"Husson College: A History"

Published by

Louise B. Miller and William W. Cook

If you haven't met the co-author of Husson College: A History 1898-1983 like I hadn't when I telephoned her for an interview, then you better have someone who knows her prepare you for the experience!

When I called 80-year-old Louise B. Miller, I politely asked when it might be convenient for her to see me about the book.

"What time do you get up?" she asked.

"Oh, I'm up by 6 a.m.," I answered, quite proud of myself.

"Well then, five o'clock would be fine with me," she answered with delight, and the joke was on me!

Mrs. Louise B. Miller, who became an instructor at Husson in 1944 and functions now as a consultant to President Delmont N. Merrill '54, has a penchant for detail that will astonish you. This is immediately evident when you pick up the 324-page Husson history, which she and co-author William W. Cook published in May.

See coupon inside to order your copy of Husson College: A History 1898-1983

The book is dedicated to:
All students who, in an effort to make for a better way of life, entered the open door of Husson College - you number in the thousands!

It contains an overview of the College's history, from its 1898 opening as the Bangor branch of the Shaw Business College and School of Penmanship; through its move from the Bass Block on Hammond Street to the Adams Building on Columbia Street in 1925; to its change to the Maine School of Commerce's Bangor Branch in 1926 under the direction of Howard W. Mann; to its purchase in 1933 by a stock corporation and change to the Bangor Maine School of Commerce; to its eventual change to Husson College in 1935, under President Chesley H. "Chief" Husson, who remained such until his retirement in 1970.

In 1940, the proprietary school moved to 157 Park Street, the location of the fond memories of hundreds of alumni of "the hill." There it remained (becoming in 1961 an independent, nonprofit, private educational corporation) until 1968, when "Chief's" dream was realized and the school moved to its present facilities on 100 acres at One College Circle.

"Chief" holds a revered place in the hearts of many Maine School of Commerce and Husson College graduates. Said Mrs. Miller, "Within the time frame of doing research, this writer has visited with alumni of the 1920s, 1930s, 1940s, — yes, even the 1950s — whose fondest, most cherished memories are not of subject matter, classroom incidents, even instructors, but of the 'helping hand,' understanding attitude, and inspirational life that "Chief" Husson exercised."

Chapters on administration and governance, faculty, students, sports, programs of study and Husson College today have been painstakingly researched by Mrs. Miller and her collaborator, Bill Cook, former director for development, now also a consultant to President Merrill. Profiles of Clara L. Swan '33, who was appointed a Vice President in 1954, and Priscilla A. Clark '48, Acting Treasurer in 1956, are included, as are glimpses into the lives of hundreds of Husson's students, faculty, administrators and four presidents.

Photographs of the school's many locations, athletic teams, and early office equipment are this author's favorites.

Whether you are a graduate of Shaw Business School, the Maine Schools of Commerce, or Husson College, you'll want to read Husson College: A History. Even if your own name or picture is not in it, you'll recognize the faces of many of your school friends, and this trip down memory lane is a delightfully thorough one.

Dr. Grant Named Dean for Enrollment Management

Delmont N. Merrill, president of Husson College has announced the appointment of Philip C. Grant, Ph.D., to the position of dean for enrollment management. Grant will be responsible for designing systems to optimize the college's student recruitment and student retention rates. He will supervise the admissions, student life, financial aid, cooperative education, and placement divisions of the college.

"We are pleased to have someone with Dr. Grant's background," Merrill said. "Expertise in marketing and personal management are critical in this new position, which oversees student recruitment, student life, and student placement."

A professor of management at Husson since 1968, Grant's career includes experience as manager, teacher, writer, and consultant. His teaching has been concentrated in the field of operations management, organizational behavior, and human resources management. He has developed personal and production management course concentrations within Husson's business administration department curriculum, and has supervised several key institutional projects.

Grant is the former director of Husson's management institute, has been head of the business administration department, served as dean of the faculty, and, most recently, has served as the acting dean for academic affairs. He has also served the Maine Air National Guard as a Management Analyst.

Grant received his bachelor's degree in engineering physics and his MBA from the University of Maine, and received his doctorate in education administration from Walden University in Naples, Florida.

Philip C. Grant, Ph.D.

Grant's research has been focused on group decision processes, and on employee motivation/job performance. He has published more than sixty articles in professional journals.

Employee Motivation: Principles and Practices, Grant's most recent book, was published in 1984. How to Manage Employee Job Performances will be published in 1985-86, and a third title, Effective Supervising Practices, is under way.

Since 1973 he has been active as a consultant, concentrating in human resource management services and supervisory training programs. He is past president of the Supervisory Training Association of Maine. He has also headed the SBA's Small Business Institute program, which provides management counseling to small businesses. He is a member of the Academy of Management, the Active Corps of Executives, and the American Institute of Decision Sciences.

Broadcasting School Moves to Husson

The New England School of Broadcasting has moved to a new facility on the Husson College campus, according to George E. Wildey, President of NESB.

The move will allow the broadcasting students to live in the Husson dormitories and participate in student activities. In addition, the students will be able to spend more time in their "laboratory," the Husson College radio station, WHSN. NESB will assume the administrative duties of the radio station for Husson.

