Men's Basketball Wins Big in Home Opener

By Stephen Novak

They're back! Yes, the Husson Braves are back for a season opener and it was totally awesome. The opponent for the night was U.ME. at Augusta against the Braves. The Braves whomped the Rebels 126-50.

Early in the game the Braves appeared to be a bit sluggish, allowing the Rebels several uncontested lay-ups on their full-court defense, and the Braves led by only six points 8 minutes into the game (17-11). Getting back on the defense was a problem for the Braves, but on the other end the Braves showed a lot of patience on offense, with Mitchell Range scoring 6 of the 8 early points for the Braves.

After a timeout and a player exchange, Husson picked up the pace of the game. Freshman Jeff Shakoor provided the support the defense needed.

Going into the locker room, the Braves had a 33 point lead (56-23), but it wasn't enough. The Braves, who pride themselves on defense, came out shooting up a storm while allowing only 5 points for the Rebels in the first 8 minutes and led 91-28.

Going deep into the bench early, everyone got a lot of playing time and everyone on the team scored.

Finally, in not embarrassing the Rebels, Husson went to a 2-3 zone instead of the tight man defense it had used for most of the game. During this time, Augusta started to hit some outside shots.

Leading the Braves was Mamadou Kone (20 pts.), Scott Nance (19 pts.), Buster Frederick (18 pts., 8 rebounds, 6 steals), Mitch Range (9 pts., 10 rebounds, 8 steals), Freshman Jeff Shakoor (12 pts., including two monstrous dunks, 4 rebounds, and 4 steals coming off the bench), Herb Melanson (12 pts.), and Paul Sullivan (8 pts.).

The Braves melted the nylon nets by hitting 72.8% of their shots, but needed improvement from the charity stripe (free throw line) after hitting 66%.

For the Rebels, Dana Brann had 16 points and 8 rebounds in good effort.

Unlike most blowouts, this was an exciting game because it gave the fans a look at the team, but also because everyone played. The crowd was really into it, especially after Mitch had a fast-break dunk.

We are in for some fun, so sit back and enjoy Husson Basketball. It's one of a kind.

Social Committee Attends Convention

By Viviana Altomari

Last weekend members of the Social Committee took a trip to Springfield, MA for the National Association of Campus Activities. N.A.C.A. is an organization which gives lectures and leadership seminars to leaders on college campuses.

The weekend was spent watching showcases and going to education and leadership seminars. The education seminars dealt with such topics as ice-breakers, stress management, think tanks and how to motivate your staff.

The showcases showed different bands and comedians in a live concert setting so that members of social committees and programming groups could see them and make a decision about them based on how they perform in a concert setting.

An exhibition hall was also one of the attractions. The exhibition hall provided a setting in which connections could be made for the purpose of booking these groups. A reverse exhibition hall was also held so that different colleges could trade information and show some of the concerts and programs that were successful for them.

This was an excellent experience because it gave us the opportunity to speak to people from other schools and share information about the activities that did and didn't work so that we could all benefit from the experience.

The attendees from Husson were Wendy Swett, David Roussel, Eric Rhodes, Viviana Altomari, and Student Affairs Director, Julie Green

Global Holiday Bazaar to Benefit Maine Audubon Society

Holiday festivities get off to an international start at the Global Holiday Bazaar sponsored by Maine Audubon Society on Friday, December 1. A wide variety of crafts, gifts, entertainment, and foods from around the world will be featured at the bazaar, held at the State Street Church, 159 State Street Portland, from 5:00 to 9:00 p.m. Admission to the event is $7.00 in advance, $9.00 at the door.

Wares for sale include colorful baskets and jewelry from Africa, woven Egyptian rugs, and South American carvings. All these have been gathered by Maine Audubon Society members and participants on Maine Audubon Society World Tours for sale especially at the bazaar. In addition, local shops, artists, and importers will present a seasonal selection of international goods for sale. Proceeds from the sale of gifts will benefit Maine Audubon Society's natural history programs.

Entertainment during the evening includes the music Steel Industry, North Yarmouth Academy Steel Band, and Maine Balalaikas. Wine and international foods will be served at no charge to shoppers throughout the evening.

