Letter from the President

Dear Alumni and Friends:

These are very rewarding and challenging times for higher education. On the rewards side, more students are going to college than ever before. Knowledge and higher education and the information economy may very well be to the 21st Century what natural resources and manufacturing were to the 20th Century. On the challenging note, there is a transformation in higher education that is underway from new world-class for-profit corporations such as IBM and Microsoft to the intrusion of technology and the virtual college, and the redefinition of who is a faculty member and who is a student. At Husson we are fully engaged in this transformation while making every effort to retain the most valued of our traditions.

This Ledger reports on new facilities and technologies, new academic programs and locations, and new modes of instructional delivery, all of which are so critical in the current competitive higher-education environment. But above all else this Ledger highlights people. Ultimately people educate people. At the Kappa Lambda and Kappa Delta Phi reunion during Homecoming we honored Sally Webster, Karl McGaw '63, and Bob Goodwin '62 who have shared close to 100 years of their careers to make Husson an ever better school. We honor such alumni as Bob White '65 and Leo Loiselle '63 for their leadership on the Husson Board of Trustees. We recognize alumni at Homecoming for their achievements in their professions, in public service, and in sports. In this era of information it is this human net worth of trustees, faculty, alumni, students, and friends that largely defines the Husson experience and sets a standard for the future, which ever way the path will lead.

Sincerely,

William H. Beardsley

Husson Homeco 1999

Each year at Homecoming the Husson College Alumni Association makes a number of awards to fellow alumni who have distinguished themselves in their chosen professions or through service to their communities. This is an opportunity to recognize and to celebrate the remarkable contributions that Husson College Alumni have made throughout the state, the nation, and the world.

Homecoming also gives Husson a chance to honor those alumni who have contributed to the illustrious athletic tradition of the College. The Hall of Fame Committee meets annually to discuss and to nominate those exceptional athletes to the Hall of Fame. The induction ceremony was held in the D. Bruce MacGregor Hall of Fame Room in the Newman Gymnasium.

Outstanding Alumnus

WILLIAM ABBOTT, JR.

William Abbott, Jr. graduated from Husson College in 1967 with a Bachelor's Degree in Finance with a minor in Accounting. After eight years in the insurance industry, Bill and his brother, Steve, founded Abbott Realty Services, Inc., in Destin, Florida. Their initial investment was $3,000. Abbott Realty is a full-service real estate and resort rental company specializing in all phases of the real estate business including residential and condominium sales, project design and development, commercial sales and management, data processing, resort property, and rental management. Their sales volume in 1995 was $155 million; gross annual resort rental volume was $39 million. Abbott Realty is the largest property management company in Northwest Florida and possibly in the entire United States. In 1998 they sold the company to ResortQuest International for $41 million.

Bill still serves the company as a Consultant and became a Board Member of ResortQuest International in 1998. He is presently developing several smaller local ventures in Northwest Florida. A small sampling of his interests and honors: Past Director, Destin Chamber of

He and his wife, Cathy, have four children.

EXCELLENCE in Office Administration

SUZANNE M. CYR

Suzanne M. Cyr graduated from Husson College in 1965 with an Associate's Degree in Secretarial Studies. She was a member of Delta Sigma Delta Sorority. In 1966 she married Joe Cyr '62 and together they worked to build Cyr Bus Lines into one of the leading bus lines in the country.

Cyr Northstar Tours began operating in 1983 with Suzanne as Coordinator. Suzanne has overseen the growth from one bus and one tour in 1983 until today when they have 17 modern motorcoaches, four full-time coordinators, and over 650,000 miles traveled. Cyr Northstar Tours is known nationwide for their attention to detail and how carefully they cater to their customers. One of the secrets of their success is they always try to match the drivers to the event. If it's a trip to a sporting event, they choose drivers who enjoy sports. Their colorful coaches are instantly recognizable and the company is known for its dependability and excellent service.

In 1991 Suzanne and her husband, Joe, were named Entrepreneurs of the Year by the Maine Society of Entrepreneurs, an award presented to them by the late Senator Margaret Chase Smith. Suzanne and Joe have four children and two grandchildren.