The New England School of Broadcasting (formerly located on Broadway in Bangor) offers a one-year evening program leading to a Certificate in Broadcasting. Students can concentrate their studies in one of four areas: radio or TV announcing, copywriting, sales, or TV and radio production. Although they have one strong interest, students must take the introductory course in every concentration because "the better you are in each broadcasting specialty, the more valuable you are to a radio or TV station," Wildey said.

The New England School of Broadcasting students have used the Husson College radio station for training for the past three years. The station, which has an adult, contemporary format, will continue to use volunteer and work-study students from Husson, in addition to the broadcasting students.

Husson President Delmont N. Merrill is pleased with the co-location agreement. "The New England School of Broadcasting will be utilizing some classroom space during the evening, and providing administration of our new radio station, as well as giving our interested students a chance to learn about broadcasting from a man with George Wildey's experience," he said.

The NESB program is unique in the U.S., according to Wildey. Being an evening program, most students are able to continue working full-time while they are NESB students. The program appeals to both high school graduates who want to learn a skill and go right out and do it and to people looking to change careers.

"We train broadcasters who can enter the field as announcers, salespeople or production crew members after our one-year program," says Wildey. "Half of our graduates have positions lined up before graduation. In addition, 60-75% of our graduates stay and work in Maine."

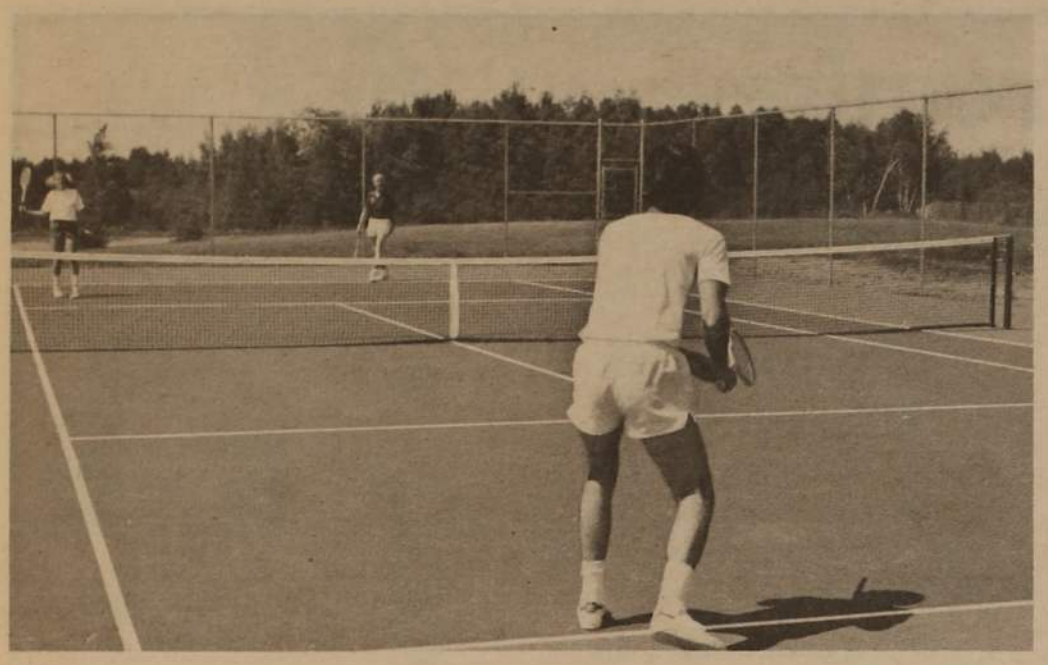

Sales is the field Wildey gets most of his employer inquiries about. "Broadcasters still holler every week for more advertising salespeople. For every one student I have in sales there are 10 jobs out there," Wildey said.

Wildey feels his students will have a more well-rounded educational experience at Husson's facilities. By sharing dormitory space with Husson students, Wildey's students will be able to get involved in campus activities, giving them the benefit of a full collegiate experience.

Employers are anxious to hire NESB graduates because they are technically well trained and talented. "They want the best trained person they can get for their money," said Wildey.

Service awards were presented to Husson College employees at a recent employee recognition banquet. Honored for more than twenty years of service were (l to r): Dr. Janet Kinney (27 years), Madalyn Jordan (24 years), former Mayor of Bangor Al Weymouth (21 years), Delores R. C. Renaud (22 years), and Gail Gross (26 years).

Raynald Martin '57 Named 1985 Maine Vocational Association Educator of the Year

Reprinted from the Maine Vocational Association annual meeting program.

Mr. Raynald Martin '57, business education teacher and department head at Brewer High School, has been named MVA's educator of the year for his 28 years of contributions to the business education field. He has taught in New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maine, and Rhode Island. His experience in Maine includes high school teaching in Presque Isle, Farmington, Bangor, Hermon, and his present position in Brewer.

Mr. Martin graduated from Husson College with a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Education. He continued his education at several universities: University of Maine at Orono, where he took courses in school administration; Boston University, where he received his Master's Degree in Business Education; Brown University, where he took a critic-teacher course; and finally, the University of Maine at Machias, where he participated in a word processing seminar. He has also attended BEAM workshops since 1972.

