Where Can I Turn ?

Who Can I Talk To . . . .

. . . when I feel depressed? . . . when I am lonely? . . . when I am scared? . . . when I find myself in a situation I don't want to be in? . . . when I feel like my life is falling apart? WHERE CAN I TURN?

This has to be one of the major questions that many people are asking as the community at Husson tries to pull itself together after a night filled with confusion and tragedy for one young student.

Where can students turn to talk with someone about their problems? According to the administration at Husson, there are places for students to turn when they feel they need someone other than a friend.

John Rubino, Dean of Student Affairs for Husson College, assured me that there are people to talk to when a student feels overwhelmed with life, for whatever reason. Lois Williams is the academic counselor who can be found in the Academic Development Office. Lois offers personal counseling to students, which she says is on a strictly confidential basis: "Confidentiality is a special thing to me." She also stated, "I can not hire, fire, grade or restrict. I am here to help, that's all I do." If a student needs a place to unwind or unburden, this is a safe place, according to Lois. A steady flow of students comes into her office, and she fits them all into her schedule. "My regular students seem to know that if an unusual situation arises and I may not be available at their regular time, I will see them just as soon as possible. They are very understanding. They know that if it was them in a crisis situation, I would also be there for them, according to Lois." Lois stated that she gets a lot of referrals from faculty. Many students feel comfortable talking with their professors, then feel a need for further assistance. This is when a referral to Lois comes into play. Often times the professor will even go to Lois's office and introduce the student to her so they feel more comfortable. "Word of mouth works well," says Lois about students' awareness of her office and services being available to students.

One positive aspect of her title, Academic Counselor, states Lois, is that when a student comes into her office, nobody knows why they are there, other than her and the student. Because of the double title, no one else knows whether the student is there for counseling in academic or personal matters. After Lois meets with a student, they will together decide whether the problems should be addressed by Lois or if further, outside assistance should be sought. Lois often makes outside referrals to other professionals when the need arises. According to John Rubino, students who carry the Student Accident and Sickness Insurance, are covered for outside counseling up to a maximum of $50.00 per visit, up to six visits. Many times Lois is able to work with a student to resolve problems, but she says that sometimes more time is required than what an academic year provides, so further help is needed. If a student decides to obtain an outside counselor, he or she can decide whether they want the outside counselor to have available to them the records that Lois has concerning their problem. The student must sign a formal paper allowing the records to go to another counselor. If they DO NOT want that to happen, they just don't sign the release form, and all information stays with Lois.

According to John Rubino, Linda Jenkins, the school nurse, is also available and on campus five days a week. She is a registered nurse, and deals with health and wellness issues on campus. Linda conducts meetings with students dealing with important subjects. A medical doctor also visits the campus three times a week. Another place where people can turn for help is the Career Development Office, where issues of jobs and money are addressed. The Financial Aid Office is available to help address the problem of paying for college, and the stress that is associated with that. John Kolasinski is the Director of Residential Life and Liz Russell is the Assistant Director of Residential

Still Cruising, Braves Clinch WMAC Title

by Stephen Novak

Things are back to normal for the Braves. Winning their last 8 games, Husson is still a force to be reckoned with.

Monday night the Braves clinched their second WMAC title in as many years with a dramatic 112-78 victory over Thomas College of Waterville.

At the start of the game, Buster Frederick picked up an early player-control foul, setting the plot for the first 20 minutes.

Mitch Range opened the scoring for the Braves to give Husson a quick lead but Thomas' Frank McShan came back to tie it with a bucket of his own.

Husson then went on a 22-8 run started by a Buster Frederick lay-up and ended on a shot from Buster. In the 4-minute spurt Buster and Mitch each hit for 6 points while Mamadou Kone had 4 points.

To the Editor,

I would like to respond to the recent campus question concerning the invasion of Panama.

I don't see where Americans get the idea that they have a God-given right to meddle in the affairs of other countries, not only in the Western Hemisphere, but around the world.

Canada (1812), Mexico (1848), Cuba (1898), Panama (early 1900's), Vietnam (1960's), Libya (1986) and now Panama, just to quote a few instances where the United States has meddled in the affairs of or outright invaded other countries.

If you asked other Western Hemisphere foreign students, you'd realize the feeling towards American intervention in other countries. I've heard Guatamalans, Columbians, Venezuelans, Canadians and even Americans express their displeasure over foreign intervention.

Current involvement in El Salvador and Nicaruagua shows little hope of the situation improving. What the U.S. should do to instill goodwill in Latin-America is invest money to build the economy of these nations, not in the military to destroy them. The American people must realize how people outside the country feel.