EXCELLENCE in Nursing

ELEANOR G. SARGENT

Eleanor G. Sargent graduated from the Eastern Maine General Hospital School of Nursing in 1946. Her first job was at the Milliken Memorial Hospital in Island Falls, Maine, where, because there was no elevator, the nurses often moved patients up and down stairs by carrying stretchers on their shoulders! She entered the Eastern Maine Medical School of Anesthesia, graduating in 1966, and then took a job as Director of Nursing at the Down East Community Hospital in Machias. In 1970 she moved to Long Beach, California, and worked in that state for ten years. In 1980 she moved back to Maine and started a self-managed private locum tenens practice and began her travels around the world with Feed the Children. While serving this organization, she made 13 trips to underdeveloped countries in need of medical care. One of her most memorable trips was to El Salvador in 1986 immediately following a devastating earthquake. Every day there would be lines of more than 500 people looking for help. During this period she also traveled to Guatemala, Honduras, Thailand, Belize, Nicaragua, and Brazil.

"Ellie" grew up during the depression, the eldest of four children. She learned at an early age the value of family and friends and the need to give something back to the community. She has tirelessly served those less fortunate. She is licensed to practice nursing in 18 states and continues to practice today.

Eleanor has received numerous awards and commendations including the Maryann Hartman Award in 1998. She has three daughters and seven grandchildren.

EXCELLENCE in Public Service

JOHN ROHMAN

John Rohman came to Bangor in 1970 after serving with the 1st Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam. He attended Husson College under the GI Bill and received his B.S. in Business Administration in 1977. He began working at WBRC Architects/Engineers in 1973 and has been principal contact on numerous projects in eastern and northern Maine, including Husson College. He currently serves WBRC as CEO.

John has been very active in his community. He is a member of the Maine Crafts Association. He was the Chair of the initial Shakespeare on the River event on the Bangor waterfront. Through the hard work of the Penobscot Theatre, this event is now a key element in the summer activity in the Bangor region and has expanded to three plays over a six-week period. In 1996 Governor King appointed John to the Maine Arts Commission. In 1997 John was appointed to the Bangor Region Chamber of Commerce and became its President in 1997. During his tenure with the Chamber he oversaw the establishment of the Bangor Region Arts Council. The Arts Council has been an active force in the greater Bangor region for arts support and collaboration for approximately five years. This group is currently in the process of using a Maine Arts Commission grant to research and document the vast array of cultural, historical, and artistic individuals and groups in this region.

In November of 1997 he was elected to a two-year term on the Bangor City Council. During this time, he has been active in supporting economic development issues, especially as they relate to downtown and the waterfront. Also in 1997 he received the "Maine Way of Life Award" from the Maine Development Foundation for community activity that "reinforces our relationship to natural surroundings and to each other in work, family, and community."

In 1997 John Rohman received the "Maine Way of Life Award" for community activity that "reinforces our relationship to natural surroundings and to each other in work, family, and community."

He serves many of the most exciting companies in Maine including Dragon Products Company, Inc.; The Jackson Laboratory; Hussey Seating; Bowdoin College; DeLorme Publishing; L.L. Bean; United Timber Company; Central Maine Power; and the Lewiston Sun Journal.

Along with his professional responsibilities Dan has been involved in leadership positions in his community including the Pine Tree Council, the Boy Scouts of America, the Susan L. Curtis Foundation for Children with Cystic Fibrosis, and the Maine Chamber of Commerce and Business Alliance.

Dan and his wife, Shirley, live in Falmouth with their sons, Daniel and Matthew.

EXCELLENCE in Accounting

DANIEL R. HUTCHINS III

Daniel R. Hutchins III graduated from Husson College with a B.S. in Accounting in 1983. He joined PricewaterhouseCoopers, rising to the rank of managing partner. He works closely with his clients in such service areas as public debt offerings, mergers and acquisitions, and purchase price allocation strategies. He also reviews operating and internal controls, offering recommendations to improve efficiency, strategic planning, computer conversions and integration, and fraud investigations.

EXCELLENCE in Education

PAUL TRZNADEL

Paul Trznadel graduated from Husson College in 1967 with a B.S. degree in Management. He began teaching at Johnson & Wales University in that same year. He received his M.B.A. from Suffolk University and a Master's degree in accounting from Salve Regina University.