He has taught at Bound Brook High School in New Jersey, Farmington High School in Maine, Seekonk High School in Massachusetts, Portsmouth High School in Rhode Island, Hermon High School, and Brewer High School, both in Maine. He has been at Brewer High since 1973 and is now the head of the Business Department and supervisor of a seven-teacher staff.

Mr. Martin received first-hand experience in business by working as an office manager. His positions as a classroom teacher, department head, supervisor, organizer, and as an active member in educational associations have led him to becoming one of the top educators in Maine.

Raynald Martin has several professional affiliations. He is involved in the NEA, NBEA, MVA, EBEA, the New England BEA, the Maine Teachers Association, BEAM - in which he presently holds the office of President - and last but least, the Brewer Education Association, where he held office as treasurer from 1973 to 1979. He has also been a member of three visiting committees.

Mr. Martin jointly produced a brochure with associate Lynn Brooks which was used to publicize the Brewer High School Business Education Program. He produced a slide show which consists of 88 narrated-to-music slides of students placed in their jobs. It is used for parents' night, speaking engagements, and for showing to students interested in the Business Program and the Brewer Placement Program. He also formed an Advisory Committee to the Business Education Department at Brewer.

He is a benefit to his community as well. He served on the Southern Penobscot Vocational School Board from 1974 to 1981 — as Vice Chairperson for two years and Chairperson for one. He participates on teams for the Cursillo Movement of the Catholic Church, which consists of a group of layman and priests who conduct a three-day, short course weekend on Christianity.

The Maine Vocational Association and Mr. Martin's students and colleagues congratulate him for his tremendous accomplishments and for his well-deserved title as Educator of the Year for 1985.

Congratulations again!

1985 Class Gift

The graduating seniors of the Class of 1985 have donated a 50" wide color projection television to the school, according to the Development Office.

The $1500 unit, housed in the Arrowhead Lounge, was immediately popular, according to Julie Green, Student Activities Coordinator.

Thank you for your generous gift, Class of '85, one which will be enjoyed by many classes to come.

Canadian Studies Council Meets at Husson

Husson College hosted the Maine Council for Canadian Studies Conference on April 12-13, 1985. The events were co-chaired by Drs. Kenneth M. Johnson and Charles M. Sullivan, professors at Husson College. The Maine Council was formed in 1971 to promote and facilitate Canadian studies throughout the State of Maine. Dr. Johnson presently serves as the Council's Vice President and hosted this year's annual conference at the College.

Senator George Mitchell was the featured speaker for this event. Senator Mitchell used this occasion to unveil his proposal for establishing an International Joint Economic Commission. The Commission is designed to be an impartial international body whose membership will be equally composed of both Canadian and American representatives. Its major function will be to resolve Canadian/American border differences.

On Saturday, April 13, panel presentations and discussions on this year's theme — Canadian/American Business Opportunities — were chaired by Dr. Johnson. The panelists included Dr. James Wilson, Professor of Economics, University of Maine, Orono. Dr. Wilson was a participant at the World Court at the Hague and testified on behalf of the United States regarding the Gulf of Maine border dispute. The major focus of his presentation centered upon the Canadian/American fisheries question. Dr. Katherine Carter, Assistant Professor of Forest Resources at the University of Maine, Orono, presented a paper which addressed cross-border research, forest-related issues and opportunities. Ms. Carol-Ann Hall, Professor of Economics, University of Maine, Presque Isle, focused her presentation on potato import-related issues between Maine and Canada.

Dr. Gary Doberstyn Joins Administration

Gary J. Doberstyn, Ph.D.

Delmont N. Merrill, president of Husson College, has announced the appointment of Gary J. Doberstyn, Ph.D. to the position of dean for academic affairs for the college.

Doberstyn comes to Husson from Dyke College in Cleveland, OH, where he was vice president of academic affairs. His expertise includes curriculum and instructional planning for adult and experiential learners, and development of linkages between local business and industry for off-campus learning experiences. In addition, he has served as a planning consultant for Cleveland-area community colleges, hospitals, businesses, and industries since 1968.

"We are extremely pleased to have found a person with his areas of expertise, which are consonant with the future goals of Husson College," Merrill said. "He will bring a new perspective to the college, especially with his skills in developing relations between local businesses and educational institutions."

Before becoming academic vice president at Dyke in 1980, Doberstyn was dean of instruction for four years, and a tenured professor of management and organizational behavior. He also spent four years at the Air Force Institute of Technology's Systems Management Center in Dayton, OH as assistant director of academic support.

Doberstyn has bachelor's and master's degrees from Miami University in Oxford, OH, and received his doctorate in higher education administration from the University of Michigan in 1978.

He is the author of "Establishing New Alliances with Business and Industry: Threat or Promise?" published in "New Directions in Education and Work." He is an adjunct assistant professor in the graduate school of education at Cleveland State University.

Harry Greenfield '66 Invites Athletes To Homecoming '85!!

Where are all you former "jocks?" Where are our former Husson cheerleaders? Don't be bashful, let me and and Husson College know where you are, and what you are doing. Homecoming 1985 will be a great reunion for all athletes this year, as two new traditions will be started: induction of the first members of the Sports Hall of Fame, and "Coffee with the Coaches" on Saturday.