To the Editor,

Sitting in class on February 1, 1990, I glanced out the window. Do you know what I saw? I can't be sure who or how many have noticed it- but the people who raised the flag should have noticed that IT IS TORN!

I would think especially after all the recent interest in respect for our country's flag that someone would have done something about this situation.

The size of the rips makes it obvious that it didn't happen today.

Why isn't our flag raised to the TOP as it is supposed to be? What, is it too much for the people who raise it to raise it to the top?? Try a little harder. Try a lot harder. Try!

This is a great country. Part of that greatness is respect. R-E-S-P-E-C-T. We all take from this country, we all need to give as well. Think!

Thanks,
Peter Drag

P.S. If our state's flag is flying by one eyelet, is that right? FIX IT!

CAMPUS QUESTION

by Carolyn Mallia

Do you think the U.S. has the legal right to bring Manual Noriega to the U.S?

Michelle Bishop: "Yes, because so much of what he did influenced our drug problem."
Connie Rowe: "Yes, because he's a known drug dealer."
Linda Beaton: "Yes, because the drugs he is selling are coming to the U.S. and affecting the U.S."
Dennis Hutchinson: "No, because the U.S. shouldn't interfere, and he should be prosecuted in Panama."
K.T. Marquis: "Panama should have the first say, but they left it up to the U.S. So I believe we now have the legal right. I think we should shoot the bastard."
Brian Symms: "No, I don't think we have the legal right, but if Panama isn't going to take action, we should make it our right."

Dear "Partner for Prevention":

Again this year, April is designated Child Abuse Prevention Month. Every year since its inception in 1983, more and more individuals and groups have become involved in activities that promote healthy families and move us closer to the time when we will prevent child abuse in all its forms.

The National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse plans a press event in Washington, D.C. on April 2,1990 to release national abuse and neglect reporting data for 1989 and to introduce a new "Spider-Man" comic book on abuse. Mrs. George Bush, the honorary chairman, will participate in this kickoff event.

Locally, some schools, day care providers, churches, libraries and recreation departments are planning to participate in a number of different ways. We encourage you to plan some special features or interviews for April that focus on child abuse and its prevention.

We would be willing to schedule a meeting to discuss the concept of child abuse prevention, our council's activities and ways that media help to prevent child abuse.

We greatly appreciate your on-going efforts on behalf of children and families. We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,
Jody Chasse

Rumors: Words to the Wise

by Viviana Altomari

Recent events at this college have prompted me to ask how intelligent and responsible people could listen to and believe rumors at this point in our lives. I think that we should be above listening to rumors, but because rumors are being spread it appears as though some people aren't.

I'm sure that everyone has heard the rumors which have circulated concerning what happened on 8th level Hart, so I don't need to repeat any of them, but what we do need to address is the validity of these rumors. I have heard many rumors and I haven't paid much attention to them because rumors are never based on fact. They are just one person's way of making a story more interesting.

Normally if people don't know the facts about something, they simply say, "I don't know." People who begin rumors simply replace the facts with speculation. They make up a story about an event to make it look like they know what they are talking about.

Rumors are never positive and they are the easiest way to make a person's life even more difficult than it already is. When people listen to a rumor they are saying to the person who is spreading the rumor that the rumor is interesting and that they believe it. Listening to a rumor is sometimes worse than spreading a rumor because it causes the person who is spreading rumors to make up mew and more interesting stories with even less fact than before.

When a person is dying to tell you a bit of information that he just heard from a friend, who heard from a friend, who heard from a friend, the best course of action is to tell that person you aren't interested. You may upset the person, but you also may deter him from repeating that bit of information.

All that I ask is that you think about how damaging a rumor can be. Put yourself in the shoes of the person about whom the rumor is being spread, and think about how you would feel if you were that person and had just heard a rumor about yourself that you know isn't true. Maybe if we all do this, the need for rumors will end and the search for the truth will begin.

A Salute To:

Black History Month
Langston Hughes

Langston Hughes was born in Joplin, Missouri, in 1902. He graduated from Central High School in Cleveland, and a poem, "The Negro Speaks of Rivers'" that he wrote the following summer was published in the Crisis (1921). He attended Columbia University for a year, as reflected in his later poem "Theme for English B." He spent several years traveling widely in the United States, Africa, and Europe before publishing his first volume of poetry, The Weary Blues, in 1926. He graduated from Lincoln University in 1929. He continued to write poetry collected in a numberof volumes, throughout his long and distinguished career, and edited several important collections of poetry by American, European, and African blacks. His satiric sketches focusing on Jesse B. Semple, nicknamed Simple, a supposedly ignorant but actually shrewd Harlem resident, appeared in the Chicago Defender and the New York Post and were collected in several volumes. He also wrote two novels, a number of plays, and two volumes of autobiography, before his death in 1967. He is one of the central figures in 20th century black literature.