For 32 years he has taught Economics and Management. For 20 years he was Chairman of the Department of Business Administration, and for the past three years he has served as the Dean of the College of Business. While at Johnson & Wales he has also served as Director of Athletics and as an Admissions Representative.

He has received numerous awards for teaching, merit, and leadership. He is the only J&W faculty member to have ever received an honorary doctorate in recognition of outstanding teaching. He is currently enrolled in a graduate program at the University of Sarasota.

EXCELLENCE in Education

IRVING SCHNEIDER

After graduating from Husson College with a B.S. in Marketing in 1968, Irving Schneider briefly taught at Husson. He joined the U.S. Army where he served two years. He was hired to teach at Johnson & Wales University in February, 1970. Irving pursued his Master's degree in 1972, and earned the M.S. from the University of Connecticut in 1975. He continued his education in 1977 and completed his Doctoral Degree in Technical and Industrial Education at the University of Connecticut in 1982.

While at Johnson & Wales, Dr. Schneider taught for 16 years, earning the rank of Full Professor. In 1986, he was promoted to Dean of the Business Division and, in 1987, was promoted to Vice President of Academic Affairs. Among the many honors and awards he has received are the Meritorious Award from Johnson and Wales, 1990; the Mission Award, 1988; the Dana Hart Memorial Research Award; Most Valuable Player Award, 1983; the Merit Recognition Award for Exceptional Teaching, 1972-74; Scholarship Award, Husson College, 1968; and the U.S. Army Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service.

Dr. Schneider and his wife, Carol, have two children.

Service AWARD

LAURENE GRENDELL

This year's recipient of the service award is Laurie Grendell, Systems Operator and Programmer Assistant in the Information Resources Department. Laurie received her Associate's Degree in Business Administration from Husson in 1984. While she was a student here, her work-study job was in the Data Processing Office. Two weeks after her graduation she was hired and became a full-time Data Specialist. "Receiving the service award from the Alumni Association is an honor," said Grendell. "Husson College has been a big part of my life and this type of recognition really means a lot. All my hard work and dedication has not gone unnoticed and I thank the alumni association for this validation." Dr. Paul Young, the Dean of Business and Director of Information Resources, said, "As we head into the new millennium, information is everything. The ability to be able to manage data is one of the keys to a successful business. Laurie has had tremendous professional growth over her years here and has kept pace with the changes in technology. She is a valued and respected member of the I.R. team."

Outstanding Young Alumnus

STEPHEN EASTMAN

Steve Eastman received his B.S. in Business Administration in 1982 and took a job in Braintree, Massachusetts, at the Grossman Company. Within three years he had risen through the ranks, going from Internal Auditor to Financial Analyst, and finally to Assistant Comptroller. His boss left to go to Bread and Circus Company and asked Steve to come along. He started there as Comptroller and during those three years, their revenues more than tripled. After six years in Boston, he and his wife, Debbie, decided to return to Maine.

After returning to Maine, Steve became an entrepreneur. Even though he had never made a pizza in his life, he opened a "pizza joint," Stephen's Pizza, on a shoestring budget. Though they struggled in the first year, by the third year they were just under a million dollars in revenues.

After selling the pizza business, he accepted a sales position with Sebago Energy Conservation Company. During the next three years he helped the company to grow, eventually being named the Vice President. In 1995 he bought the company which continued its growth. He sold the business in 1998 but remains involved as a Consultant.

He is currently working in real estate. He is involved with the Big Brother/Big Sister Program. He and Debbie have two children.

Excellence in Business Administration

JACK QUIRK

Jack Quirk attended Husson and served in the United States Air Force. Since then he has become a legend in the automobile business in Eastern Maine. Currently he is the CEO and Owner of the Village Car Company which operates Saturn of Bangor, Bean & Conquest Chevrolet Geo, and Village Car Company, which markets Saab, Mercedes Benz, Hyundai, and Mitsubishi. He has served 14 terms as Chairman of the Subaru of New England Dealer Advisory Board and 20 terms as Director of that Board. He is the current President of the Maine and Northern New Hampshire Chevrolet Advertising Council and served three terms as AIADA State Director.

