorority or fraternity chapter is eligible to enter by staging a three-day fund-raising activity the weekend of April 11. Nineteen Greek houses raising the most money will be awarded Stern's explosive new Muhammad Ali pinball game; the next 50 houses will receive complimentary, life subscriptions to National Lampoon. In addition, one "Ali" machine will be presented to the fraternity or sorority that raises funds in the most novel or comedic manner.

In May, a representative of the house creating the most original fund-raiser event and a delegate of the top fund-raising chapter will be flown to Stern Electronics in Chicago for an award dinner.

Applications and total Alpha to Omega rules of entry are available by telephoning the American Heart Association at (214) 750-5300. Information inquiries must be received by April 1.

DEEA Conference To Be Held

by Michael L. Hancock

Over 300 high school students from throughout Maine will gather at Husson College in Bangor on Tuesday, April 8, for the 12th annual Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) state leadership conference.

According to Robert Thomas, conference coordinator, the event is designed to bring students from different regions together for the purpose of highlighting distributive education and developing marketing skills and techniques.

Co-sponsored by Husson and the Maine Department of Education, the conference will feature 16 contests between students from 12-14 high school chapters. The contests range in focus from advertising to store layout.

Among the chapters scheduled to attend are the 1979 Co-Chapters of the Year, Madawaska High School and Bath Regional Technical, as well as the Southern Penobscot Vocational School in its first year of DECA competition.

"On the high school level, these students are exposed to the basic principals of marketing and distribution and come to understand the role that they have in the free enterprise system," says Thomas.

Included in this year's activities is the newly-created free enterprise project, sponsored by Phillips Petroleum Corporation. According to Thomas, each chapter is required to prepare a manual containing essays, bulletin board sketches, and public appearance summations, all dealing with free enterprise. A panel of three businessmen, including a Phillips representative, will judge each manual and will interview each contestant.

Highlighting the one-day conference will be an awards dinner and the presentation of the DECA Chapter of the Year award.

Among the students involved in the 1980 conference are Doug's Shop 'n Save Food Stores, the Bangor Mall Merchants Association, the Airport Mall Merchants Association and NCR.

History of Husson

Louise B. Miller & Larry Fiori

In the late 1890's Mr. F. L. Shaw, with schools in Portland and Augusta, opened The Shaw Business and Shorthand College in Bangor. The exact location of the school at that time is in question.

Students enrolled and withdrew throughout any given year. Many acquired enough training to find employment and never bothered to complete a course. In 1899 a month's tuition for the regular course was $8. The average salary at that time, however, was a "buck a day" or less. By 1900, it was called the Shaw Business College and was located in the Bass Building. No sources, so far, have been found to verify the type or number of programs offered or the number of students or graduates of any given year. No records were given to Mr. H. W. Mann when he purchased the business in 1926. As the school was a private business, all accounts including students' records were considered private property. A reproduction of a picture of the student body of Shaw Business College for the early 1900's is shown in the display case (1). No doubt, World War I did affect the growth of the scool.

When the business was purchased by Mr. Mann, along with business schools in Auburn-Lewiston, Portland, Augusta, it became a part of a chain, known at Bangor as the Maine School of Commerce.

It is not known when the move from the Blake-Barrows-Brown Building to the Adams Building, 17 Columbia Street, took place. The building was razed in April, 1968, to provide parking space for Penobscot Savings Bank.

In 1926, Chesley H. Husson, a young graduate of Salem, Massachusetts State Teachers College was employed as Principal-Teacher and Coach. The school occupied four classrooms on the second floor of a factory-Emple Knitting Mill.

There were two rest rooms -- one for men; one for women. Blackboards were painted wood. Students sat at large tables -- four students per table. Even the typewriters were on long benches which were along either side of a narrow room. The equipment was limited and old -- much pre-WWI. No Bells!

After a successful academic year 1926-1927, the principal persuaded the owner to invest in some new equipment -- all new typewriters and some modern up-to-the-minute desks! The desks, incidentally, were used in the main room of the new building, 157 Park Street, until the college moved to the new campus in 1968.