A writer with a strong social conscience, Hughes drew on black speech and music for the rhythms and idioms of his poetry. The spirit of jazz, the blues, and spirituals informs much of his work. Lorraine Hansberry used the phrase "a raisin in the sun" from his poem "Harlem" as the title of her most famous play.

Theme for English B
The instructor said,
Go home and write
a page tonight.
And let that page come out of you—
Then, it will be true."

I wonder if it's that simple?
I am twenty-two, colored, born in Winston-Salem.
I went to school there, then Durham, then here to this college on the hill obove Harlem.
I am the only colored student in my class.
The steps from the hill lead down into Harlem, through a park, then I cross St. Nicholas,
Eight Avenue, Seventh, and I come to the Y,
the Harlem Branch Y, where I take the elevator up to my room, sit down, and write this page:

It's not easy to know what is true for you or me at twenty-two, my age. But I guess I'm what I feel and see and hear, Harlem, I hear you:
hear you, hear me—we two—you, me, talk on this page.
(I hear New York, too.) Me—who?

Well, I like to eat, sleep, drink, and be in love.
I like to work, read, learn, and understand life.
I like a pipe for a Christmas present,
or records—Bessie, bop, or Bach.
I guess being colored doesn't make me not like the same things other folks like who are other races.
So will my page be colored that I write?
Being me, it will not be white.
But it will be a part of you, instructor.
You are white—
yet a part of me, as I am a part of you.
That's American.
Sometimes perhaps you don't want to be a part of me.
Nor do I often want to be a part of you.
But we are, that's true!
As I learn from you,
I guess you learn from me—
although you're older—and white—and somewhat free.

This is my page for English B (1959)

HARLEM
by Langston Hughes

What happens to a dream deferred ?

Does it dry up
like a raisin in the sun?
Or fester like a sore-
And then run?
Does it stink like rotten meat?
Or crust and sugar over like a syrupy sweet?

Maybe it just sags
like a heavy load.

Or does it explode?

MERRY-GO-ROUND
by Langston Hughes

Where is the Jim Crow section
On this merry-go-round,
Mister, cause I want to ride?
Down South where I come from White and colored
Can't sit side by side.
Down South on the train
There's a Jim Crow car.
On the bus we're put in the back-
But there ain't no back
To a merry-go-round!
Where's the horse
For a kid that's black? (1942)

Development, discuss the academic problems and help find solutions to them. So, students, there are places to turn on campus. They may not be as obvious to us as we thought they should be, but they are there. Take advantage of them!! Life. They are in the dorms and usually available for students to talk with. The residential assistants, who are on the dorm floors, are available, plus they can make referrals if necessary. Melanie Kline-Robinhaar is the Coordinator of Academic Advising. A VIEW FROM BENEATH, BEHIND AND BETWEEN...

T'n'T

by Derek King

This week's article will consist of an interview with two of Husson's most flamboyant and friendly students, Tony Delahaye and Tony Samuels. Delahaye first came to Husson four years ago to play soccer. He returned to his home for a couple of years and returned this fall to play soccer and to finish up his Associates Degree. Samuels came to Husson in January of 1989 after Hawthorne College closed. Both Tonys plan on graduating this spring. These two athletes are exceptional people, and they share a lot more than just first names!

BBB How old are you two?

DELAHAYE 29, last week.
SAMUELS 24, last week.

BBB You both come from interesting countries. What are your homelands?

DELAHAYE St. Catherine, Jamaica.
SAMUELS Limon, Costa Rica

BBB Briefly describe your home countries.

DELAHAYE Warm, nice, beaches, beautiful, simple style of life.
SAMUELS Tropical, sun, pineapples, women in small bikinis, you wouldn't believe it! I miss it!

BBB When and where did you immigrate to?

DELAHAYE When I was 8 years old, my parents moved to Winnipeg, Canada for a better job and a better life.
SAMUELS I was 14 when my mom moved to New York. I then moved to New Jersey because the suburbs were more like Costa Rica.

BBB How did you find Husson College?

DELAHAYE Coach (Mark) Franchi found me while he was attending a game in Winnipeg. I had options of attending Purdue, and Indiana but because of my age at the time (24) I could get more years of eligibility at a small school.

BBB What did you think of former coach Franchi?

DELAHAYE He is the main reason why I chose Husson. He called me every week for 6 months. I have a lot of respect for the man. I like him.
BBB How did you find Husson?