Open House

On November 18th at Husson College The New England School of Broadcasting, which operates at Husson Campus, will hold an Open House in coordination with Husson for prospective new students. According to NESB President George Wildey, a brand new Television Studio, and Sound Recording System, and editing system are in place at the new studio.

According to Donna Thorne, Administrator of President Wildey's office, students can visit the new studio at certain times when staff members are at the studio.

A full story on NESB will follow in next week's newspaper.

Editorial Page

From the Editor . . . . .

The editorials submitted to THE SPECTATOR, in reference to the "Campus Question" column of Oct. 30th, which were properly addressed and signed are published herein. There were others submitted and not publishable, but THE SPECTATOR certainly heard you all the same.

It is unfortunate that the learning process has so many hard lessons to be learned, but I believe the lessson has been learned. THE SPECTATOR will not publish any more anonymous contributions and will do its best to be more sensitive to issues such as definitions of what constitutes a "real man" or a "real woman."

To those of you who were so offended, try to remember the whole (mean, cruel) world is full of people just like the gentlemen who so bodly, yet sadly, said women at Husson are "all drunk and immature." Is that not one of the reasons why we women are at Husson today? To become educated, well rounded, business leaders of tomorrow. Let's not get hung up on one person's opinion of the female gender. There is a lot of important work yet to be done this semester. There is no time or need to create a "battle of the sexes" here on campus.

THE SPECTATOR thanks you for your concern about this matter. If the mood strikes you again, we would love to hear your opinions of the good things done or written about, as well as the bad, published in our weekly chronicle.

Dear Staff:

As a woman and a student at Husson College, I truly resent being classified as an immature drunk!

Being a non-traditional student, mother of two, grandmother of two, and a non-drinker/NON-DRUG USER, your article is degrading, not only to me but to all female students at Husson College, (traditional and non-traditional.)

Knowing several students at Husson, both male and female, I feel that many male students should clean up their act. Nearly every young man I have met come to classes exhausted, hung-over, and have a very low opinion of females. Basically, the low opinion is due to the fact that the young man did not "score" last night. Sex is not what makes a real person!

Whoever you quoted should look at his own self. More than likely this person has a serious problem dealing with female rejection and probably needs professional help.

I feel you and your staff owe the majority of the female popluation of Husson College an apology!

Sincerely,
Carolanne Dionne

TO: The Editor of The Spectator

This is solely dedicated to the anonymous person who said, "There are no REAL WOMEN at Husson College. They are all drunk and immature." It is very obvious you haven't met all of the women at Husson College and therefore your statement is very prejudiced and could not hold an ounce of water. I can safely say you have not met me or most of my friends. Sorry to burst your bubble, but we are quite mature, intelligent, non-drinking women. I pity you because your world is obviously an open shut case with the Husson women. With an attitude like yours, how do you expect to meet real women at Husson College? You strike me as a person who only sees what you want to see and believes only what you want to believe; in your case, the worst is all you seem to see or believe.

It would have been understandable if you had said, "Some of the women I have met were either drunk or immature," but you blew it when you said "all." How would you feel and what would you say if a woman wrote something to the effect that all men wanted only one thing from women and that men spend all their time sharing stories with other men? Such a statement could be considered repulsive just because it was unfair to sum up the male population in such a way! Would you have been as offended and insulted as we are by your statement? I have an opinion: It takes a REAL MAN, not a boy, to know a REAL WOMAN.

I just wonder how many people outside of the Husson community saw that article and your statment. What an impression we are making. You have a personal problem as well as an opinion, but I dare you to go up to your next date or REAL WOMAN and tell her your opinion of women from Husson, but be careful because she may have friends, relatives or a mother attending Husson since it is a small world!!!

Unlike you, I am woman enough to sign my name to this letter. Why didn't a "man" like you sign your name?

Yours Truly,
(A REAL WOMAN)
Chris Instasi

International Outlook

The Land of Smiles

The description of Thailand may be justified to the extent that the population is remarkably friendly and more apt to smile than scowl on most occasions. Thailand is the only country in Southeast Asia never to have been colonized. It is the land of peacefulness in Asia.