Mr. Husson, the late president of Husson College continued as principal, teacher, coach, public relations director, until financial insolvency brought on by the Great Depression, 1929, forced the dissolution of the chain of Maine Schools of Commerce, 1931-1933. With the support and assistance of Mr. George T. Carlisle, Dr. Charles E. Adams and Mr. Ernest Lamb, Mr. Husson continued as principal of the designated Bangor Maine School of Commerce.

In 1939, Mr. Husson, now the proprietor of the Bangor Maine School of Commerce, erected the building located at 157 Park Street.; and in 1947 changed the name to Husson College by popular vote of the student body.

In the 1950's, Mr. Husson wanted to develop a campus that offered a collegiate environment and create an opportunity for growth. To get the funding necessary it was appropriate to change the status of the college from a profit-earning organization to a non-profit organization. One of the first steps taken by Mr. Husson was the purchase of some land, thus the first investment was a deposit of 50 acres of land that was part of what was then referred to as the Hillman's Dairy Farm.

Finally, in 1963 Mr. Husson got approval and funding for his dream and in 1967 building began. Just a year later, 1968, although much work was left to be done, staff, faculty, and students moved to what we now refer to as Husson College.

Thus, Husson College, is today an accredited, degree-granting institution of specialized business.

Students Are Encouraged to Utilize the Job Corps Facilities Located at Newman Gym

With the induction of the job corps center the Husson population reaps the benefits. Photo by Whitcomb.

Along with the incoming Penobscot Job Corp students filling up Bell Dormitory, Husson's gym has been filling up with an array of athletic equipment that promises to keep even the most avid Husson sports enthusiast perspiring and weary.

The equipment that has already arrived includes items such as leather basketballs, footballs, and soccerballs; volleyball nets and balls, softball equipment, racquetball racquets and balls; archery equipment; cross-country skis and boots; floor hockey equipment; frisbees and even toboggans. Canoes and camping equipment are expected to find their way on campus in the near future.

In addition to the athletic equipment, programs such as racquetball instruction and the initiation of an indoor floor hockey league are being put into effect. Racquetball instruction is being offered on Monday evenings with three time slots between 6:00 and 9:00. It is part of a co-vocational (both job corp and Husson students) mini-course program offering recreational and arts and crafts courses such as ceramics and pottery. The basement of Bell Dorm is being utilized for the craft courses. For more information on exactly what courses are offered and how to sign up for them, the man to see is Larry Fiori in the Student Life Office.

The procedure followed to make use of some of the athletic equipment in the gym is a relatively simple one. Present your Husson ID card to one of the persons working in the equipment room which is located to the left of the main lobby and request a certain item. Upon return of the equipment, your ID will be returned. At the present time the hours equipment will be available during the day time has to remain flexible due to the fact that the administrators involved will be preoccupied with the orientation of new job corp students. However, they will be available to issue equipment during the evening between 6:00 and 10:00.

According to Damon Hamel, one of the administrators under the direction of Ron Hicks, the main purpose behind the athletic programs is to provide students with some exposure to "carry-over" sports such as racquetball and cross-country skiing which they can continue after completing their education.

Concerning the experience and expertise of the people administrating the recreational and athletic programs through the job corp, Hamel has stated that each has a degree in either recreation or physical education.

Dickerman Dining Commons Receives Shot In The Arm By Student Food Committee

By Jack Grady

A rejuvinated food service committee has made some considerable changes in the way food is prepared and served. The committee has attempted to upgrade the quality of the food as well as the variety. A major effect is being made to reach the students as to their opinion of what they are paying for as compared to what they get.

More than a year ago students desperately cried out for an improvement in the overall dining facility. Today their needs are being heard and met by a very vibrant and aggressive committee. The most visible improvements include the development of a sandwich bar at lunch time to give the student a cold alternative to the sometimes less desireable hot selections. We cannot only see the changes but we can also hear them. The renovation of the defunct audio-speaker system left neglected years ago due to water damage has been put back into use. This provides a melodious atmosphere while contemplating the Husson menu. Improvement at the salad bar are forthcoming as well as an emergence of a hearty fruit snack at most meals.

The committee is optimistic in predicting future changes when it has completed its survey of the residential body. This survey includes questions as to the students major likes and dislikes of the existing meals, salad bar, and service. The survey also suggests to the students new services such as an ice cream machine and vegetable juices to be served.