It has been 19 years since I saw or heard from many of my friends at Husson. I am counting on seeing a good turnout at Homecoming 1985. Since my letter earlier this year in the Husson "Ledger," I have heard from some of the guys.

Remember our fun-filled years in the mid 1960's?

How about those gals of our past like Carole Buker, Jean Pelletier, Jane Rodgers, Joyce Bryant, Silvia Rundlett, Carole Worden, Linda Ludden, Dale Hersey, and many more? Where are you? I'm sure many of you gals have since become mothers and raised kids or gone on to other successful careers. Time passes so fast. Bring the family and come to the Homecoming '85 party!!

Let's roll back the clock after all these years and meet at Husson in October! Many of us were foolish, immature, or partially crazy while in college, but didn't we have some of the greatest times of our lives! Let's be carefree once again on October 18-19, 1985.

Please drop me a note or call me to let me know who I can expect to see in October and any special requests you may have.

The following people haven't been heard from in a long while. Do you know where they are?

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of any of the listed names, please call them and tell them we are expecting to see them at Homecoming 1985.

I'll anxiously await hearing from you guys and gals; so I can plan accordingly. Please write me or call me and let me know where you are.

Special Commitment to Alumni of the 1940's

There are few people in the world like Hale Joy '41, and we're especially lucky to have him as a Husson alumnus. Hale and his wife, (Eleanor Libby Joy '41), have set out to make Homecoming '85 a special reunion for alumni of the 1940s.

Hale, retired editor and managing editor of The Ellsworth American, has written about 100 letters to alumni of the 40's, inviting them to join him and Eleanor and as many Maine School of Commerce alumni as he can find to attend Homecoming '85 on October 18 and 19.

Hale has had more than 70 responses so far, and expects to have many more.

Hale now works three days a week as assistant to James R. Wiggins, publisher of The Ellsworth American. Eleanor has retired after 30 years as a garage accountant and three years as office manager at Ellsworth High School.

Alumni of the 1940's who have not heard from Hale are encouraged to write to him at: Boggy Brook Road, Ellsworth, Maine 04605.

1985 Award Nominations Sought

Homecoming '85 will be held on October 18 and 19. As in the past, Husson's Alumni Association will honor individuals for professional excellence and outstanding achievements.

Two of the coveted awards are the Outstanding Alumnus Award and The Service Award. To qualify for the former, one must be a graduate of Husson College or its predecessor schools. In addition, this individual must have made a significant contribution to the well-being and perpetuation of Husson College and a significant accomplishment in the advancement of, or in the personal development of, this person's career (especially involving his/her degree specialty).

To be nominated for the Service Award, one need be an employee of Husson College (without restrictions in area, type or length of employment) and have made a significant contribution to the continuing development of Husson College. This person should also possess a known and demonstrated dedication to quality employment and cooperative involvement with students, staff, faculty, and administration.

Several Honorary Awards will also be presented. Traditionally, these have been awarded to non-alumni in the areas of Business Administration, Office Administration, Accounting, Business Education and Athletics in recognition of professional excellence. Each individual must have demonstrated in a dedicated and selfless manner his/her determination, involvement, concern, and faith in the ideals and goals of his/her profession and have made a significant contribution to the community.

This year, however, the field has been expanded to include alumni as well as non-alumni nominations. Nominations can be made from the traditional categories or from less traditional areas (such as the liberal arts).

Those making the nominations must be willing to include adequate documentation (such as a resumé) or be willing to submit these materials at a later date once the nomination has been confirmed.

All alumni are encouraged to respond. If anyone would like more information before making nominations, please contact the Alumni Office at Husson.

Twenty-First Century Fund to Kick-Off at Homecoming '85

Doug Brown, Chairman of the Board of Trustees

Homecoming 1985 will mark a very special point in the growth of Husson College, when the Twenty-first Century Fund capital campaign kicks off. Not since the new campus was constructed in 1968 has a project of this size been undertaken.

A capital campaign is not held every year and is a special project to raise funds for a very particular goal. In roughly three years, the Twenty-First Century Fund seeks to raise nearly $1.5 million for endowments, $500,000 to improve the physical plant, and $450,000 for the annual operating budget as well.

Thus Husson College is challenged to raise $2.5 million to ensure its future in private higher education. For nearly one hundred years, the College has played a major role in creating opportunities to build a better way of life.

The College last conducted a capital campaign in 1966 to raise $600,000 to help construct the new campus. Now, as a result of a comprehensive planning process, new needs of the College must be addressed. An endowment for student scholarships, professorships, and academic programs is a primary need. Capital improvements planned include renovations of student dormitories and improvements in some facilities. All of these projects are beyond the capacity of the current operating budget and beyond the scope of annual fund gifts.

President Merrill has emphasized the importance of an endowment, saying, "Building an endowment gives us the opportunity to shape positively the destiny of the institution. In a sense, it is a legacy upon which future generations can continue the progress which has already been made."

Douglas Brown, chairman of the board of trustees, has said, "An endowment is more than a catalyst to progress; it is the essence of stability in which excellence can flourish."

The College is ready to embark upon this campaign in large part because of its alumni. Today, Husson's 10,000 alumni are making significant contributions to business and professional communities across the nation.