SAMUELS After Hawthorne College closed down several basketball players transfered to Husson. I took a semester off and then I came up here because I already knew a few athletes up here.

BBB What other college choices did you have?

SAMUELS I was recruited by Division I and II schools while in high school. I had only been in the States for a couple of years, and I didn't know much. I didn't know that scholarships were available so I picked Hawthorne because they called me first. My high school coach didn't help me much. He said I had to figure things out on my own. Other schools that recruited me were Farleigh Dickerson, Rider, Long Wood, Southern Connecticut, and Monmouth College.

BBB Soccer is a big part of your lives. How big is it?

DELAHAYE Ha, Ha!!! It means a lot! It is my life.
SAMUELS Very big. Very, Very big! When I was 4 years old, I can remember sitting on my dad's lap watching the 1970 world cup.

BBB Any fond childhood memories?

DELAHAYE I was a bad kid growing up. I used to play soccer in the streets 'til 10:00 at night! We were poor so we couldn't afford soccer balls so we softened a grapefruit with our hands! When it wasn't grapefruit season we used to tie cloth and twine together. I always played with older people so I was always getting hurt! I played everyday! I used to play barefoot. My mother would get mad if I got grapefruit stains on my good shoes.

SAMUELS We wanted to play on grass so bad we used to break into the stadium at night where the pros played. If we got caught, the police would put us in jail overnight. I never got caught. I was too sneaky! When we played in the streets sometimes we would get hit by cars. Thats how bad we wanted to play!

BBB Future soccer plans?

DELAHAYE My goal is to turn pro shortly after graduation.

SAMUELS I've got a try-out for the Winnipeg Fury professional club. My dream would be to play for a professional team in my hometown in Limon, Costa Rica.

BBB Is coaching in the future ?

DELAHAYE Defintely. I've learned so much from soccer. I think I can contribute a lot as a coach.
SAMUELS I don't know. I don't think I have the patience.

BBB Career goals?

DELAHAYE I'd like to pursue a career in sales.
SAMUELS I'd like to open a sports store in Costa Rica.

BBB Where do you plan on moving to after graduation?

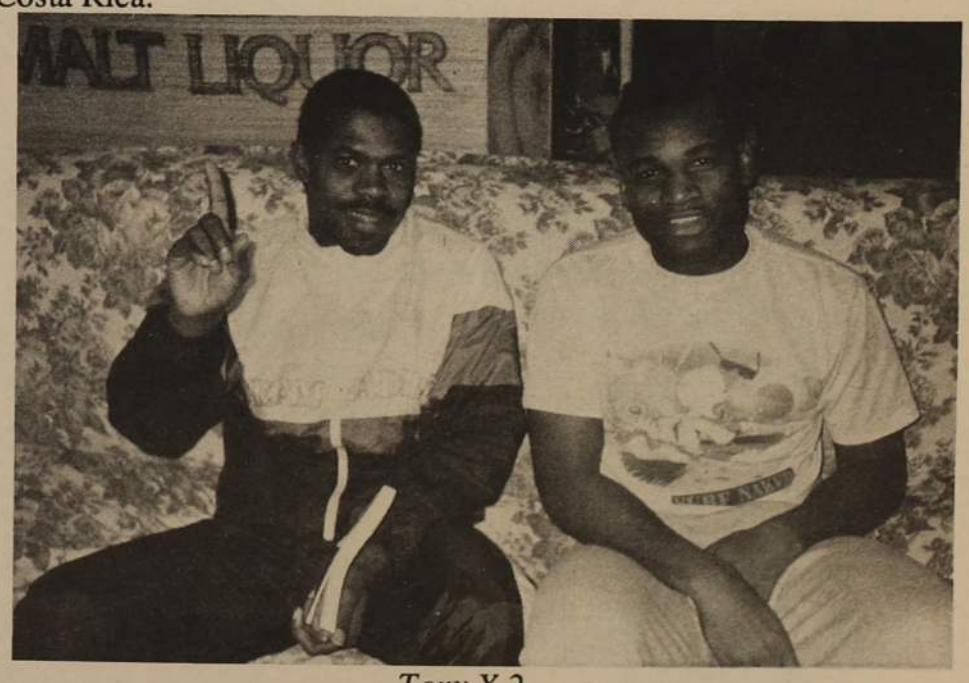

DELAHAYE I'll go back to Winnipeg and hopefully retire to Jamaica.
SAMUELS I want to go back to Costa Rica.

BBB What did you think of Luiz Galvao?