We the student must take our hats off for this much needed assistance by these concerned students. The committee asks for any suggestions which can help them raise the quality of the food services. Maybe they can turn their attentions towards any forseeable problem that will occur with the increasing influx of Consortium residents utilizing the dining commons. Also, the committee could look into the related arrowhead lounge as to the relationship between price and quality of food served as well as an increase in events at the arrowheads facilities.

Finally it's great to see the committee become a moving force on campus

Husson Band Makes Great Strides In A Year

By Teri Small

The Husson Jazz ensemble has been hard at work this year, starting the band, and getting prepared for concerts.

John Zulli, the band's director, has put a lot of time and dedication into the band and has arranged for the band to tour at area high schools.

Next year he is in hopes that the band will be able to enter the "New England Concert Jazz Ensambo" held at Berkley College.

On behalf of the band, John would like to thank the Student Senate and Cultural Committee for the funds necessary to get the band formed and moving. Also, he would like to extend thanks to the faculty and staff and most of all to the student body for their support and enthusiasm to this program.

The band's performances are as follows:

April 2 - Bucksport High School, the Husson Band is the guest performers for an evening performance.

April 17 - Sumner High School Assembly.

April 26 - Alumni Banquet "Husson College".

One performance is also planned at Winslow High School. From talking to many of the students, faculty and staff I know we would all like to extend our thanks and appreciation to John and his band for their dedication. The band represents the school in a way that adds a new dimension and enrichment to our college.

Good luck to the band members

Student Government Platforms Announced

I, Kevin P. Milligan, and I, Jim W. Corrow, hereby state that we have petitioned for the Student Senate offices of President and Vice President respectively.

We both care very much about Husson College and feel that we can do a fine job in these positions. The only way that the Student Senate can be effective is through student involvement. If elected, we would be employed by the students, and therefore make every effort to work with everyone in any endeavor.

There are many things at Husson that can be changed with a unified student body. Some of our objectives are as follows:

1. Security - The security system here at Husson must be reviewed by the students. Lamson Security and the new dormitory security system must be investigated.

2. Dickerman Dining Commons and Arrowhead Lounge - The food committee is making good progress in these areas and should be supported by the senate office as well as the student body.

3. Consortium - The Consortium is here to stay and we all must work to make the best of it. Any problems that may arise with students could be reviewed and acted on by student senate.

These are a few of our objectives. If elected we will work toward these and others.

Sincerely,
Kevin P. Milligan
Jim W. Corrow

Below Candidates
Jim Milton Glenn Goodwin

Greg Clements and Terri Small are running for President and Vice President respectively of the Student Senate for 1980-81.

Their platform for Student Senate is one in which they hope will help to bring unity to the Husson Community.

They plan to accomplish the following objectives:

1. To have a well-distributed presentation of the Husson Community on the Student Senate.

2. To see that the Senate's money is fairly distributed to the various clubs, activities, committees, etc.

3. To be fair, justice and not prejudice against or for any views that would not benefit the whole Husson Community.

4. To see that the policies that Louise O'Donnell and Sterling Hoak started and set-up are continued. And to build a strong Senate.

Greg has been active in the Student Senate for the last 3 years. In 1978 he was vice president of the Student Senate and this year he was co-chairman of the social committee. He is also President of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. Greg was President of his Freshman class, Vice President of sophomore class and Historian of the Student Education Association. He is also an R.A. and has been a Presidential Guide for the last 2 years.

Terri is presently involved with Chief Week Committee, Epsilon Tau Epsilon Sorority, Vice President of Husson Young Democrats and a member of the food committee. She was a member of the freshman executive Board, and on the 79 Parent's Week end Committee.

They know that with your support they will be able to put into action their policies and build a strong Student Senate.

Election '80

A Chance To Get Involved!

By Debbie Hogan

Election 1980 is nearing for all Husson lead positions.

Student Senate positions include President, ½ tuition paid; vice president, ¼ tuition paid; treasurer and social committee chairperson, $500 each. The yearbook editor and radio station manager positions both receive ½ tuition paid as well.

Positions of the Spectator staff include editor in chief ½ tuition paid; assistant editor, ¼ tuition paid, and business manager ¼ tuition paid.