Along with his phenomenal business success Jack has been an active volunteer in the community. He is a member of the Bangor Rotary. He was a member of the Bangor Chamber of Commerce International Affairs Committee and was the Chairman of the Canadian Appreciation Days. He is a former member of the Eastern Maine Medical Center Board of Directors and was District Chairman of the Greater Bangor United Way.

Jack and his wife, Bunny, have seven sons.

"Receiving the service award from the Alumni Associataion is an honor," said Laurene Grendell.

Sports Hall of Fame Inductees

Five athletes were inducted into the Husson College Sports Hall of Fame during a ceremony held on Saturday, October 3, during Homecoming. All five of these outstanding athletes played varsity basketball and left their mark on the athletic tradition at the College. Coaches Bruce MacGregor, Merrill Wilson, and Dan O'Connell presented the newest members of the Hall of Fame.

Randy Wadleigh

Randy, who was a two-time captain of the Braves, was an outstanding leader who led by example. In 108 games at Husson between 1984 and 1987, Randy Wadleigh scored 1,528 points, making him the fifth leading all-time scorer, and finished his Husson career with a 50.5% field-goal percentage. For his career he shot a remarkable 79.6% from the free throw line, and in 1987 shot 83.4% from the line. Randy was Captain during his senior year. He was ninth all-time in rebounds with 659. What can't be measured in these statistics was his maturity and leadership on and off the basketball court.

After graduating from Husson, Randy went to work at the family business, Governor's Restaurant and serves as its Chief Operating Officer. Since then, Governor's has grown from two locations to eight, with more in the planning stages. He and his wife, Kathy, have two daughters, Gwen, 11, and Amy, 9.

Joan Pettengill

Joan Pettengill was an outstanding athlete at Husson. Along with her stellar career in basketball she played varsity volleyball and was a starting pitcher for four years on the softball team. She is the only player in Husson basketball history to exceed the 1,000-point mark in scoring, at 1,231, and rebounds at 1,021. She holds the single-season scoring record for women with the 269 points scored in her freshman year.

Joan received her B.S. in Business Administration in 1985. After teaching for 10 years in Florida, Joan is currently a sergeant for the New Hampshire Department of Corrections.

Richard "Jay" Moore

During his Senior year at Husson, Jay Moore was a medalist for the golf team that traveled to the National Championship, had a ten-game hitting streak on the baseball team and played in their postseason, and was an NAIA All-American basketball player who led that team to postseason play. On the basketball team from 1984-1987 Jay scored 1,469 points, placing him ninth on the all-time scoring list. He was fifth all-time in steals with 82, and was sixth all-time in 3-point field goal percentage at 42.9%. In 1985 he led the team with 82 steals.

After graduating from Husson Jay took a teaching job at Wells High School in Wells, Maine, and began a tremendous teaching and coaching career. He has coached Junior Varsity Basketball and Varsity Basketball, making numerous tournament appearances. This past year he also became the Golf Coach. He and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Emily and Zachery.

Shara MacDonald

Shara was a four-year starter on the Husson Basketball team and was not only a force offensively, but her presence under the basket as a rebounder is legendary. She was named to the All-District team in 1985, was named a Western Maine Athletic Conference All-Star in 1985, received the Clara Swan Award, the Coaches Award, and was honorable mention MAIAW All State in 1982.

Shara received her A.S. in Business Administration in 1985 and currently is the Co-Owner of the Countryside Day Care facility in Albion, Maine. Each year Shara and Gail Corey Bucklin, '85 run a basketball camp in Brooks, Maine that works with children who share a love for basketball and want to learn more about Jesus Christ.

Ray Felt

Ray Felt made his presence felt in his first game as a Brave when he exploded for 27 points. From 1979-1982 he scored 1,570 points, fifth all-time at Husson, and was, according to Coach MacGregor, one of the purest shooters he ever coached. He grabbed 938 rebounds to finish third all-time. His career free-throw percentage was 81.1%, second all-time for the Braves. In 1982 he shot 87.3%, the highest single season free-throw percentage in Braves' history.

Ray graduated from Husson in 1981 with a B.S. in Business Administration and has pursued a career in corrections. For the past 15 years he has worked for the Maine Department of Corrections and is currently the Chief of Security at the Bolduc Correctional Facility in South Warren, Maine. He and his wife, Kim Tweedie Felt, '81, have three daughters, Kasey, Erika, and Stephanie.