From the first scenes of Maine's coastline to the memorable view of the ETE Bell Tower, you will learn about the long term needs of your alma mater and what those goals mean for future Husson students when you see the Twenty-First Century Fund videotape. Begun in late 1984, the project was photographed in the winter and early spring. The eleven-minute film outlines the capital campaign needs.

Taking a closer look at each of the three areas reveals the needs of the Twenty-First Century Fund Campaign.

The Endowment for Professional Development will help establish

—Endowed Professorships,
—Professional Development Funds for Faculty and Staff,
—Student Financial Aid.

stature of its speakers and entertainers. This portion of the collegiate program has brought diversity of thought and expression to students. Endowment income is also needed to support the Honors Program for gifted students who are attracted to Husson because of its excellent reputation as a leader in business and professional education. A final portion of this endowment will seek funds for the review and revision of curriculum and programs.

The Capital Improvements portion of the Twenty-First Century Fund will focus upon seven crucial areas of physical plant improvement.

—Library Expansion and Improvements
—Residence Halls Renovation
—Student Computer Center Expansion
—Renovations of Dickerman Dining Commons
—Energy Saving Projects
—Science Equipment for the Nursing Program
—Renovation of the Newman Gymnasium

"An endowed institution is able, through the income from its endowment, to undertake development activities which will eventually give it parity with some of the finest colleges and universities in the nation. We seek nothing less for Husson."

President Delmont N. Merrill

Endowed professorships allow an institution to recruit renowned teachers for its faculty. They, in turn, provide intellectual stimulation to the entire academic community. Endowment income is also needed to fund the professional development of faculty and staff members. Most important, however, is student aid. In recent years, external student financial aid funds have been diminishing, and it appears that they will not be restored in the foreseeable future. Deserving students need these funds to obtain the opportunity for a quality Husson education.

The Endowment for Academic Programs will strengthen several diverse needs of the College. Among them:

—Library Acquisitions,
—Cultural Events,
—Honors Program,
—Program and Curriculum Revision.

This area of endowment seeks to enrich the heart of the College, our library. Husson maintains collections in business, accounting, taxation, and the health professions, and we must increase the rate of acquisitions in these areas. Husson's cultural activities have been noteworthy because of the

The capital improvements portion of the Twenty-First Century Fund will bring needed improvements that operating funds cannot provide. Library renovations are required due to high student use of this component of the College. Residence halls are very heavily used year-round. Both the Dickerman Dining Commons and the Newman Gymnasium are facilities used extensively by the general public for recreation and social gatherings.

The Student Computer Center, one of the first of its kind in the late 1960's, needs to expand its physical space to encompass the latest technology in this rapidly-developing field. Husson's latest program, nursing, relies upon the latest technology for instruction. Now, for nursing students to acquire critical skills, more sophisticated equipment is essential to ensure a quality learning experience.

In the coming months and over the next year you will learn more about the Twenty-First Century Fund and how you can take part in this exciting new phase of Husson College growth.

Commencement '85

Senator George J. Mitchell, Husson President Delmont N. Merrill and Trustee Wilma Bradford Receive Honorary Degrees

Maine Senator George J. Mitchell was the graduation speaker at the Husson College commencement on Saturday, May 18.

The 86th commencement exercise for 250 degree candidates was held at 2 p.m. in Newman Gymnasium.

A native of Waterville, Mitchell was educated there and graduated from Bowdoin College in 1954. After two years of U. S. Army service in Germany, Mitchell attended Georgetown University law school, graduating in 1960.

As an attorney, Senator Mitchell has served as a trial lawyer for the U. S. Department of Justice, a partner in a Portland law firm, assistant county attorney for Cumberland County, as U. S. Attorney for Maine, and as a U. S. District Judge.

Now in his fifth year as U. S. Senator, Mitchell has been involved in a variety of national issues. He is a strong defender of environmental quality, and has been very active in the quest for a solution to the acid rain problem in Maine and the nation. He is also very interested in the preservation of relations between the U. S. and Canada.

Speaking recently to the Maine Council for Canadian Studies at Husson College, Mitchell discussed his sponsorship of a bill to establish a joint economic commission between Canada and the U. S. to monitor information about trade between the two countries. Because of the large quantity of trade with Canada, there are bound to be trade disputes, according to Mitchell, and a joint economic commission could provide both sides with accurate information more easily than either side can now provide. With his proposal, the commission could offer binding or non-binding arbitration in any trade disputes.

Mitchell's proposal won approval in the Senate but has not been approved by the House of Representatives. Mitchell plans to resubmit the bill.

Maine Senator George J. Mitchell, Husson trustee Wilma Bradford, and Husson President Delmont N. Merrill were honored with honorary doctoral degrees during the ceremony.

Mitchell received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree for his "years of dedicated service in the American political process and his energetic approach to the problems of international trade and the environment."

A native of Waterville, Mitchell is a graduate of Bowdoin College and Georgetown University law school. He has served as a trial lawyer in the U. S. Department of Justice, as Assistant County Attorney for Cumberland County, and as U. S. Attorney for Maine.

An active Democrat, Mitchell has served both as State Democratic Chairman and as a member of the Democratic National Committee. He actively pursues international trade and environmental quality issues that impact on Maine and the nation.