Not only do these positions offer monetary compensation but also a chance to put into practical application some of the methods and techniques you have learned in your field of study. Involvement in one of these areas can give you an edge over someone who has no practical experience. An education confined to the classroom alone is like having the ability to read music but never having played it. Knowedge and experience go hand in hand -- one is only so good without the other.

If you are interested in any of these positions you should contact the people holding them this year to find out what each entails and to discuss what these people have learned through their experiences.

If you don't feel you have the time or the desire to seek one of these offices then make sure you know who is running and what their qualifications are because wasted or well spent, it's your money they're spending.

Chief Week Candidates Announced

As the Captain and Tennille we, [Bill Schwechheimer and Sally Spofford] would like to announce our candidacy for CHIEF FOR A DAY.

I, Bill Schwehheimer, am from Amesbury, MA., and will be graduating this May with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration, and am a member of the Kappa Delta Phi Fraternity.

I, Sally Spofford, am from Boothbay, ME., and am a freshman majoring in Secretarial Science, and am a member of Order of Diana.

Our campaign with a Senior and a Freshman will focus on two aspects. I the Captain, being a senior, am aware of the traditions behind chief week.

I Tennille, being a freshman, will bring forth high spirits and new ideas to our campaign.

We are now into a new decade with everything around us changing, it is time for Chief Week to change too. We can all look back over the years and see how things have changed. Husson College is not the same school it was in the past, and neither are the students. So with this in mind, we feel that Chief Week should relate to the times.

Running for CHIEF FOR A DAY has given us, as individuals, the opportunity to work with a great number of people. When people come together to participate in one common goal a feeling of unity is realized from all aspects of the Husson College Community. Regardless of the outcome, if done in unity, accomplishments will be made because "LOVE WILL KEEP US TOGETHER".

We are Pebbles and Bam Bam, better known as Karen Roykouff and Jeff Burgdoerfer. I, Bam Bam, am from Brookfield, CT and am presently a a freshman majoring in Business Education. I recently became a brother of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, am a member of SEA, have participated in intramurals, and will be a coordinator for the upcoming DECA conference held here at Husson. And I, Pebbles, am from Pulaski, NY and am presently a senior, graduating in May with my major in Business Education also. I am the secretary-treasurer of SEA and of the Husson Band, a peer tutor, and R.A. I have participated in women's varsity volleyball and basketball and have been a WHSN disc jockey.

Let's bring back our younger days of happiness and togetherness and continue to make each Chief Week better than the previous one.

YABBA DABBA DOO!!!

Welcome back to the days of Bonnie and Clyde.

Chief Week is upon us once again, a great tradition of Husson College. It is up to us to continue this tradition to insure that future Husson students have this celebration to look forward to.

Though we represent a pair of lawless criminals, in reality, we wish to convey the feeling of unity among all Husson students.

In the tradition of the real Bonnie and Clyde, where the nation was pulled closer together to thwart their efforts, our Bonnie and Clyde campaign is designed to unite all Husson students and complement each others efforts.

I, Stuart Marckoon, alias Clyde Barrow, am neither mean nor despicable. I hail from Rockland, Maine and presently live off campus in Bangor. I am a junior majoring in accounting with a management concentration. Among my activities at Husson, are manager of WHSN, Husson Band, intramural sports and a member of the President's Cabinet. I also work for WGUY as a disc jockey and engineer respectively.

I, Gail Buckhout, alias Bonnie Parker, do not carry either a gun or a grudge - my home town is Glen Head, Long Island, New York. I am a 4-year first semester senior majoring in Office Administration. I came to Husson last year after transferring from Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School. On campus I am involved with WHSN, the Chieftain and Circle K.

Unfortunately, none of us knew Chief Husson; however, we do know of his contributions and efforts for Husson College. He left a spirit with all of us that is heightened by Chief Week. It is this spirit that we intend to enhance through the Bonnie and Clyde campaign.

What was the spirit that Chief Husson left us? One of the biggest parts of the spirit was achievement. This was accentuated by one of the Chief's favorite sayings, "We are here to make good-not excuses". Another segment of the spirit is unity. We are all here together striving for the same thing. It is through working together, "unity", that we will achieve our eventual goal.

As candidates for chief for a day, we intend to receive the spirit of Chief Husson. It is up to you and up to us to make Chief Week enjoyable. We hope that you concur with that fifty-year old saying "Wanted: Bonnie and Clyde" for Chief Week 1980.