Call for Nominations for Homecoming 2000

Annual Meeting Leads To Changing of the Guard, NEW BUILDING

The 1999 Annual Meeting of the Husson Board of Trustees was held in Bangor on October 18th and 19th. It was an occasion of a changing of the guard as Robert White '65 retired from the Board and his Chairmanship. Leo Loiselle '63 was elected Chair, W. Tom Sawyer, Jr. as Vice Chair, and Robert O'Donnell '72 and '82 as a new Trustee. The Board also voted endorsement of a new communications building on campus to house the New England School of Communications.

Leo Loiselle '63, new chairman of the Board of Trustees

White, a native of Hampden, Maine, has served Husson in multiple capacities. He was Student Senate President in 1964, was awarded the Alumni Award for Excellence in Accounting in 1990, and was granted an Honorary Doctorate in Business Administration in 1993. He has served on the Board since 1993, was Vice Chair from 1995-1997, and was Chair from 1997-1999. White, who also retired from his position as Vice President of Internal Audit at Warner Lambert in November, has also served as President of the Institute of Internal Auditors. He has generously supported the College through the White Art Gallery and the Ed LeBrun Scholarship Endowment. He and his wife, Dee, will make their retirement home in Florida where he plans to be actively involved in the I.I.A.

Loiselle, a native of Lewiston, Maine, graduated from Husson with a B.S. in Accounting in 1963. Loiselle earned his M.B.A. from the Michigan State University and has become a leader of the accounting profession in Maine. He currently serves as Managing Partner of Loiselle, Goodwin, & Hinds of Bangor, Maine. In 1994, he was elected President of the Institute of Management Accountants, the largest professional accounting association in the world. Loiselle was appointed to the Husson Board in 1991 and was elected Vice Chair in 1997. Leo and his wife, Emily, reside in Eddington, Maine.

Robert O'Donnell is a native of Van Buren, Maine. He earned his B.S. in 1972 from Husson and his M.S.B. from Husson in 1982. He served as Director of Financial Aid at Husson from 1972-1978, before entering the banking profession. He rose to the position of Senior Vice President at Amboy National Bank and then, in 1997, he established and became President and CEO of the Community Bank of New Jersey. In 1992, O'Donnell received the Husson College Alumni Excellence in Business Administration Award. Bob lives in New Jersey with his wife, Donna.

W. Tom Sawyer, Jr., who has been elected Vice Chair of the Board, is a native of Bangor, and has served on the Husson Board since 1987, including an earlier term as Vice Chair. Sawyer has been a business and civic leader in Eastern Maine, building his company, Sawyer Environmental Services, into a dominant presence in solid waste management in the region. He has served on numerous boards and organizations in leadership positions and has served on the Bangor City Council. As Chairman of the Husson Board's Institutional Advancement Committee he has overseen significant expansion of alumni and development affairs.

NESCom Expansion

The New England School of Communications, an incorporated subsidiary of Husson College, has expanded rapidly during the 1990's. In the fall of 1999 enrollments in their associate degree program reached 130 for the first time. The NESCom Board now has authorized expansion into four-year B.S. degrees and to consolidate studio, radio station, multimedia labs, and other facilities into a new 14,000-square-foot building, to be located next to Hart Hall on the forested side of the Husson Circle. The Husson Board further authorized the financing and construction of the building at the Annual Meeting. "This will provide Husson College with the best communications facility for an academic institution north of Emerson College and Boston University," observed NESCom President, George Wildey, in presenting his case.

The College Establishes Science Research INSTITUTE

Dr. Paul Henri LaMarche appointed Director

"Husson College faculty see a relationship between Maine's natural resource industry and applied research. When we talk about 'value-added' in Maine's forests and clam flats, we believe part of this value-added could be cures for genetic related diseases," said Husson College President William H. Beardsley. Dr. Beardsley announced the establishment of the Husson Science Research Institute and the appointment of Dr. Paul Henri LaMarche as Founding Director.

