BOMB SCARE HITS HUSSON

Peabody Hall at 11:35

Career Planning in Operation

On Friday, November 6 at 9:35 a.m.; an unknown male voice called Husson College and stated:"You listen and listen good. A bomb will go off at 11:35." At this point, the unknown caller hung up. According to Brenda Clark, the switchboard operator who received the call; "The voice did not sound like a younger person."

With just two hours before the threat would be realized, the Husson Administration called an emergency meeting. Miss Priscilla Clark headed the meeting which decided not to take any chances with the physical safety of the student body All classes were cancelled at 10:45 a.m. and students were ordered to leave the immediate vicinity of all campus buildings.

A holiday atmosphere seemed to pervade the student body.

They seemed to take the whole thing in stride although many took the precaution of removing valuable belongings from their room. Many others accepted the opportunity to go to a local pub or head for home early this weekend. There was no panic and the proctors led the students in an efficient and orderly evacuation.

The Spectator staff, Dean Foss, and Mr. Seligman remained on campus awaiting the threatened explosion; but none came to pass. As a further precaution, the dorms remained closed until 2:30 and the administration building was closed all day.

Due to the cooperation of students, proctors, and faculty, the emergency measures were carried off without any difficulties.

Dr. Kibarian has announced a new office for career planning and counseling under the direction of Mr. James Wright. "The concept," according to Mr. Wright, "is to provide every type of assistance to individual students from the attainment of information to the solving of career oriented and even psychiatric assistance if needed."

Under the new system the student should be able to receive help at all levels from the organized aid of his peers to the assistance of a psychiatrist, if needed; this will include personal counseling (medical, dental, legal, psychological, and spiritual problems,) vocational counseling, and institutional research with students.

The center has professional associations with St. Joseph Hospital and the Bangor Counseling Center for the referral of students. A registered nurse will be hired Feb. 1, 1971 and there is every possibility that a dental hygienist will be engaged next semester. In additon to these staff members, Mr. Wright has put together the following team:

Consulting Psychiatrist
- Dr. John Ordway

Consulting Medical Doctor
- Dr. Edward Babcock

Consulting Psychologist
- Mr. Allan Galnville

Psychologist
- Mr. E. Charles Dartnell
- Mr. Lambros Karris

Sociologist
- Mr. Gordon Halpern

Vocational Counselor
- Mr. James Wright

Religious Counselors
- Rev. E. Charles Dartnell
- Father Real Nadeau
- Rabbi Gerald Chirnomous

Legal Counselor
- Dr. Bruce Gillaspey

Faculty Counselors
- Mrs. Caroline Banasiak
- Mr. John Crawford

- Mr. Wayne Ingalls
- Mr. William Read
- Mrs. Pauline Saba

Student (peer) Counselors

The new offices are located in F169 and 170. Space is provided there for testing, campus interviewings, office personnel, and a soundproof room for counseling. Rooms will be provided for the infirmary in Bell Hall opposite Mr. and Mrs. Parreau's apartment.

There is an open invitation to all students to visit the Career Planning and Counseling office at any time.

STUDENT RAP

Letters To The Editor

Ed. note:
Following the decision of the Publications Committee, we are printing the two letters that were received by the Spectator office.

by Don Littlefield

As a member of the Student Senate for the past 2 years, I would like to protest in the most vigorous way the actions of the Student Senate President. It is my opinion, and mine alone, that the President should be censured for his administration of Senate activities to date.

By acting as President of the senate and also as Chairman of the Radio Station, I feel that there is a definite conflict of interests. Upon his election as President of the senate I feel that it was incumbent upon him to have relinquished his duties as Chairman of the Radio Station. It would appear that we have a "man on horseback" bent on self-gratification rather than unification of an already divided senate. I say this because of the Presidents utter disregard and contempt for members of the senate as expressed by him in recent meetings and his failure to exercise, fairly, due parliamentary procedure. It has been most apparent that the President does not want to relinquish his chair in order to state his personal views but uses his chair as a means to discourage adverse comment.

There have been instances when the President has questioned the integrity of another senator in open meeting. This disregard for other senators cannot be tolerated in a deliberative body.