Greetings from the Brothers of Mu Sigma Chi. We'll begin by congratulating all the new brothers as they have been formally initiated brothers of Mu Sigma Chi, which is a chapter of Pi Rho Zeta. These new brothers are the future of MEX and we know they will carry the pride, courage and brotherhood in years to come.

Last week the hood headed for the Red Cross, where we all gave blood. When this exciting event ended, we were awarded by the Student Government for our social accomplishment. Thank you. We are once again preparing for our annual trip. This year we will be heading south to historic Newburyport, where brother Jack will introduce us to some deep sea fishing. We are all real excited and looking forward to this upcoming adventure. At this time the Husson brothers would like to wish the best of luck to the baseball team as they prepare themselves for Florida. We are sure that Coach Walsh will guide his fine group of young men to their share of victories. While we are still on the sports line, we are all looking forward to playing some indoor hockey in the gym. It should prove to be the ultimatum in sports.

The brothers are also preparing for Interfraternal Basketball. When the time arrives we should prove to be an ready team. Before closing, we would like to wish each and everyone a pleasant spring vacation. Until the next time, keep the faith.

The Brothers of Mu Sigma Chi

ΦΣΠ

Greetings from the Brothers of Phi. Well, another vacation is up for us, but this is no ordinary vacation. After April vacation only four weeks remain and those four weeks are the best of the school year. They contain Chief Week and sunny days, Bar Harbor and road trips. I'm sure everyone will be psyched as will all the brothers. Although the coming weeks will be fun and pleasure packed, let us not forget why we are here or our obligations.

A special treat for the Brothers in the coming weeks will be our 10th Anniversary celebration. At this time all the present brothers will have the chance to renew old acquaintances with the alumni and to engage in a festivity with not just friends but brothers. It will surely be a great time for all.

That's about all for now from the Brothers of Phi. Have a very good vacation and get ready for the closing weeks of this school year.

Hope everybody saved those cuts!

The brothers of Tau Epsilon Phi would like to congratulate all the people who successfully completed pledging into their Greek organization. With spring here, it seems that softball isn't very far away. We are all psyched for it and ready to have a good time.

This past weekend was a wild one for many of us here to the TEP floor. A visit by our alumnus Hugh Hewitt, made for a crazy Friday night. Saturday night with the presence of Todd Hobin, our brothers from the Tau Zeta chapter at Orono came down to do a little partying. We look forward to this vacation because a rest is well deserved.

We wish everyone a pleasant vacation and drive carefully. Get rested because Chief Week is only a few weeks away.

Spring is in the air and vacation's round the corner. Soon the frisbees will be flying and the campus will come alive to enjoy the sunny weather and many activities during spring.

Many Sisters will be vacationing in exotic places this break. Stephanie and Brenda will be headed for Florida and Liz will be chasing Don Ho all over Hawaii - she may even sign up with H.P.D. after being pledge master. Captain Cape will be peanut farming in Georgia as well. As for the rest of us we will no doubt buy out all the local drugstores of "Sudden Tan" just to keep our "spirits" up.

The Sisters are proud to announce that our floor renovations are nearing completion and we will be inviting the entire Husson community up for a look-see.

Congratulations to the new full-fledged Sisters of Kappa Lambda after their banquet Sunday evening at Sings. "That which takes longer is always worth the wait".

We would like to thank the Order of Diana for the "Spring Sprucer" party.

The first weekend back the Brothers and Sisters will be heading for Boston for the National Kappa convention. We're sure we will repeat last year by sweeping all the awards.

Until next time - "MAY THE SPIRIT NEVER DIE"

Greetings from the Sisters of Epsilon Tau Epsilon,

We would like to thank Brothers Brian Wood and Ken Carle for attending our Formal. A great time was had by all, especially by our new Sisters. Be proud, you're now full-fledged ETE!!!!! By the way, wouldn't a HAM dinner have been better for Brian?

The Todd Hobin Band was excellent Saturday Night! We all had a great time and would like to thank the Social Committee for arranging the evening. Oh yes, M&M the table 's not there!!!

The Sisters would like to thank the Order of Diana for a great time at their Spring Sprucer Party. The big event of the evening was when Sister Cindy won the door prize. We can still hear the echos down the hall, "I won, I won"!!!