Wilma Additon Bradford, Bangor's "volunteer extraordinaire" received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree for her "selfless devotion to the welfare of others," and her "untiring efforts to make our community and state a better place to live."

Bradford, universally known as "Willie," was profiled in a 1984 Bangor Daily News story as "Willie the Wonder Woman," for her untiring volunteer efforts. In addition to her trustee positions for Husson and Westbrook College (her alma mater), she is also a trustee for Eastern Maine Medical Center, where she has volunteered more than 5,000 hours over and above her board of trustees duties.

Bradford's community work has included the presidency of many local and statewide organizations, including the Maine Lung Association, the Abnaki Girl Scout Council, the Bangor-Brewer TB and Health Association, and the Pine Tree Burn Foundation.

Willie is married to Merrill "Pappy" Bradford, a prominent Bangor attorney, and they have four children and nine grandchildren. They reside in Bangor.

Husson College President Delmont N. Merrill received an honorary Doctor of Business Administration degree from Chairman of the Board of Trustees Doug Brown.

Major accomplishments during Merrill's administration include the establishment of a baccalaureate nursing program in conjunction with Eastern Maine Medical Center, establishment of Husson's South Campus in Portland, and accreditation of Husson's Master of Science in Business program.

Merrill, Husson's fourth President, completed a 3-year Business Teacher Education program at Husson in 1948. After five years of high school teaching and coaching, he returned to Husson where he received his bachelor's degree in 1954. He remained at Husson as an instructor, rising to the rank of tenured professor and then later becoming Vice President for Administrative Affairs in 1973 and President in 1978.

Merrill did his graduate work at the University of Maine where he received both the Master of Education degree and the Certificate of Advance Graduate Studies.

Merrill has long been active in community affairs, serving as State Basketball Commissioner, President of the Maine Higher Education Council, a Director of the United Way, and chairman of a visiting committee to the Maine State Prison.

In the private business sector, Merrill has had wide experience as Vice President of Merrill's Blueberry Farms, Inc., director of several Hancock County businesses, and as a Trustee of the Brewer Savings Bank. He and his wife Betty reside in Brewer.

Peck's Bad Boy Now Katahdin's Pride and Joy

by Clara L. Swan '33

Loren Ritchie entered Husson College previous to his enlistment in the infantry division of the U.S. Army in the early 50's.

Returning to Husson College after his discharge in 1954, he earned a B.S. Degree in Business Administration and a minor in Finance, graduating in 1957. His first job in education was at Piscataquis County High School in Guilford, where he was instructor and assistant principal. In 1966, Ritchie served as supervisor of the Neighborhood Youth Corps for the State Department of Education. In September, 1968, Ritchie became principal of Warsaw High School in Pittsfield for a period of two years. From July, 1970, to September, 1975, Ritchie served as Director, Adult Education, M.S.A.D. #25 in Sherman Station.

In July, 1970, Ritchie started his "love affair" with Katahdin Area High School, as its newly appointed principal. He supervised the entire secondary program of studies and in 1975 became Director of Adult Vocational Education.

In July of 1976, Ritchie was awarded a Master of Education degree in Administration by UMO. He also has acquired 45 credit hours in history and government and participated in many adult education workshops.

Ritchie's success as a high school principal and administrator are evidenced by the following:

1. Katahdin High School's recognition as one of the Nation's leading educational institutions;
2. Recipient of the 2nd Annual Gerald Levasseur Memorial Award for Outstanding Services to Adult Education in the State of Maine;
3. President of Tri-County Association for Secondary School Principals, 1977-1980;
4. Chairman of 1st and subsequent Girl's Eastern Maine Basketball Tournaments;
5. His latest award is the Distinguished Achievement Award presented by UMO. Parts of the award are quoted below:

"The Distinguished Achievement Award is presented to a resident of the State of Maine or an alumnus of the University in recognition of their contributions to the University and the State. This year it goes to Loren H. Ritchie.

During his tenure, Katahdin High School was cited for excellence by the U. S. Department of Education in 1984 and has received two national citations for its environmental and career education programs. His ability to create an atmosphere in which all members of Katahdin High School cooperate in education is a key to the success that the high school has enjoyed.

In 1982-83, he served as state co-president of the Maine Association of Public School Adult Education.

Loren Ritchie has also been a key individual in the planning of the Conference on Raising Aspirations of Maine Youth and the conference follow-up efforts. His compassion and his understanding of rural Maine people have been vitally important in shaping the conference and determining its positive direction.

Loren H. Ritchie, you have consistently given your time, intellect and energy to benefit the public good. You have, indeed, devoted your life to educating Maine people and making the best education has to offer available to us. In recognition of these accomplishments the University of Maine at Orono presents you with the Distinguished Achievement Award."

In Ritchie's spare time, he serves as instructor in Human Relations and Business Psychology in the adult education program.

Ritchie writes as follows: "It certainly is a long way from the College on the Hill but I shan't forget it. I still have correspondence from Chief that I received while I was in Korea. Although I didn't heed all of his fine advice, I did what I could. I wish he were still here and that I would have done more with his good wishes for me.

Each succeeding year, my life becomes fuller and it becomes more and more imperative to share it with others. I'm just so thankful that I haven't gone through life without the warmth of young people. They truly do sustain you and leave a piece of themselves for us to reflect upon."