In closing, the duties of the President according to the Senate constitution and Roberts Rules of Order are that the President shall conduct discussion impartially and fairly. "There is nothing to justify the unfortunate habit some chairman have of constantly speaking on question before the assembly, even interrupting the member who has the floor. One who expects to take an active part in debate should never accept the chair. . .The presiding officer of a large assembly should never be chosen for any reason except his ability to preside. He should set an example of courtesy, and should never forget that to control others it is necessary to control one's self."[1]

Dave Kimel

When I took the office of President of Student Senate I expected to be making a few enemies. It's often necessary to make others unhappy when assuming a role of responsibility. I have made some enemies this year. It's unfortunate but inavoidable. Happily I've made many friends also but that's not what this article is about.[

As published in an article which appears in this paper, one of the Senators feels that I "should be censured for his (my) administration of Senate activities to date."

This article is in answer to the changes made by one Senator, Don Littlefield. Also I hope to explain a few things about myself to you, the students I represent.

The first change is "conflict of interests." It is the opinion of Don that I should have resigned as Chairman of the Radio Station when I took office of President. I can say only this. At the first Senate meeting over which I presided I sought to resign from my chairmanship. Because there were no Senaters interested in either volunteering for or accepting appointment to this chairmanship I agreed to act as chairman until another Senator could and would take over. This was done on Oct. 28, 1970 at the new Radio Station Committee's meeting. The new chairman is Mike Seeds.

The next charge, that of being "bent on self-gratification." I admit to and agree with 100%. The President of the Senate receives neither a salary nor compensations of any other kind (scholarship, etc.) for his work as Student Senate President.

Yes I find working long hours, having a fall in point average, attending an average of up to 12 hours per week in meetings, having time for my 3 daily meals at 6 p.m., 9 p.m., and 12 midnight. spending personal funds for travel and other expenses on Senate business, and being awakened or interrupted from social activities to attend to a problem of a student all very self-gratifying. It gratifies me to feel I am doing my best to better both the senate and the school. I'm proud to admit that self-gratification is the one ultimate thing which motiviates me to do as I am doing.

The charge by the Senator that the senate is already divided is an unfortunate one. I don't agree with him, however, it is obvious that the article he has written could do nothing but make the Senate look divided. It may, if carried far enough, even divide the Senate.

To the charges of "utter disregard and contempt for members" of the senate. . .and. . .failure to exercise fairly due parliamentary procedure." I can only ask for an example. I regret that I may have displeased some senators by asking them not to interupt meetings with talk amongst themselves. I will continue to demand order at all meetings over which I preside.

Since it seems to be "in" to quote R. R. of Order I will answer the next charge with this quote: He is allowed "therefore, to state matters of fact within his knowledge; to inform the assembly on points or order or the course of proceeding, when called upon for that purpose, or when he finds it necessary to do so."[1] Also I might state that any other remarks made by me were in answer to questions directed to me and there was never any intent to answer in such a way as to do anything but present facts.

I do not recall ever having questioned the integrity of any Senator in any meeting, and feel it senseless to even answer this charge unless a specific case can be presented.

In answer to the closing quotes, I must say that by taking a portion of a paragraph from R.R. there are bound to be a number of clarifying statements missed regarding that quote. I feel the quote I have presented is a prime example of this.

It is unfortunate when one person attempts to block prayers regardless of the result.

I don't object that any questions about me be made publicly. I only can hope that any further accusations about the integrity of any person be based on facts and presented in either private or open debate between the accuser and the accused.

EDITORIAL

Husson College is finally on the map, it had it's first bomb scare. This event caused a moment of anxiety and an afternoon of relaxed living. No one expected that it could ever have been real.

This "it can't happen here" attitude has been generated by the recent rash of bombings nation wide. The revolutionary factions that are at the base of this, usually follow the pattern of bombing federal projects and/or areas where a large amount of federal subsidy has taken place. Husson College, although it has been given grants by the federal government, is not under any contract for work on any type of project. Therefore, a bombing would have little or no political significance.

The idea of the bomb threat is one that has been used in the past few years. It is a very good disruptive tactic with little chance of being caught. It can paralyze an area without even getting near it since all threats must be acted upon.