In November, Thailand has the old tradition day that is called "Loi Krathong." Celebrations will be held from November 24 to 26. Loi Krathong is the most beautiful of all Thai festivals. The festival provides the opportunity to give thanks to Mae Khongkha (Mother of Water) on the fullmoon night of the twelfth lunar month, usually in mid-November. The word Loi means to "float." Krathong means "leaf cup," which is traditionally made of banana leaf. On that day, all lowland rivers and canals are flooded. During Loi Krathong, people float Krathongs holding a lighted candle, a coin, burning incense sticks and flowers, onto rivers, canals, lakes and streams. It is commonly believed that personal wishes will be fulfilled if the candle stays alight.

Festivities will include a Nang Nophamat (Queen of Loi Krathong) Beauty Contest, a Krathong Contest, boat races, drama shows, fireworks, traditional music and folk dances.

To whom it may concern:

In my haste to take my leave of Husson College on Friday, October 27, I left my brand-new $48.00 jacket on the back of a chair in the commuter lounge. It was just a jacket: white sweatshirt material with snaps up the front. $48.00 doesn't seem like much, but when you are in college and also have teen-age children to support, it's more than a little chunk of money.

When I got to school on Monday morning, of course is wasn't there, but I felt that someone had certainly turned it into the security office. I've checked there several times; no luck. I work at the switchboard and I've seen many items turned in to the security office: books, sunglasses, keys, etc. They undoubtedly were turned in by honest people.

I just want to let the person who took my jacket know that he or she is a very dishonest person; a thief. Whether they kept it themself or gave it to someone else, I hope they're keeping warm with it, because I'm COLD.

Dear Editor:

The International Club's Pot-Luck Supper was a huge success. There were about 115 people who attended the function. Entertainment was supplied by the international club members. The Guatemalan students performed a native dance and taught the guest some exciting games named Land-Sea and The King Says. The Japanese students introduced a game called Fruit Basket and performed a form of Japanese entertainment called Ninibori which had the guests laughing so hard that they were crying.

A great array of international cuisine was supplied by the students and guests who attended the supper. Some of the members of the International Club wore the native dress of their countries, which added a touch of the exotic.

I wish to thank everyone who attended our supper. Without your support, our event would not have been an enjoyable one. I would also like to extend an invitation to our next supper in March which will be held in the Dickerman Dining Commons.

Sincerely,

Fernand E. Gagnon, Jr.
President of the International Club

A few weeks ago the International Club elected its officers. They are President Fernand Gagnon, from the United States, Treasurer Susith Wijetunga from Sri Lanka, Secretary Mahendra Gupta from India, Assistant Treasurer Elena Franco from Guatemala, and Assistant Secretary Kyoko Nitta from Japan.

Meetings are weekly on Wednesdays at 3:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. every other week, in room 134. Meetings are usually an hour long and a member talks about their country. Also,refreshments are served along with snacks from different cultures. Everyone is welcome to attend the meetings.

About The Chat-n-Chew

Each student, Commuter and Resident, is allowed (6) chat-n-chew's per semester. What is a chat-n-chew, you ask? A chat-n-chew is when you invite a staff or faculty member to have lunch with you in the Wigwam. Where do you get chat-n-chew? There are two places where you can get chat-n-chew slips--the Student Affairs Office and the Student Government Office. The chat-n-chew does not cost YOU a cent to sign up for; it is one of the benefits you pay for in your comprehensive fee. We, the Student Government, encourage you to take advantage of what YOU have already paid for.

Social Service Provided

By Matt Thompson

Greek organizations at Husson are very busy during the Fall Semester. All of these organizations are content to help the community better itself, each giving 100 percent to help others and themselves. This is just a list of the activities that have been accomplished and some of those events yet to come.

The sisters of Epsilon Tau Epsilon went trick-or-treating on the 31st of October. They didn't ask for candy, but for money. The money went to benefit the Bangor shelter. They also donated stuffed animals to Shop 'n' Save's "Trust a policeman" program.

Delta Sigma Delta donated money to various charities in the area. Operation Liftoff, Hugo Relief, and the Christian Children's Fund are a few of the charities. They also paid a visit to the Bangor Convalescent home.