DELAHAYE Wow! A very, very good person. I want to go visit him sometime. I could sit here all day and talk about Luiz. I get a good feeling from him, like someone you want to spend time with the rest of your life.
SAMUELS A great guy. I wish he could have played soccer this fall. Somebody messed up bad somewhere. He was eligible!!! I think he might have been the missing factor we needed to have a successful season. I want to play with him again someday. We play the same style of soccer. The beautiful game! Play to the rhythm of Samba! The simplest form of the game! However, it is the most difficult!

BBB Anything you wish to say to your friends out there???

DELAHAYE I wish to thank the people of Bangor who have helped me through my life. I have nothing to be regretful about. Thanks to Husson for giving me this great opportunity. It will be with me the rest of my life!
SAMUELS I like Maine a lot. Winters are too cold, but summers are beautiful. I'll miss the guys on the team. I'll miss this particular girl greatly, she knows who she is. Thanks for the memories sweetheart. I hope the soccer team has a great season. They deserve it.

Counseling: Where does it begin?

by Viviana Altomari

I hate to keep going back to the events that have occurred in the past week, but they do address a certain issue at the college, what does the college offer in the way of counseling? I haven't heard of any counseling here on campus, yet I think that there should be .

College is an exciting, and yet a difficult time for all. There are many problems that arise with whether or not a student will succeed or if that student will be able to adjust to college life. These are some of the problems that face all college students, and for the most part they are able to deal with these problems and learn from them. However, there are those whose problems run a little deeper and they need to have someone to talk to when the problems are too much for them to handle alone.

When a student does have problems that he or she can't handle alone where can that student turn? From what I have heard from different people in the last week there is a person to talk to. Her name is Lois Williams and she can be found in the Academic Development office. This is no criticism of Ms. Williams, who I am certain is a very pleasant and capable person, but how can anyone talk to a person that they do not know and be able to feel comfortable doing so. I haven't been at this college for very long and even though I have heard her name, I had never seen Ms. Williams until I saw her in the Career Development office while I was working. The simple fact that you have never seen a person is cause enough alone to make you apprehensive when approaching that person. Once again, I mean no offense to Ms. Williams, this fact would apply under any circumstances.

Another problem with this is that Ms. Williams' office is located in Academic Development which is not the first place a person would look for help when they are having a problem. Correct me if I'm wrong, but I think that walking through a busy office does make a person feel kind of out of place and self- conscious. If they are having a problem, it is not the first place they would go to feel comfortable so that they would be able to talk about their problem.

The purpose of this article is not to say anything offensive of either Ms. Williams or the Academic Development office. The reason for this article is to address the fact that accessible counseling services are needed at the college. There should be a place somewhere on the campus where a person would be able to go when they need to find someone they can talk to. I believe that it would be a wise investment to find an office somewhere in Peabody Hall where a counselor would be availible for students to talk to. This counselor should also make himself known so that a student would be able to stop him in the hall and ask him for some of his time. Perhaps, when this is done students would be more willing to talk about what is wrong with their lives and find a way to deal with those problems with help from another person, rather than having to deal with their problems alone.