Now that Husson has lived throught the bomb threat, let's hope it doesn't happen again. The chance is small, but will always be with us, that accident or injury could happen to any member of our campus community. Remember that a person's response will decrease, like crying wolf too many times, and if it ever did happen, then we would possibly have a sad scene on our hands.

Anyone for a Drink?

The students' struggle to make Husson campus wet certainly took a long time to materialize. One thing the students should be commended upon is that they were patient but seriously eager to see their dreams come true. After long last it did. I see 2 factors that contributed to this reality. One is the student senate determination to fulfil its commitment. The Senators took a positive approach. Although the democratic process was decorated with ups and downs, there was hardly any time the student spirit was low. Along with this was the President's liberal mindedness. I think his sincerity to the students problems, his aspiration to serve the students and his overall dedication to the college in general made him do what he did. These 3 nouns, sincerity, aspiration and dedication should be kept in mind whenever students sit down to drink or talk with their girl/boy friends in their rooms, bearing in mind that it cost their counterparts a lot of time and frustrating debates to achieve what they now have in their rooms. Let them not have alcohol overwhelm them, rather they should overwhelm it. Only then can they prove to the world that the young people at the college can be equally responsible and run their own affairs with little or no control. This would be a practical thing to demonstrate that age barrier to responsibility is a thing of the past, and that the students, like anybody else, can be as responsible as could feasibly be.

There were, of course, fears and doubts on the first day of wet campus. Some students were at least expecting some uncontrolled reactions resulting from dormitory alcohol consumption.

Maine and its people are the subject of a commemorative exhibition of work by one of the state's most renowned photographers, Kosti Ruohomaa, which will be displayed at Husson beginning Tuesday.

The month-long exhibit of more than 50 photographs is on a statewide tour under the sponsorship of the Maine State Commission on the Arts and the Humanities.

A native of Quincy, Mass., Ruohomaa came to Maine as a small boy. He graduated from Rockland High School and studies art in Boston, where he remained for several years working as a commercial artist.

During a later stint as an animator for the Walt Disney studios in Calif., Ruohomaa took up photography as a hobby. Under the ageis of Black Star Agency he worked for Life and other national magazines for two decades.

JAMES GANG

Approximately 2500 people swarmed into the Husson College gymnasium on Novmeber 7, to enjoy the dual concert put on by the Husson Entertainment Committee. The Swallow opened the evening with a combination of groovy brass and the wailing blues of their blind vocalist. They were a little slow in getting started but the capacity crowd entertained themselves with balloons and a flying Frisbee. The Swallow didn't take long to get them wound up however. After two hours of blues and jazz, the crowd was on their feet refusing to let the group leave the stage.

Then came the incredible James Gang with the heaviest, hardest rock sound ever to scramble the senses. Many found it hard to believe that a sound that heavy could come from two guitars and a drum. It may have proved too heavy for some, as the crowd started to thin out; but for those who dig that kind of music, it was truly tremendous.

The stands were packed and the floor was covered. The spectators were mostly non-Husson, but they obviously enjoyed the show. Clapping hands and dancing with the music seemed to be the thing to do. The Swallow asked the crowd to "get with it and join in" and they certainly did.

"You are welcome anytime," he said. I turned around and asked him what he had. He showed me several beer cans and two bottles of liquor of different brands - properly and carefully arranged in his bookshelves. My reaction was this:

"My goodness, are you going to drink all that?" I said.

"Oh no, not right now," he said.

"How come? By the time you finish that you will have blown up your brains, won't you?" I said.

He did not have time to reply as one boy immediately broke the conversation. I later found out that the boy doesn't drink that much anyway. But now that keeping and possessing liquor was permitted, he, like other boys, wanted to decorate his bookshelves with various kinds of liquors. There is one thing I did not find out. I did not know whether it was his intention from then on to replace all the books in the shelves with beer cans and liquor bottles. It remains a matter of speculation. It can go anyway he desires.

There was yet another noticeable fact on the first day of wet campus. Before the new pariental hours went into effect, it was almost natural for some boys to go half naked when they were going to take a bath. It might not have been a 100% compliance, but I did not see that practice that day. The boys were not sloppy anymore, they knew who were around the hallways. I presume the girls must have taken the same precautions, knowing that they were not alone. The goats had been mixed with leopards goes an African saying or there were wolves amongst the sheep, perhaps another way of saying the same thing.