Kappa Lambda has been doing an exceptional job in cleaning up your campus every Sunday. They hosted a Halloween party for the area children of Brewer. They also helped the elderly celebrate Halloweeen by making up their faces.

The brothers of Kappa Delta Phi have been putting their backs into their work. They remodeled the Eastern Maine Gymnastics Club. They also raked leaves for the JCC to help them look as good as possible. They will also be holding a bowl-a-thon to raise money for the National Service Project.

Tau Epsilon Phi helped with Alcohol Awareness Week and will be doing several events to help the American Heart Association. You will see them contributing to other events to help the Husson community.

The brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon just held their annual TKE Tourney to help support the Big Brother/Big Sister program. They also catered the St. Joseph's Lady Auxilary fashion show, and portered an antique show.

The Greeks on campus are very proud of their accomplishments, and judging by the community response it looks like a lot of other people are proud of them too.

11th Annual St. Francis Xavier Tournament

By Stephen Novak

The Husson Men's basketball team was invited to play again this year in the St. Francis Xavier Tournament. The Braves last year were the champions and this year were looking for their 3rd championship, more than anyone else in the tournament's history. Going into the tournament Husson was looking for a better road trip than the week before. The home team, St. F.X. of Anigonish, were the favorites and were ranked number five in Canada.

The first game saw Husson playing against Acadia Axeman, another Canadian team. At the start of the game Husson controlled the tempo and was leading but no more than a few points. At half time the score was 32-31, Husson down by one.

Coming out of the locker room at half time, the Braves were determined to put the Axemen away but it was easier said then done. The score remained close until the last ten minutes of the final half when Husson began to pull away.

Some of the big plays of the game were as follows: Buster Frederick's alley-oop slam from Bobby Campbell on an out-of-bounds play, yes the same play which beat Castleton in the Paul Bunyon Tournament last year; another was Jeff Shakoor's stealing on the defensive end and taking it all the way home with a dunk. And of course Kone's drives under the basket and exploding for lay-ups.

Final score was 64-51 and once again Husson had shooting woes but the defense was impressive.

Saturday night was the big night of the trip. The Braves were looking forward to this. Playing the home team on their home court was the best situation Husson wanted to be in; compared to last year, St. Francis Xavier's X-men were much improved, especially wtih size. They had several players from Africa; two were about 6'8" and were an intimidating force on the floor.

The game plan for Husson was to bring those big guys out on the perimeter to where our speed would work for us. The game got off to a fast start with St. F.X. scoring on a 3-pointer by Wade Smith, but Husson scored right after. It was a seesaw battle which saw St. F.X. take a lead into the locker room 34-28. After coming out in the second half, the Braves jumped out early, eliminated the deficit and went up by one, but the X-men came back to really control the rest of the game, allowing Husson to come close only a few times and taking over for good with about eight minutes left.

With little time left the Braves had to resort to fouling and throwing up three pointers which did little. The final was 69-60.

Throughout the game Husson was still experiencing shooting problems but the defense held them in the game.

The good thing about it is that it was only an exhibition and the Braves will have a re-match at the Paul Bunyon Tournament in December.

Schick Super Hoop Returns To Campus

Students will once again have an opportunity to participate in the country's largest college sports program as the Schick Super Hoop 3 on 3 Basketball Tournament returns to campus. For the 1989-90 season, more than 200,000 students at over 800 college and universities are registered to participate.

The Schick Super Hoops Tournament is scheduled to begin Monday, November 27, 1989, at 8:30 p.m. Students interested in registering a team should contact Shannon Whiting in the Athletic Office.

Schick Super Hoops combines a fun on-campus event and a competitive off-campus tournament with exciting prizes. The grand prize offers the top two male and female teams in each region the chance to compete for the championship at an NBA arena. Other prizes include trophies, t-shirts, K-Swiss athletic shoes, gym bags and free Schick Slim Twin Razors and Blades.

The program consists of three rounds. First, all participating schools conduct an on-campus tournament. Then each of the championship teams competes at one of 22 regional tournaments against other schools. From there, the top two male and female teams in each region then play for the regional championship at the nearby NBA arena.