Everyone's psyched for vacation and anxiously awaiting the arrival of Chief Week. We wish all candidates the best of luck. Happy Easter.

Hello from the Brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon. Hello and welcome to all of the students who have moved into Bell dorm; all the TKE's wish you the best of luck.

First of all we would like to congratulate all of the members of the Order of Diana for their fine and successful Spring Sprucer party; everyone had a fantastic time. On May 28 the Order of Diana had their formal initiation and banquet at Sings Restaurant in Bangor. After the banquet, the brothers had a congratulation party in the lounge for the girls.

News of the past weekend: The brothers welcomed spring with a great car wash which was a huge success.

All of the brothers are busy getting ready for Chief Week and the Greek games. At this time we would like to announce that Brother Jeff Burgdoerfer is running for Chief for a Day with Karen Roykouff, from 2nd level Hart, as Pebbles and Bam Bam. Your valued support for these candidates will be greatly appreciated. All of the brothers are looking forward to big wins in the Greek games. We are really psyched Greg Clement is running for President of the Student Senate. All of the brothers are behind him .00%. We hope that you are too. Good luck with the election Greg.

The frater of the week award went to Brother Bill Dorrity for his hard work and efforts over the past week. Congratulations Bill, you deserve it.

Greetings from the Brothers of Kappa Delta Phi. The weather has been great lately and that wonderful disease, spring fever has struck again. Remember though, that there is only five weeks of school left, so don't let those grades slip.

With the coming of warm weather our thoughts are of road trips, Bar Harbor and Chief Week. Our total support goes out to Brother Bill Schwechheimer and Sally Spofford who are running for Chief-for-a-Day as Captain and Tennille. We wish them luck in their endeavor. Chief Week is a great time here at Husson, so everybody get psyched!

In the sports scene, Kappa I is doing well in intramural basketball and are in the championship game again. The competition is not yet known but it will be a good game and the brothers are psyched. Softball will be next and we plan to have several good teams this year. Kappa I will be looking for a repeat as champs but the competition is good and last year's runner up Mex I will be out for revenge. There will be some great games played so get our there and support your team. Brother Jim Panzino is getting up players for floor hockey teams so if you are interested, so him.

Congratulations are in order for the new Kappa Lambda Sisters for overcoming all obstacles in their guest for sisterhood.

Hi Everyone! We hope everyone enjoys the upcoming vacation and gets rested up for all of the activities that will be going on when we get back.

We are all looking forward to Chief Week and would encourage everyone to get involved! We can all make this Chief Week the best ever if we all participate. Fire up

We've all been pretty busy on the floor. We had a good time collecting for muscular dystrophy. Our efforts really paid off.

We're really looking forward to the warmer weather and are going to make the best of it with car washes and other activities. Hog beach will be opening soon so get outside and get some exercise!

Before we know it the semester will be over so keep up with your studies until then. Last chance!

We'd like to take the opportunity to congratulate all of the new sisters. They are Teresa Gray, Linda Bennett, Peggy Brewer, Sally Beal, Shiela Pike, Adele Conklin, Shiela Bradley, Brenda Langlais, Katie O'Connor, Bernedette

Library Committee and Dr. Westbrook Increase Library Holdings

By Saiful Huda

The Library Advisory Committee does really exist and is here to stay. It was formed this year primarily on the academic Dean, Dr. Fennell's initiative. It's basic purpose is to increase the present Husson College Library's hold in every academic area.

It is made up of a faculty member from each department and a student representative, Diane Guyer. The man in the chair and the driving force behind the committee, the an fait Dr. Westbrook, discussed the objectives and goals of the committee in an informal chat over a cup of coffee.