In our dormitory there was relatively heavy traffic of girls to and from the boys room. So much so that one could sporadically hear girls giggling acorss the hallway in an opposite room. Such high tone with beautiful voices makes music to the ear of man. What kind of voices the men were making in the girls rooms is not the subject of this paragraph. I could not be in 2 places to give my comparative description. Whether the traffic of men to the girls rooms was also heavy is anybody's guess. The reaction of girls regarding boys loitering in their hallways can only be expressed by girls. I don't want to put myself in their places. I might make a poor spokesman of their own affairs. so let them speak, I will keep cool.

One student feared that the young kids, not old enough to drink, would use the privilege to drink hard and tear themselves to pieces or disturb others to say the least. Much to their surprise, the first day went unnoticed, it was generally quiet and no misbehaving; at least not that I heard of. I believe this is what should happen. Maybe the more you have, the more you will be given.

The girls had a unique way of thanking the President. In the top floor of their dormitory wing facing the Dickerman Commons, they wrote in big capital letters the following: Kibarian Freed Us! Thanks. There could not be any more appropriate way of thanking the President than that. That in itself was attractive enough to capture the eyes of the Bangor Daily News reporter. He must have been impressed by it as he had two girls point at the capital letters as he took a snapshot. The girls were cheerful. I am sure they will have many more happy days to come. Some boys in the dormitory did something that escaped the public eye. Upon entering a room, I was asked by one of the boys if I wanted a drink. To respond to his question, I naturally thanked him for the offer and told him that I was going to do some work. He appropriately responded with an American business cliche that goes like this:

These new policies, making Husson wet campus couldn't be released at a more appropriate time than Wed., Oct. 14. The idea of wetness in campus was blessed and approved by nature. Those who will violate or disrespect the new policies would perhaps be against nature. You won't want to do that, would you? Take a look, snow and man are both products of nature and they have been living side by side peacefully, perhaps since the dawn of history.

Whatever happened or did not happen, the first day of wet campus was like any other day. If the implementation of the new policies would have no major obstacles, then a nice social pattern could be anticipated. If that were to be the case, the student's achievements would perhaps be dearly respected by those in authority. Should the reverse happen, the administration might most certainly have a watchful and critical eye and even take a new look. We want the former condition to happen not the latter. So make your experiement work.

HASA

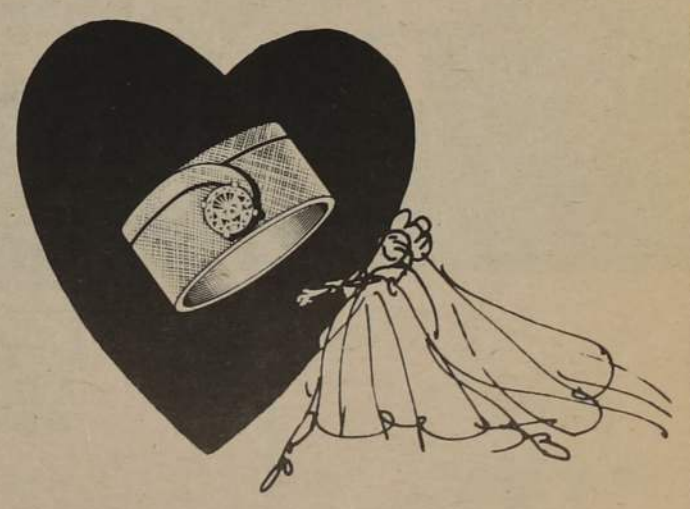

HASA speaks (so you'd all damned better well listen!) It is once again time to bring you up to date with what our organization is up to. But since our organization is extremely secretive, there really isn't much we can tell you!