Health and Education

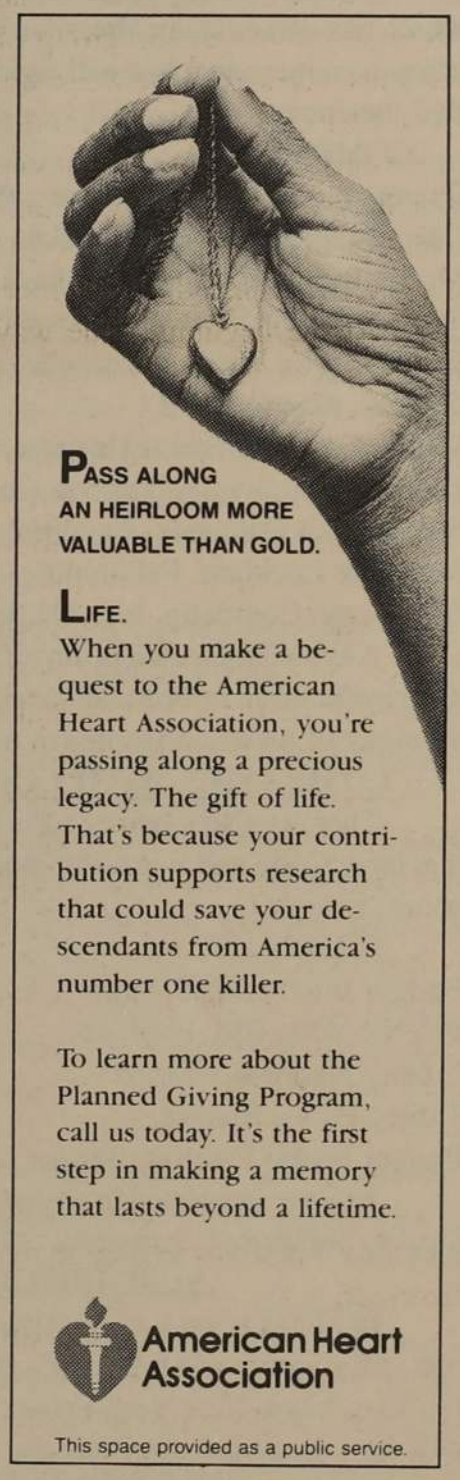

February is Heart Month

The Maine Affiliate of the American Heart Association has announced that applications for. Summer 1990 Student Research Fellowships are open. The purpose of the Summer Fellowship Program is to encourage outstanding science students to consider careers in cardiovascular research.

Applicants must be enrolled in a college or university at the time of application. It is essential that the student have an interest in research, and reasonable familiarity with chemical, biochemical or physiological principles and techniques is helpful. Undergraduate fellowships are $1,600; graduate fellowships, $2,000. In 1989 six awards were made to students at the University of Maine and the Mount Desert Island Biological Laboratory.

A fellowship recipient will work this summer for a ten-week period in a Maine research laboratory under the supervision of an experienced scientist. The student will outline the research project, participate actively in the conduct of the research, and write a final report describing what was accomplished. Applicants are responsible for contacting and requesting sponsorship of an established investigator engaged in appropriate research at a hospital, college or other laboratory within Maine.

American College Health Association Responds To AIDS On The College Campus

ROCKVILLE, MD (October 20, 1989) — Most college students share a conviction of invincibility and the assumption of lasting good health. But according to the HIV/AIDS Surveillance Report, August 1989, produced by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), 20% of the men and 25% of the women diagnosed with AIDS are in the college age group of 20-29.

Our nation's colleges and universities need to play a vital role in controlling this epidemic and in providing a healthful future for all. The American College Health Association (ACHA), in cooperation with CDC, is responding to this need by providing the only free, national AIDS prevention education workshops designed for institutions of higher learning. The workshops give campus administrators, educators, student leaders, and religious leaders the opportunity to learn how to effectively implement HIV/AIDS prevention programs and services in their classes, health services, residence halls, and counseling centers.

Richard P. Keeling, M.D., opens each two-day workshop with the most current facts on HIV transmission and a discussion of psychosocial issues related to HIV infection. Dr. Keeling, chair of the ACHA Task Force on AIDS and Director, Department of Student Health, University of Virginia - Charlottesville, is the nation's foremost authority on AIDS and HIV infection on college and university campuses.

The workshop also includes a personal perspective on AIDS, sessions on marketing and program evaluation, networking opportunities, and small group discussions. At the conclusion, participants form a campus-specific plan of action that they will implement at their own college or university.

The sites chosen for the Spring 1990 workshops are New Orleans, LA (February 13 - 14, 1990); and Providence, RI (April 3 - 4, 1990). ACHA is now inviting representatives from colleges and universities in the states surrounding these areas to participate in these important prevention education sessions. Over the next several years, ACHA will bring the workshops to host campuses in regions across the country.

The American College Health Association is a non-profit organization serving the interests of professionals and students in health and higher education. Through the work of its task forces and in cooperation with other organizations, ACHA directly addresses sensitive issues such as AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, alcohol and drug abuse, confidentiality, vaccine preventable diseases, and student health insurance.

For more information about the AIDS prevention workshops or ACHA contact Joan Cooney or Pauline Vose at (301) 963-1100.

Husson's Soccer Team Goes to St. John

by Derek King

The men's indoor soccer club took part in an 18 team tournament at the University of New Brunswick at St. John. The 14th annual University of New Brunswick Red Barron Invitational Indoor tournament featured clubs from across the Maritimes and Maine. The other two clubs from Maine were UMPI and Joe Jones soccer club from Portland.

The Husson team left early Friday morning so they could be ready for a 2:00 game against UNB. It took a little while to adjust to the surface of the field house and the use of the walls.

Husson lost 1-0 on a goal late in the game. The goal was questionable due to the ball never entering the net. The ball bounced off the goal post and the official must have thought the ball bounced off the back post.

Husson played again that night against the Atlantic Canadian Training Center, who were last years champs. The Training Center is a club that trains potential World Cup and Olympic players. Husson played tough for 15 minutes and the superiority of the Training Center wore down Husson and they went on to a 8-1 romping.