Loren and his wife Elizabeth are parents of four sons. She supports Loren in all his endeavors and is a friend to many in the area.

Son #1, Kevin, is a graduate of UMO and teaching.

Son #2, is a graduate of St. Joseph's College and right now is tending bar and working for a small company.

Son #3, Kent, has just graduated from UMO and is in construction. His goal is to work with troubled youth.

Son #4, Rob, is a freshman in high school and wants to be a field biologist. He is a great athlete and outdoorsman.

Loren runs for his life! He has participated in over 200 races, including 11 marathons and three 50-mile runs.

Personally, I remember Loren as being in the "hot seat" in my office on a number of occasions. He was always fair in his judgements, full of energy, vigor and fun.

Husson College is pleased to recognize him as an outstanding alumnus and does bask in the glory of his career and life.
My deep and sincere congratulations are added to those of the many others who know you.

Loren Ritchie '57

President's Corner

Since the publication of Husson College: A History, 1898-1983 in May, I have had a chance to read it and have done so with great interest. Although I have been associated with Husson College for nearly four decades now, I must admit that there was a great deal in this book for me to learn.

In one sense, the History is a chronicle of steady development over a period of eighty-five years. There is evidence of the elation of achievement and progress. But it is equally clear that there were difficult times. Husson, after all, has survived two world wars and a major depression. It has been subject to demographic change and a technological revolution.

A major factor in the development of Husson College has been, and will continue to be for many years, the vision of Chesley H. Husson. "Chief" understood risk, and was willing to take it to transform his vision into a reality. He was also a man before his time. From the History, it is obvious that he understood the concept of student development long before that concept was articulated elsewhere. Even as he worked to develop the collegiate curriculum, he insisted that Husson students should have a full range of social and athletic activities. He had a fierce determination that his students would succeed in completing their courses of study. He was equally determined that they would succeed in life itself.

Chief had tremendous energy. While his principal role was the leadership of the institution, he participated in its activities. In one picture in the History, we see him as leader of the school orchestra. In another he is the coach of the basketball team. He also taught.

I would commend this important History to the interest of all Husson College alumni. It is really more than the history of a college; it is, as well, the story of people — their accomplishments and a record of their contributions to their many communities. Above all, however, it is a description of the process of turning vision into reality and hope into realization. The lesson is what can be done in the face of determination.

Thoughts From The Alumni Association President

Alumni Association President Clara L. Swan '33

Tonight I am in the Alumni Office eating supper while I talk with you through my column. Other loyal "alums" are having supper prior to working on the clean-up Phonothon for this year's wonderfully successful annual fund.

This year Husson Alumni contributions have increased 47% in dollars and 38% in numbers. The total amount raised by the alumni fund is $26,624, and the total 1984-85 annual fund is $117,653.98. The Alumni office staff is pleased, the President is pleased and I'm ecstatis - THANKS!

Congratulations to all Alumni who have received promotions, run successful businesses, prepared millions of tax forms, and taught thousands of teenagers. My congratulations to all alumni who are at home in a "parenting" role and to those who are combining parenting with a career. Of course, I am a little bit prejudiced and I think the Husson alumni, in general, outshine the Alumni of any other college in Maine.

So far, this has been a fine year for your Alumni President — one thing that has made it so great is the large number of notes and letters from you.

Another thing which has pumped up "this old gal" is the overall plan for Homecoming '85. Hale Joy of Ellsworth has written me that over 70 alumni of the 1940's plan to attend Homecoming. Hale has corresponded with all these folks and hopes to convince others to join the "old" gang from down on the hill. If you belong to this group, why not plan to be a big part of the celebration?

Another surprise event will be the Sports Hall of Fame induction on Saturday. At this event, outstanding athletes of the 30's, 40's, 50's, 60's, and 70's will be honored. A Husson College committee consisting of Bruce MacGregor, Janet Kinney, Keith Mahaney and Pamala Hennessey are making selections.

The first two flowering Rose Trees of China have been planted along the Bell Tower walk, honoring last year's Alumni Association President Shirley K. Richard '48/'55. We are all pleased with this, and can't wait for the first blossoms.

The Millinocket Chapter has been formed and Don Levine is the President. The new chapter will be involved with Homecoming as hosts for the Friday evening wine and cheese party, and as curators for the arts and crafts show.

The Alumni Association hereby recognizes one of its outstanding "alums," President Delmont N. Merrill '54. Chairman of the Board Doug Brown awarded him an honorary doctorate at commencement in May. Congratulations, Dellie.

Congratulations also to Patrice Krant, Director for Public Relations and Alumni Affairs, who will marry Albert F. York on September 7. They have bought a lovely home in East Holden.

So long till next issue. Keep in touch, keep healthy and have a great summer.

Danny Rauch '81 Passes CMA Exam

Danny Lee Rauch '81, accountant at Seven Islands Land Co., has been awarded the Certificate in Management Accounting. He successfully completed a comprehensive examination on accounting and related subjects and satisfied the required two years of management accounting experience. Mr. Rauch joins a rapidly growing number of persons who have become Certified Management Accountants.

The CMA is a program of the National Association of Accountants, the world's largest organization of management accountants. The Certificate is designed to recognize professional competence in management accounting. The nation's leading companies encourage their management accountants and financial managers to seek the CMA as part of their career development.