LaMarche was formerly the Director of the Brown University Genetics Laboratory and the Maine Toxicology Institute. He will be joined by Dr. James Kenny, former Vice Chancellor of Research and Public Service at Auburn University; Robert Kuhn, former Human Resource Officer for the Howard Hughes Medical Institute; and members of the Husson Science and Health Faculty to constitute the core team. "Husson has quietly built the third largest concentration of Ph.D.'s east of the Kennebec River, after UMaine and Jackson Lab. The Institute will assist this faculty in pursuing research of direct benefit to the Maine economy and quality of life. We are and will remain a teaching institution but applied research and clinical exploration is one of the best professional development and learning environments," said LaMarche, who has served as a Professor of Medicine at both Tufts University and Brown University Medical Schools.

Husson has added graduate degrees in Nursing and Physical and Occupational Therapy plus undergraduate degrees in Life Sciences and Psychology. Health and Science enrollments are 400 while 70 students are enrolled in the Health Care Administration in Masters of Science in Business Programs. "Clinical research in Parkinson's disease and mental health is already underway," said LaMarche. "Yet, with faculty in everything from neurosciences to kinesiology, to microbiology to marine and forest sciences, we have a pent-up demand to get students out of the classroom, into the woods, and out to sea. Our goal is to identify and become good at a few niches that relate to Maine's natural resource industries and the health of the people of Maine."

Husson has quietly built the third largest concentration of Ph.D.'s east of the Kennebec River. The Institute will assist this faculty in pursuing research of direct benefit to the Maine economy and quality of life.

LaMarche joins Husson after serving for 20 years as Medical Director of Eastern Maine Medical Center and President of Norumbega Healthcare. Valedictorian of his medical class at Boston University, LaMarche's career research interests lie in the area of genetic diseases, rural health and pediatrics. "The Institute will give me an opportunity to expand ties with pharmaceutical and health research colleges while working with Husson."

The Academic Scene

School of Business

For 75 years business offerings at Husson were delivered in Bangor, first in the downtown, then on the "hill," and finally at the new campus. During the 1970's things began to change with outreach through continuing education and the Master of Science in Business. During 1999 the School has taken new and significant steps to evolve again. At the graduate level the School has expanded into new sites within corporations including International Paper and Otis Paper in Jay, Maine and St. Mary's Regional Hospital in Lewiston. At the undergraduate level, a new morning business program has been established at the College's Cumberland County Campus with the first class of Business, Accounting, and Computer students enrolled in September.

There is also a transition at the helm as Dean Jessica Jenner retired and Dr. Paul Young was selected from a national search to become the new Dean of Business effective July 1, 1999. Dr. Jenner introduced new programs, extensive articulations with other colleges, and an innovative core curriculum during her tenure. Dr. Young, a native of Limestone, Maine, who earned his Ph.D. from Catholic University, is a Fulbright Scholar, an entrepreneur, a Lt. Commander in the Naval Reserves, and a past Legislator. He brings exceptional technological know-how to his position. Prior to this appointment Dr. Young served as Executive Director of the Center for Family Business.

School of Health

Husson continues to round out its presence in health with its first class in Occupational Therapy matriculating this past September. Over 200 students are now enrolled in masters degree programs in P.T., O.T., and Nursing while an additional 50 students are enrolled in the Health Care Management Concentration with the Masters of Science in Business programs.

In the undergraduate nursing program a wonderful new dimension has been added with the arrival of a cohort of Korean nursing students. These graduates of Korea's premier nursing schools arrive with their R.N.'s in hand. They have studied intensive English in Husson's ESL program since January and they are now enrolled in their final year of the baccalaureate program. Similar international programs are being considered in the field of Occupational Therapy.

Homecoming was also a special time for the Bangor General Hospital, Eastern Maine General Hospital, Eastern Maine Medical Center, Husson College/Eastern Maine Medical Center alumni association with a formal tea at the Center for Family Business. The history of the nursing program was displayed and alumnae from as far back as the 1920's joined faculty and current students to share experiences, memories, and to honor their profession.

School of Science and Humanities

Husson's newest School began to step out over the past twelve months. New programs in physical education, criminal justice, and psychology began to hit their stride. Husson has entered liberal arts fields very carefully, staying true to the mission of preparing graduates for graduate study and professional careers. All programs have a leadership/business bent to them with close ties to both the Schools of Business and Health.

The arrival of Dr. Paul LaMarche, M.D., and the creation of the Husson Science Research Institute has already led to a significant grant in science education. On the humanities front, Dr. Ken Johnson continues to publish in the field of ethics while the literary journal Crosscuts enters its seventh edition.