After the game, the Husson team invaded the night life of New Brunswick's largest city. After an all-nighter, and I mean ALL-NIGHTER, Husson squared off against the Moncton Rovers Saturday morning. Husson lost this very close game 2-1 and was eliminated from the tournament.

The team stayed until Sunday morning to take advantage of what St. John had to offer.

Carl "Shotgun" Crawford was unanimously elected "Crazy-Character of the trip" due to his antics at Pizza delight, McAllister Mall's parking lot, and the Petro-Canada gas station.

Other things that will be remembered about this trip... Carl's stain; Rufus; Ryan at "Beaches";"I'm going to call the police"; $45 for how many?! P.E.I. girls basketball team (Thanks girls); Underoos; and Tony Samuels being called "Daddy".

The Husson soccer team wishes to thank all those who helped us in our fundraisers so we could participate in the tournament.

Off-Campus Activities

by Shawn Murchison

Hey there! It's me again. I'm back with the low-down on off-campus activities. So without further delay here we go.

The Bangor Auditorium will be hosting the high school basketball tournaments from February 19th to the 24th. Games begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 11 p.m. Call 941-9711 for ticket information and specific game times.

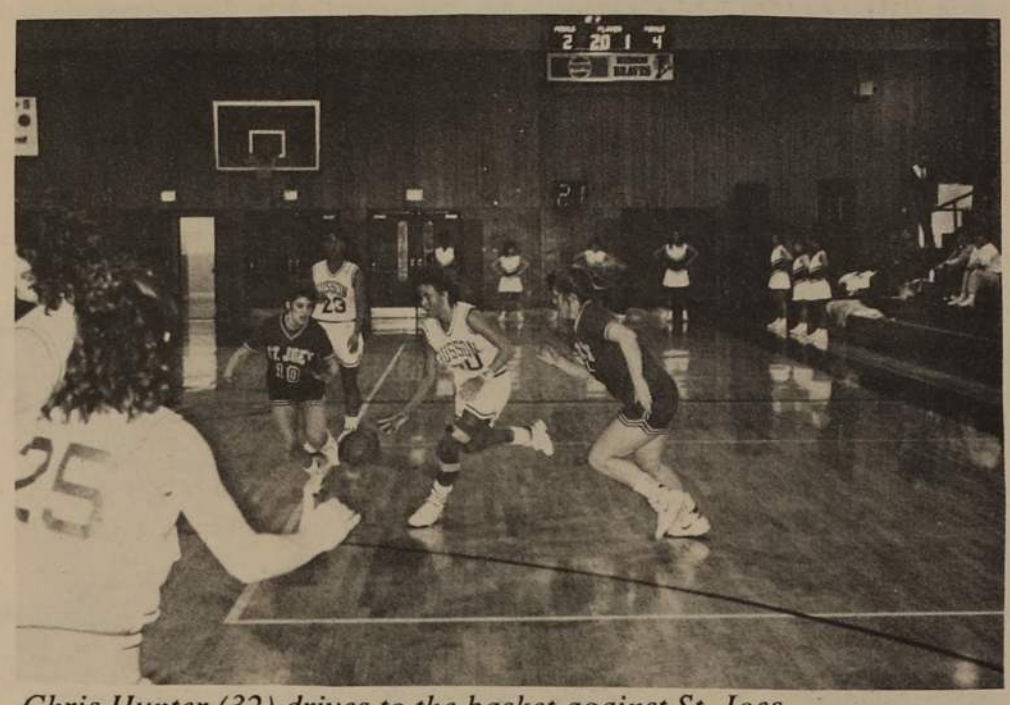

The Maine Center for the Arts is presenting the Theatre of the Enchanted Forest on February 19th. West Side Story will be showing from February 22 - 25, and also on the 25th the Peking Acrobats will be performing. Call 581-1755 for tickets and information.

Finally, if none of that piqued your interest, the scoop on the movie situation is listed below.

Well, that's it for this week. If anybody out there knows of some other activities that students might be interested in, just drop a note in box 557 or talk to me in person. Thanks. See you next week!

Lady Braves Win Against Colby

by Stephen Novak

Couldn't get more exciting then it got last Friday in a Battle between Husson's Lady Braves and the Colby Whitemules. All you had to do was look at the final score and listen to the group of students who stayed the weekend.

Sharon Siebert was once again the go to person for Husson, which was undersized against Colby on the boards yet controlled the glass on both ends of the floor.

At the beginning, the way both teams were running, it looked as if it would be a high-scoring affair but due to missed lay-ups, shots in and out, and turnovers, the score at the 15 minute mark was 5-3 in favor of Colby.