When asked as to how the Committee is going about obtaining the books, Dr. Westbrook was quite emphatic and enthusiastic. He explained that the primary step is for each faculty member to submit a book order list to the Committee, which in turn would examine the list and go about obtaining it. The Committee has several sources at its disposal and is therefore not simply confined or restricted to monetary purchases. It will sometimes obtain the books directly from the publishers. There have been quite a few gifts from the staff and faculty of which the outstanding contributions have been from Bob Caswell and Tom Largay. There have also been some donations and gifts from the community in general and source contributions from the local accounting firms. However, a major source for the Committee and an important once economically, is through book sales. Dr. Westbrook stated that the Committee has been able to obtain hundreds of valuable books from such book sales by stretching the dollar far. Specifically at the Colby College sale the committee purchased hundreds of books at a total of $183 which were worth $1,000. However, such deals require a lot of hustling and initiative on the part of the Committee members. The library is a cardinal asset and a vital source of resource to college. It is even more difficult for a college such as Husson, which is business oriented, to keep its library resources up to date with the constant vicissitudes in the field of business. However, the committee is trying hard to keep the library's resources up to date. The volumes in the library have increased to 30,000 from the previous 28,000 and there have been 30 new periodicals that have been subscribed to. Numerous newspapers, national and international have also been included.

Dr. Westbrook stated that the student interest in the library seems to be in the resources and the student attendance has increased by 35%. The committee will soon be discussing the student interests in the library with the student senate and a questionnaire will be distributed sometime in April designed to ascertain student interests in terms of books as to what they would like to see in the library. The committee is also, in cooperation and conjunction with the library staff, working in the preparation of library handbooks.

Towards the end of the conversation when asked if he thought the library was a valuable study area, Dr. Westbrook replied "it's a good place to hold hands!"

Students Urged To Cash In On Co-op

Cooperative Education courses based upon your present work experience are now available for students in the Continuing Education Division. It is possible to earn a maximum of eighteen credit hours in Bachelor of Science programs and nine credit hours in an Associate of Science program. The credits earned in Co-operation Education courses will substitute for technical, general or unrestricted electives.

Although new in its present form at Husson College and to Maine, Cooperative Education has had over seventy years of proven service since its founding at the University of Cincinnati in 1906. It is estimated that there are now over 300,000 college students participating in work experience courses.

The basic principle of Cooperative Education is that well-educated individuals develop most effectively through an educational pattern that provides for exposure to the reality of the world that exists beyond the boundaries of the college classroom. The Cooperative Education concept centers upon the value of work a learning activity and is committed to the career growth of the individual as a person.

If you would like further information about obtaining academic credit for your work experience, just ask a Site Coordinator for a booklet or contact the Cooperative Education Office in Bangor.

Three members of the Husson College Circle K travelled to Boston this past weekend to the Circle K District Convention. Those attending were Paula Cote, Scott Sanborn treasurer, and Dan Gallipeau-lieutenant Governor.

The Husson College Circle K proudly brought home the First Place Award for total achievement for the year. This is an outstanding achievement for us to win this award over the other colleges who are much larger than Husson.

A special thank you goes out to all the Circle K members for their hard work in making our winning of this award possible.

Braves Baseball Team Make Florida Swing

This year's Braves baseball team will be an extremely young club. Aside from two seniors and three juniors, the entire squad will be made up of relatively newcomers. It is hoped that the eight returning veterans (from last year's squad) will provide the leadership necessary for a successful season. In addition, five transfer students are expected to have a significant impact - particularly in the infield. Several freshmen are also expected to contribute, right away, to this upcoming season.

The total program, since the conclusion of fall baseball, has been geared to the April southern swing to Florida. Playing approximately 10 games in 7 days should sharpen up the skills and execution of the team members. The players have been working indoors since mid-February and are very enthused about the upcoming trip.

Pitching and defense are essential ingredients in the success of any baseball team. Returning veterans Gregg Tweedie and Al Cloutier will head a seven man pitching staff. Tweedie is expected to be the "stopper" with Cloutier heading up the bullpen. Other starters will include veterans Steve Doiron and John Hopping. Freshman Steve Swanson has been impressive so far and could be the fourth starter. Rookies Brian LeFave and Dave McGowan will get an opportunity to pitch down south and should help in the area of depth.

One of the strengths of this year's edition of the baseball Braves should be a veteran outfield. Craig O'Brien in left, Al Cloutier in center and Gregg Tweedie in right all return as starters. Erv Morrison, Glenn Megquier and Greg Veilleux will round out the outfield crew and see action whenever Tweedie or Cloutier take to the mound.