In addition to its own majors, the School plays a central role in the new college-wide core curriculum which assures that every Husson student builds a degree on a common core of knowledge and skills regardless of the field of study.

Finally, Husson is revisiting the whole field of teacher education through an education initiative, a curriculum designed to meet national standards and the Maine Learning Results Standards. Through former colleague, U.S. Senator Susan Collins, the College is also staying abreast of the national education agenda.

New England School of Communications

This fall NESCom crossed the Rubicon. Having moved first into two-year associate degrees and then merged with Husson, NESCom enrollments, facilities, and offerings have expanded. Now NESCom is embarked on a new challenge, the introduction of its first four-year bachelor of science degree. Subject to state approval, NESCom plans to offer the B.S. in Communications as early as September 2000.

Davis Education Foundation Grant for Instruction

Husson has received a $149,500 grant for instructional technology from the Davis Education Foundation. The three-year award is designed to provide professional development opportunities to all Husson faculty as they introduce instructional technology in the classroom.

News in Brief

Campus Events

Commencement '99 — Bangor and South Portland

This past spring Husson College gained 400 new alumni. On May 8 at the Bangor campus, the commencement ceremony was held for the 100th time, awarding degrees to 300 students. Dr. Esther Nettles Rauch, the Constance Carlson Distinguished Lecturer in Humanities at Husson, was the speaker. In Portland, 100 students received their degrees on May 2, with House Speaker G. Steven Rowe as speaker.

Putting down more roots

On June 10, a ribbon-cutting ceremony was held to commemorate the opening of the Husson Arboretum, located adjacent to the Center for Family Business. The Arboretum was established in 1998/99 with gifts from Great Northern Paper Company, Marc Quinlan '72, and other generous supporters. It currently contains 32 species of Maine trees (including four American Chestnut seedlings), and shrubs and will remain a work-in-progress.

Camp Aspirations

For two weeks this July, the Bangor campus was serenaded by the sounds of giggling, keyboarding, singing, tromping... and skill saws. Sponsored by the School of Business and the Richard E. Dyke Center for Family Business, "Camp Aspirations!," two one-week camps for girls ages 11-15, were designed to inspire and educate young girls about how to start their own business — learning about computers, corporations, writing a business plan, dressing for success... even etiquette.

1999 Honorary Doctorates

Receiving honorary degrees at Husson's 1999 Commencement were Dr. Esther Nettles Rauch, Doctorate of Humane Letters; Edward L. Hennessey, Jr., Doctorate in Business Administration; and LaJune Means, Doctorate in Public Service.

Senator Mitchell Scholarship Awards

On August 22 Husson College was host to the Senator George Mitchell Scholarship Award recipients. A total of 132 Maine students who will be attending Maine Colleges each received a $4,000 scholarship. Senator George Mitchell was on hand to greet the scholarship recipients and members of their families.

Art Gallery Offerings

The Robert E. White Art Gallery has expanded the scope of its offerings under the direction of the Docent, Margaret P. Borns. This year the gallery offered works by Carolyn and Clyde Folsom, Bangor; Eric Higgins, Portland; William King, Gorham; Tim Flanagan, East Holden; Michael J. Smith, Oakland; David Kofton, Deer Isle; Theo Appel, Bangor; and Bruce Stevens, Monson.

Campus Achievements

Alden Trust Awards Grant

Once again the George I. Alden Trust has awarded a challenge grant to Husson College—this one for $100,000. Established by George Alden in 1912, the trust is aimed at promoting career-related education, and is "especially supportive of institutions that can demonstrate a strong combination of educational excellence with efficient and economical administration."

Balfour Foundation Awards Grant

The Lloyd G. Balfour Foundation awarded Husson College a grant of $175,000 in support of our new MedStart program, under the direction of Dr. Paul LaMarche. This new program is geared specifically toward recruiting rural Maine high school students to careers in medicine. We aim to accomplish this by 1) recruiting students from rural communities in eastern Maine while they are still in high school to become interested in medical careers, 2) working cooperatively with high school science teachers to develop secondary school science curriculum units based on medical problems common in Maine, 3) recruiting mentors who are practicing physicians to work with high school students and, 4) offering a two-week Summer Health Science program at Husson College.