We were going to inform you of the stag party we had for a certain member of HASA, but it seems that word of it has been spread quite adequately by some of the girls on the 6th level of Carlisle! So I guess there is really no need to inform you of it. He would like to express his sincere thanks to all the girls who have been sending him cards, letters, and invitations to negotiate. Although he cannot consider any of them, he would like to thank you girls for your thoughtfulness and possibly refer you to other members of the organization. The chairman of our news release department, Alan Rabideau, has authorized the release of this photograph. This picture was taken last year at HASA's initiation ceremony, where Peat Diller became a full pledged member of HASA. Shown in the picture are left to right: Lewis Jackson (former president of HSSA and presently a delegate of HASA in Aspen, Colorado,) Peat Diller (Sargent at Arms), and Patrick Carney (president of HASA.) That's all for now. See you next week.

New Blood

by Joan Weinstein

Husson College has added a Certified Public Accountant to its list of faculty, that we at the Spectator refer to as New Blood, Mr. Wayne Ingalls of Ellsworth. Mr. Ingalls now resides with his wife in Bangor.

Some of you might find Mr. Ingalls face familiar, that is because he graduated from Husson College in 1967 as an accounting major. He transferred from Washington State in Feb. of '65. After graduating from Husson, Mr. Ingalls received his Masters of Business Administration at the University of Wisconsin in Sept. of '68. Next Mr. Ingalls was employed by Peat, Marwick and Co. in Portland's main office. This firm is quite large, having offices in most states and approximately 50 foreigh countries. Between the time Mr. Ingalls received his Masters of Business Administration, and teaching at Husson, he passed the CPA examination, and teaching at Husson, he passed the CPA examination in Nov. of '68 and was awarded his certificate in Nov. of '69. As I mentioned before, Mr. Ingalls is a graduate of Husson, but never attended classes on the new campus. His class was the last one at the old school. But he feels that there's still a lot of the old school spirit around. Some of the old school is here, in regards to the students. He also liked the old school a lot. Mr. Ingalls is kept busy by being on the Student Affairs Committee and the Scholarship Committee. He also has some of his own ideas that he would like to see take place at Husson to change the cirriculum. Here are two examples: An internship program for Accounting majors to work in the summer with accounting firms to gain an insight of what's expected of you and what is happening on the outside. Also to have students work with professors, like teacher assistants in accounting principle classes, both inside and outside of the classroom. Maybe one of these inner desires of Mr. Ingall's will one day take place at Husson College.

When I mentioned to him that his second idea was similar to the professors in resident, he told me that his own students had asked him to come over to the dorms one night to help them with an accounting problem before the resident idea ever happened. He is more than willing to help his students outside of the classroom as long as a time and place is set up.

He did verify the fact that there are few women in the accounting profession. But, there are more females now than there were a few years back. This could have something to do with Women's Liberation.

Mr. Ingalls did say that from his 2 years of experience of accounting, women do just as good a job as men and in fact get compensated just as well as men. You are encouraged to get your CPA by either a raise in pay, or other types of rewards. To get into Management you also need to be a Certified Public Accountant. Need any help in accounting anyone. Mr. Ingalls is ready and willing to help you along.

GREEKS

KAPPA Korner

As is the policy of Kappa's publicity committee each week we attempt to bring to the students at Husson some new aspect of the workings of Kappa Delta Phi.

This week we would like to explain more completely our student services. Kappa is proud of the fact that it is the only organization on campus that has 2 permanent student service projects in operation. Our Kappa Newstand began operation in 1968. Since this time we have expanded in all areas of sales, and we plan many future sales innovations and expanded inventory for the students. The brothers keep this newstand open six hrs. a day, five days a week, giving all Husson students a choice of magazines, and a good buy on all name brand cigarettes.

Kappa Delta Phi also picked up the delivery franchise for the Bangor Daily News from Tom Peryea, and our business is expanding each week. We appreci ate the patronage of the dorm students and their cooperation in our early stages of organization. We appreciate the commuter business in the Wigwam, also. These services are a permanent part of Kappa's program to assist the college and community throughout the school year. The brothers put in many long hours and work into these services and we sincerely hope the students keep up their patronage!

Another service that we feel is an important part of Kappa this year is our attempts to change the outdated pledge orogram at Husson, and improve overall fraternal relations. Two weeks ago the Kappa representatives to the Greek Council presented their proposed pledge program for the coming year. We gave all other fraternities copies and we sincerely hope that all fraternities encourage the acceptance of this proposal. As TKE pointed out in last weeks paper, all fraternities feel that a change is necessary if the fraternities on campus are going to expand. The brothers of Kappa Delta Phi feel that Kappa's proposal is worthwhile, and can solve most of the pledging problems that have arisen over the past few years.