In achieving the Certificate, Mr. Rauch displayed proficiency in many facets of accounting and financial management. His abilities in these and related fields make him a valuable member of the accounting profession.

Katahdin Chapter Officers Elected

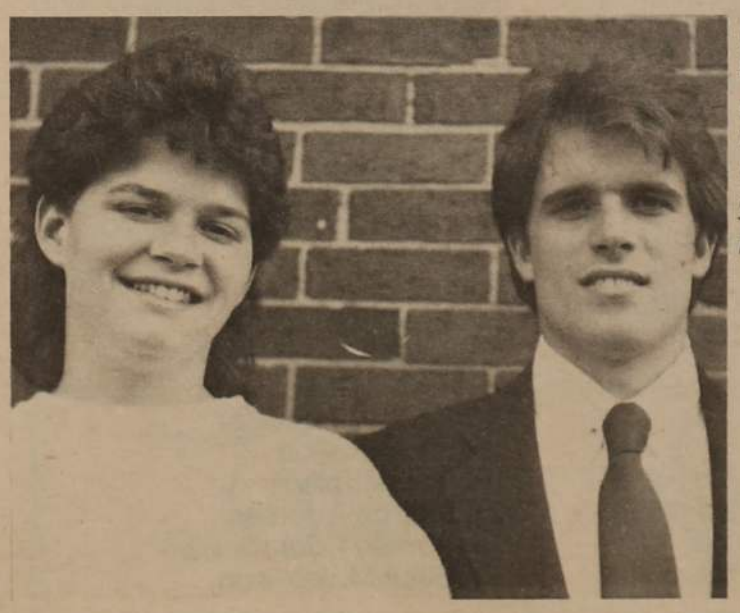

The Katahdin Chapter of the Husson College alumni association elected its first officers at a recent dinner meeting in Millinocket.

The officers are: President Don A. Levine of Connecticut Avenue, Millinocket; Vice President Kevin M. Kenny of Elm Street in East Millinocket; and Secretary/Treasurer Danita B. Kallgren of Millinocket.

The Katahdin Chapter will have its next meeting on September 12 at the Heritage Motor Inn in Millinocket. Husson College alumni in the Millinocket, Lincoln, Mattawamkeag area are invited to participate in all Katahdin Chapter activities.

The September 12 meeting will feature guest speakers Caroline Banasiak, Husson's director for career counseling, and Dick Newcomb, chairman of Husson's Homecoming '85 on October 18 and 19.

Husson Alumni in need of more information about the Katahdin Chapter may contact Don Levine at 723-8204 (H) or 723-5131, ext. 1648 (W).

'84-'85 Annual Fund Giving Increases 47%!

Congratulations! You and the 399 other Husson alumni who helped to make the 1985 Annual Fund a success have our sincere appreciation. This year the annual fund has raised $117,653, compared to $100,291 for last year. While that is overall great news for the College, the increase in alumni participation is the real success story.

The alumni giving dollar amount increased 47 percent over 1984 — from $18,165 to $26,624, and the number of alumni donors jumped by 38 percent — from 290 to 400.

As important as those numbers are, the percentage of total dollars given by alumni increased as well. Last year alumni gifts comprised about 18.1 percent of the total amount given to the College. In 1985 alumni gifts represent 22.2 percent of the total giving to the college — even as total giving to the College increased!!

Part of that success derives from a new approach to annual fund solicitation. Several alumni took a greater role this year in the annual fund by becoming volunteer fund raisers in the Bangor area and others conducted an alumni phonothon in June.

The alumni were part of a 30-member volunteer fundraising "force." This group, comprised of Husson trustees, advisors, alumni and friends, has raised $55,000 for the annual fund. In addition, the volunteers renewed old acquaintances and made new friends for the College.

The 1985 annual fund is just the prelude to the Twenty-First Century Fund campaign which will begin officially in early 1986 and extend for three years. (see story about the Twenty-First Century Fund in this issue).

Thank You!

National Standards of Excellence Set for Business Education

The U. S. Department of Education, Office of Adult and Vocational Education has contracted with the School of Technology at East Carolina University to develop national standards of excellence for secondary, post-secondary, and adult business education programs. The project is developing (1) program standards for business education and (2) instructional standards for information processing with emphasis on data and word processing.

Dr. Calfrey C. Calhoun, Dean of the School of Technology at East Carolina University, is director of the project whose major outcomes will be a validated set of program and instructional standards which will measure the effects of business education at three levels. The standards will be used by business educators at the local, state, and national level as a tool for self-study and for program improvement.

The standards are being developed through a process involving review and analysis of the literature, site visits to information processing installations, preparation of draft standards, validation of the standards, revision, and preparation of the standards in final form.

The impetus for the project has come from instructors, teacher educators, publishers, employers and administrators concerned with the need to maintain usable and relevant programs. By comparing the characteristics of individual programs against the standards developed in the project, schools will be able to identify strengths and weaknesses and use the standards as a basis for systematic improvement. They will also serve to establish, for the first time, relevance and uniformity of instruction in information processing.

A Technical Advisory Group consisting of business educators and representatives of business, industry, and government are working with project personnel to develop the standards.