She is presently an Assistant Professor and Director of RN studies at Husson. She teaches two on-line courses to students from as far away as Germany. Mimi is responsible for developing a distance learning program for nurses and is currently developing a computer informatics and research course.

NAIA council taps Husson President

President William H. Beardsley has been named as Member to the Council of Presidents of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics—the governing body of the NAIA that oversees all operations both fiscal and operational. He will serve for three years as a member from the Northeast Council. "Athletic competition and intercollegiate athletics are an important part of college life. The goal of the NAIA is to promote the development of athletics as a part of the educational offerings at member institutions. My personal goal is to help maintain the emphasis by NAIA schools on the scholar athlete," said Beardsley, who played on the 1963 Earlham College Soccer Team that won a national championship in soccer.

We're doing windows!

Next time you visit the campus, you may notice something different about Hart Hall. The residence hall is sporting new windows—complete with low-e, insulated glass and sliding window frames—not only do they prevent heat loss and water leakage, they look great! The plan is to replace four sides of one building per summer.

He stops, HE POPS: $10,000!

By Jonathan Van Fleet, Staff Writer

BANGOR—He stood at the opposite foul line of the basketball court and lined up the $10,000 shot.

Jared Legare hadn't even tried to sink a shot from half court since high school when he was on the Eastgate Christian Academy basketball team.

Now a 20-year-old junior at Husson College in Bangor, the Auburn resident won a chance to shoot a half court shot worth $10,000 if he sunk it.

Just after midnight Friday night during a pep rally, Legare dribbled around the court in preparation. He tossed the ball up in the air a few times to get a feel for it. Meanwhile the crowd of a few hundred of his peers were screaming and yelling during the midnight madness rally. Then he wound up and let it fly.

"It felt good. I shot it like a regular shot. It was straight, but it didn't look like it was going to make it," he said Tuesday. "I wasn't worried about the hoop. I was worried about crossing the (half court) line."

The crowd fell silent as the ball sailed toward the hoop and then ... swish. Nothing but net.

"It was kind of in God's hands," he said. "The chances of it actually happening are crazy."

The money was donated by an insurance agency.

In order to even take the shot, Legare's ticket had to be drawn from all the other tickets handed out that night.

He and his girlfriend, Sarah Dube, were late getting to the rally that night. If they had been on time, then he would have gotten a different ticket, he said.

When Legare sank the shot he was an instant hero. The boys' and girls' basketball teams and a few of his friends ran onto the court and lifted him in the air. After his feet were back on the court he stood and shook hands for almost an hour.

Since then people have been coming up to him and calling him the $10,000-man and asking him for a loan.

He said he's considering wearing a sign on his back with the words "Awesome. I don't know yet. No, you can't have any," to answer the three most frequently asked questions, which are "How do you feel," "How are you going to spend it," and "Can I have some?"

Later Friday night Jared called his parents in Auburn to tell them the news.

"Usually you don't get good news that late at night," his father Don Legare said of his son's 1 a.m. phone call. "I thought it was incredible that he had a chance to shoot at all. To get the ticket, to go down there with all the pressure of the money and the people, it's like a Disney movie."

On the basketball team at Eastgate, Legare was the go-to guy if the game was on the line, his father said.

"They picked the right guy to make that shot," he said.

Jared isn't going to get the money until after the New Year because he doesn't want it to affect his financial aid at college.

Once he gets the money, he's planning to use a portion of it to go on a trip during spring break with his girlfriend and maybe buy a truck, he said. He's also considering giving a portion of it to a needy family. Dube thinks he should use a portion to buy her a diamond engagement ring. Jared said he's thinking about that, too.

"I've been encouraging him to put a big chunk of it towards his college education," Don Legare said.

Jared has one more year left at the 2,000-student Husson College before he graduates with a psychology degree. After that he plans to go on to graduate school, he said.

Room and board for a full year at Husson College are $14,200.

On Tuesday, Jared wanted to test himself. He wanted to know if the shot was skill, luck, or divine intervention.

While there were no warm-ups for Friday's shot, he took 25 shots from beyond half court. He missed every one.

"They were all way off," he said. "It had to be from God."