That's it for this week we hope you enjoyed last weekend's party, and we'll be having another one real soon.

TeKE Talks

The weekend of October 30, brothers and pledges from Gorham State came up for a little get together. The highlight of the weekend was on Saturday when over 100 people spent the day at Mr. Jack Slomback's house. The party-picnic started at 11:00 a.m. with football, food beer, and music and finished with a party in the house, which finally ended at 11:30 p.m. Everyone had a great time and all the brothers would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Slomback for having us there for the day. How about another party next week Mr. Slomback?

TKE on the National Scene! 110 of 298 TKE chapters are rated number 1 on their campus. (over 1/3 of the chapters). This was just released by the National Interfraternity Conference. There are TKE chapters in 47 states. TKE is the first fraternity to be represented off the continent; now that the University of Hawaii is an official affiliate of TKE. TKE offers free placement service TKE's placement service soares with over 650 companies across the nation. Terry Bradshaw, number one pro-football draft, is a TKE from Lousiana Tech. The top TeKE chapter this year is at Setan Hall University. TKE is active!

P.S. Who will wear the "TKE TROLL" first–YOU?

TKE's Zooba Cunningham runs against Kappa in intra-fraternal playoff football game

ETE

Congratulations to our brothers of MEX for the triumph in the intramural and intrafraternal football championships. The girls were there to cheer them on and they payed us back by putting on one wonderful game. We would also like to congratulate the brothers of TKE for the great game they played.

The sisters first welcomed all prospective pledges to the ETE floor last Wednesday night. We were very happy to see so many turn out. We all had a good time with pictures and music. Tonight will be the first formal rush meeting.

All girls interested in joining the Epsilon Tau Epsilon chapter of Pi Rho Zeta International, please come to the formal meeting tonight in the faculty dining commons at 7:00. This is a chance to meet each other. If you are endecided at to whether you want to join or not, this is your opportunity to get a first-hand glance at what sorority life can mean to you. We would like to meet you. We think that you would appreciate the kind of social, academic and personal life that a sister of ETE is part of; try it and see for yourself.

MEX

The boys are happt this week–they're also a little sore–but, no matter, for every bruise, there's a dozen smiles. MEX won the intramural and intrafraternal football championships, and we don't mind patting ourselves on the back for it. We'd also like to pat some other people's backs too. The Animals are without a doubt the best pack of football players we've met this year. We were really fired up for that game, and we believe that this is the only reason we beat you. You were tough, aggresive, and damned skillfull in the game of football, but a few lucky breaks and a whole lot of determination gave us the game and the championship. We are very proud of ourselves and our team for having won, but we are also very ready and willing to say that we weren't betting any money on it, and we wouldn't if we ever met again.

TKE–you really came on strong. Congratulations on the very fine and very hard game you gave us on Sunday. We actually never expected that tight a game, but you weren't long in convincing us that you were tough, aggresive and just simply fired up to the limit. We'd like to give special credit to Steve Kurlan, Joe Fondecaro, Tom Tierney and Mike Pichetola for the hard-nosed defense that they showed. That is the only time this year that anyone has been successful at stopping our quarterback, Beaver.

Special thanks goes to our sisters of ETE for they support they showed in cheering us on. It really meant a lot and we thank you for it.

MEX Football Wins Championships

MEX TAKES INTERMURAL AND INTRAFRATERNAL TITLES

The MEX football squad, barely reaching the playoff games with a mediocre 2-2-1 record, finished up the season in grand style today be defeating TKE for the intrafraternal championship in one of the closest and toughest ball games of the year. One week ago, MEX also took the intramural championship by defeating the Animals in another close thriller. The MEX team had to take five victories in a row to pull off this dual championship feat.