After two quick fouls on Sharon and being down 10-5, Husson started a run with 12 and a half minutes left in the first half on a Jill MacGregor's lay-up, two foul shots by Chris Hunter, and Sharon's two baskets to go along with a foul shot to put Husson up by 4 points(14-10).

The lead didn't last long with both Jill MacGregor and Sharon commiting their third foul. Colby could now use their height advantage to tie the game at 19 a peice on a Elizabeth Cimino lay-up with less then 3 minutes to play in the first half.

Chris Hunter took control of the situation, scoring 5 of Husson's last 7 points with Pam Diaz-Rubin sticking a lay-up with 34 seconds left, giving Husson a 24-19 halftime lead.

Coming out in the second half, it looked as if it would be the same as in the first 20 minutes. No one scored in the first 1:34 but more importantly Jill picked up her 4th foul and Kristi Wildman got her 3rd.

Sue Lea started things off for Husson with a jumper from the baseline for her first points of the game. Pam, playing in place of Jill, continued to hit big shots by nailing a shot from the left baseline and a lay-up surrounded by shots from Chris and Sharon to give the Lady Braves a 37-21 lead and allowing Colby to score only 2 points in the first 5 minutes.

Colby's Clare Deangelis scored 4 straight points after Husson committed two quick turnovers, but Husson came back to match it with a basket from Sharon and 2 foul shots by Kristi to keep the lead at 16.

Husson had trouble protecting the lead when Kristi picked up her 4th foul. Colby started cutting into the lead and on a Kim Derrington basket brought the lead down to 10(43-33).

Once again Chris took control by scoring Husson's next 5 points to bring the lead up to 15 at the 7:46 mark.

Colby then ran off 8 straight points in a span of 1:46, cutting the lead to 7(48-41), but Chris answered with a coast to coast lay-up followed by a Sue Lea jumper to bring the lead up to 11 points.

Sharon kept the lead safe by scoring 5 points while Derrington was scoring Colby"s next 8 points to whittle the lead down to 6 with 1:24 left.

To ice the important victory, Husson made 7 of their last 8 foul shots to win a very physical game by a score of 66-55.

Things weren't as pleasant for the Braves and their fans after that. Thomas mounted a spurt of their own, outscoring Husson 18-4 with Victor Padolko scoring 10 of his 22 points in the run, forcing the Braves to take a time out with only a 30-28 lead.

After the timeout, Thomas scored on a Mark Stubbs lay-up to tie the game at 30 and at one point Thomas was up by 4 points(36-32). At the 2:22 mark Buster hit a foul shot to finish a three-point play to give Husson the lead, only to lose it 30 seconds later. Bobby Campbell's foul shots reclaimed the lead, for Husson along with a shot each from Mitch and Scott Nance to give the Braves a 44-40 halftime lead.

Second half has been the strong half for Husson of late but Thomas came out and scored first to cut the lead to 2 on a McShan shot. But one man can't do it all against Husson.

Mitch erupted for 8 points in the first 4 minutes of the second half, including a pretty reverse lay-up. Tough defense led by Scott led to a steal for him and 2 points. The always-hard-to-get "10 second violation" resulted in 2 points for Mitch, giving the Braves a 57-44 lead.

The Braves weren't finished yet; Buster took charge in the middle of another 8-0 run, along with one taken by Mark Stillwagon, to keep Thomas' offense shocked.

Husson's defense was suffocating Thomas, allowing only 13 points to be scored in the first 10 minutes of the half while Husson scored 29. The Braves had their largest lead yet with a 73-53 score.

Everyone was going to score in this affair, especially in the last 10 minutes. It was probably the most exciting 10 minutes of the game where everyone got in the scoring column and expanded on the lead.

With some starters still in and Mitch fouling out with 3 minutes left, Coach MacGregor began to empty the bench. Everyone on the bench scored in that time frame except for Gerad Good who did not play. Phil Dominguiz led the way with 9 points on 3-3 shooting from three-point range, Herbie Melanson added his own 3-pointer along with two foul shots, Jeff Shakoor added 4 points with a lay-up and a power dunk from the baseline and Paul Sullivan closed the game with a 3-point play with 3 seconds remaining to give Husson a powerful 112-78 win.

Mitch led the Braves with 20 points and 9 rebounds, Buster who had 13 at halftime ended up with 19 points and 8 rebounds. The three musketeers, Bobby, Kone and Scott, had 14,13, and 11 respectively.

Thomas's Frank McShan and Victor Padolko shared the honors of high scorers with 22 points each and Steve Freeman helped in a losing effort with 10 points.