Infield defense could be another asset. Returning starters John Hopping at second and John Zinck at first should stabilize the right side of the infield, with Zinck making a smooth switch from third base. Transfer Chris Lenfest has filled in excellently at shortstop while the third base job is still up for grabs. Veteran Steve Doiron (the team's leading hitter last season), transfer Neil Ford and freshman Brian LeFave are in stiff competition for the starting nod. Newcomers Pat Girard, Dave McGowan and Mike Swanson will push the starters and supply needed back-up strength.

Behind the plate, freshman Ed Boyce and transfer Mark Piper are both having an excellent preseason. Piper has been slowed somewhat by an injury, but has come on strong recently. Returning starter Al Dow underwent shoulder surgery in January, but could come back to help later in the season.

Overall, the attitude and enthusiasm of the team has been excellent. The feeling is that the regulars must stay free from injury and the young pitchers must contribute immediately. It could be that the mixture of veterans, transfers and freshmen could combine to make this an enjoyable season for Husson's baseball Braves.

Cooper Named To All-Maine Basketball Five By Maine Coaches And Writers

By anyone's standards, Husson College basketball coach Bruce Mac Gregor has coached many fine athletes during his 12 years at Husson. Few have rated the praise that junior swingman Dennis Cooper does, however.

Cooper, named to the first-five or the All-Maine team by the Maine College Basketball Coaches and Writers Association last week, played his second season for MacGregor's Braves in 1979-80 and turned in a performance that pleased his coach.

"Dennis Cooper was one of the keys to our success this year," says MacGregor. "Despite all of the adversity that faced him, he proved that he could do everything that was asked of him."

According to MacGregor, Cooper moved from his guard spot to a forward position this season and made the transition smoothly, leading Husson to a 22-7 record and a second-place finish in NAIA District 5 play.

"Coop knew that night after night he would be guarding the top offensive player on the other team, whether it was a guard, forward or center. We also asked him to increase his rebounding presence on the boards," admits MacGregor. "He did everything that we asked and still lead the team in scoring."

The 6'3" Cooper averaged 17 points per game while pulling down 7.4 rebounds. He also sank 57 percent of his field goal attempts.

Cooper, soft-spoken native of West Haven, Connecticut, downplays his importance to the Braves.

"No team can rely on one person to win ball games. We counted on many people and they came through for us. It seemed like someone had a hot hand every night and that was the person we went to."

"Perhaps we called on Coop to do more than we should have," conceded MacGregor, "but he was always there, ready to fill the bill."

Even with 6'9" Mike Bouchard and 6'8" Keith Ogden eligible to play for Husson next fall, Dennis Cooper should continue to play a critical role for Bruce MacGregor's Braves.

Members of Beatle Magic to visit Husson campus April 28

This year the closing ceremonies of Chief Week will take place in the Newman Gymnasium.

No big deal, right? Wrong!

Tradition has always put the last events of Chief Week in the Dining Commons. But if you look up as you enter the DDC you should notice a sign stating dancing capacity 450 people and that's without the stage! And I'm sure there are people on this campus that have vivid memories of the last time Oak played in the DDC. Some Husson Students weren't allowed to enter because of the mob inside.

So what alternatives do we have?

To stage a take-over of the gym for a period of roughly 24 hours, will be no easy job. We have been granted permission to use the gym but we must take every precaution to protect the newly refinished floor.

In order to meet the conditions placed upon us, we must put restrictions on you. Those restrictions will be no one -- that means no student, no alumni, no Consortium, and no guests will be allowed to enter without both ticket and identification, Security will be taking the tickets. No one will be allowed to enter with glass bottles, or plastic containers over a quart. That limits you to quart containers, cans and wine flasks. Again security will check you for these restrictions.

Coach MacGregor does not want any throwing of beer and since he oversees the use of the gym, we have to play by his rules.

Beatle Magic will be the entertainment for the evening starting at 10 p.m. and Dana Lavertu will be spinning the wheel from 7:30 until the show begins.

Tickets will be available very soon. Guest Tickets will sell for $4.50 per ticket. Student/alumni will be entitled to bring two guests.

Remember buy your tickets early,

Hi once again from the sisters of Phi. As you can tell, spring is here and our road trips to Bar Harbor are getting more frequent every day. The frisbee season has started again, and we sisters are all victims.

During our recent vacation we all started on the summer job search. We all plan to stick very close together this summer even if the miles are between us.

We plan on spending the rest of this semester studying extra hard and working toward higher marks. That's all for this time.