Sunday afternoon at Broadway park was the place to be if you wanted to see some real rough-tough thrill-packed football. The TKE ball club, still smarting from a close defeat the week before, went onto the field for revenge and damn near got it. The regular ball game was scoreless as the TKE defense, led by Steve Kurlan, Joe Fondacaro, Greg Marshall, and Mike(P.R.) Pichetola, stopped the high-scoring ground game of MEX. Gary Toper and Tom Tierney were standout players on pass-defense.

The game was over and the score was 0-0. The teams went for a sudden-death, 10 minute extra period, and a long bomb from MEX quarterback, Beaver Bednarski, sailed through heavy traffic into the arms of half-back Tim Tyler for the only six points of the game. All the rest was hard-nosed defense. At two different times MEX battled to within scoring distance of the TKE goal, but both times, the TKE defense held for four downs and took the ball away. MEX retaliated by holding the TKE offense scoreless through two similar situations. Standouts for the MEX defensive club were the front four comprised of Bob Lozier, Greg Cataldo, Miff Dow, and Ron Soucie. George Gendron also did a tremendous job as defensive lineman in his first game of the year. Together, these five men kept constant pressure on the TKE offense, led by Jim "Zooba" Cunningham. Jim later stated that Ron Soucie deserves special credit for the tremendous rush that he constantly applied.

Mike McPhee and Paul LePage also come through on pass defense with five interceptions that stopped TKE scoring drives. Last week, MEX also defeated the Animals for the intramural championship. The Animals were previously undefeated and the MEX club all agreed that deserved to be so. "Man, I'm glad that's over," said Beaver Bednarski, "I sure don't want to play those guys again." The score was 13-12 and the outcome was never certain until the last gun. The MEX front four again did a tremendous job, but the offense came through with two touchdowns and that all-important extra point, a pass from Tim Tyler to Ed Hemingsen.

The animals put together a great team effort led by Jim Arnau on offense and Charlie Greer on defense but just couldn't pull it out. Jim Arnau carried the ball over the MEX goal twice but that extra point made the difference.

During the playoff games, Kappa fought hard but bowed out to TKE by the score of 12-0. Cunningham and Marshall scored for TKE. MEX defeated Phi by the score of 26-2 with Beaver Bednarski, Ed Hemingsen, Tim Tyler, and Mike McPherson all scoring against a very game but out-sized Phi club.

If this year's intramural and intra-fraternal sports spirit is any indication of what to expect in the future; you can all depend on a lot of excitement to come. Don't miss it.

TKE WINS IN SOCCER FOR FOUR-WAY TIE

The TKE soccer team came through for all the soccer clubs on Thursday night by defeating first-place MEX in a run-away upset on the intramural soccer schedule. MEX had previously beaten Arsenault's Raiders to take first place. If they had beaten TKE Thursday night, they would have wrapped up the championship, but TKE wasn't hearing it.

The TKE soccer team, led by Tom Faiola, Greg Marshall, and Zooba Cunningham, completely overwhelmed the MEX team by a score of 14-4. The big upset lay in the fact that MEX had already beaten the TKE team one before, and that no more than five points had ever been previously scored against the outstanding MEX goalie, Ron Soucie.

This places all four teams in the Soccer lineup in a four-way tie for first place. There are only four teams on the schedule, and all of them have a 7-3 record. It has not yet been determined whether or not a play-off will be held.

Basketball Season Approaches

As winter sets in, so does the basketball season. You may still remember last year's wonder team which went as far as the N.A.I.A. and lost to Western New England.

Unfortunately, this year's team is composed of mostly transfer students, freshmen and one returning star, Dana Wilson. Coach McGregor believes that their inexperience will be remedied as the season progresses.

Last year's team displayed a strong defense with an overpowering offense. This year McGregor is depending on Dana Wilson, who averaged 17 points a game, and a strong defense. The coach also believes that this team is as fast or faster than any previous teams. Could this be?

It is going to seem funny without John Sinclair and Donnie Meyers playing but all good things must end. We, the students must be patient while Coach McGregor rebuilds a winning team.

A high point of the basketball season is the Paul Bunyan Tournament coming soon. As usual, Western New England will be the favorites due to the returning of the starting team and Ronnie Butler, little All-American.

Up-coming pre-season games this month:

Bates—Nov. 19 Away
Bowdin—Nov. 21 Home
Colby—Nov. 30 Home
